What Made Thought? Can You Chew Wheat? Alcohol Kills Too Many. Those Queer Russians.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

THOMAS M'CARTER, head of New Jersey's Public Service Corporation, voluntarily reduces street car fares, abolishing the 10-cent "casual rate," and doing away with compulsory purchase of "tokens." This is news, because it is so unusual.

Nevertheless, those that are fairly old remember that the Manhattan Railroad in New York made no money while it charged 10 cents, and made plenty of money when it reduced the fare to five cents.

DR. IRVING S. CUTTER, dean of the Northwestern University Medical School, develops this theory. Eons of years back, which means billions of years, ultra violet rays were much more powerful than they are now, and they "activated protoplasm into life."

That's how life came.

The doctor does not tell us what activated the living protoplasm into THOUGHT, emotion, art, imagination.

CHAIRMAN LEGGE, of the Farm Board, finds a sensible way of unloading some of the wheat that the government bought to stabilize the price that wouldn't stay stabilized, and his unloading will help, not hurt farmers.

He will stabilize it by feeding it to the hungry. An excellent idea, and the wheat will be worth all that the government paid for it, no matter what the price per bushel.

ROMAN SOLDIERS carried raw wheat in a bag, and chewed it as they marched. Their skulls show teeth in wonderful condition, much worn down.

Our citizens will hardly learn to chew raw wheat on the march, hunting for jobs.

SINCE 1920 and under prohibition, deaths from alcohol in the United States have increased 300 per cent, according to Dr. Hoffman, statistician of the Prudential Life Insurance Company.

It is particularly unpleasant to read that deaths from alcohol have increased among women especially. And it is surprising to read that in the United States under prohibition, deaths caused by alcohol are more than 1,000 per cent more numerous than in a majority of the civilized countries. No civilized country has more than 10 per cent of our deaths from that cause.

What is the matter with us?

THE RUSSIAN government boasts, with reason, of achievements under the "five-year plan." It has actually gathered together the billions needed to carry through the plan.

Russia does curious things. For instance, last year it distributed 12,000 tractors and $24,000,000 worth of other machinery among peasants and others.

THE NATIONAL income of Russia for 1930 is only 33,000,000,000 rubles, about $19,800,000,000. Yet, how much you can do with a little money. Our income is more than a hundred billions of real dollars. But if you suggested giving 12,000 tractors to anybody, you would be called, not merely bolshevistic, but insane.

M'CAULAY, ABLE head of Canada's Sun Life Assurance Company, advises our federal reserve banks to buy $500,000,000 worth of good bonds, thus restoring price levels, increasing money in circulation, starting business recovery.

The Federal Reserve and Treasury Department officials say it would be dangerous "to force currency into circulation."

The war forced currency, billions of it, into circulation. Federal reserve presses worked overtime. But somehow, everything was prosperous, at least for a while.

IT IS PROPOSED to spend two hundred millions, or so, of public money, to help the unemployed. Corporations are urged to tax themselves and contribute.

But you are told there must be no "dole," none of the English system, under which government gives the minimum necessary to live, in cash, directly to those out of work.

EVERYBODY HOPES it will not be necessary to start the dole here. On the other hand, if money were given direct to those that need it to be spent by themselves, that might be better than spending by committees, and avoid the unpleasant feeling of charity.

Give a woman $15 a week and somehow she will take care of herself, and four or five children. No institution can do that.

AGITATION continues about Britain's attitude toward Jerusalem and Palestine generally. Jews denounce Britain's labor government for not living up to its "mandate" and conspicuous Jews resign positions in Zionism as a protest.

Dr. Holmes, clergyman of the Community Church in New York, urges Palestine Jews to unite with the Arabs in a war of passive resistance against the British government along the lines of Gandhi's passive resistance in India.

In Palestine, the British don't collect, they spend millions a year on their mandate, keeping Arabs from murdering Jews. A

REBELS WIN CONTROL IN BRAZIL

President Capitulates and Flees; Military Junta Likely to Be Formed

By AROXELLAS GALVAO.
International News Service.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 24.—With unexpected suddenness, the insurrection which has been sweeping Brazil for the last three weeks attained complete success today with the capitulation and flight of President Washington Luis.

Confronted by an ultimatum from hostile federal troops, the president immediately left the presidential palace and took refuge in the Portuguese legation, according to the most authentic reports obtainable amid present confusion in the city.

NO GOVERNMENT

Flight of Washington Luis left Brazil temporarily without a government. Establishment of a military junta awaited the arrival here of Gen. Juarez Tavora, leader of the revolutionary troops in the north, and Gen. Oswaldo Aranha, southern leader.

Business in Rio de Janeiro came to a standstill with success of the insurrection. Thousands of students paraded through the streets carrying flags and banners. A mob of rioters attacked the "Agencia Americana," official Brazilian government information service, setting fire to the place after destroying the furniture and offices.

Rio de Janeiro was cut off entirely from communication with the interior of the country.

INSURRECTION FLARES

Insurrection blazed in the capital at dawn when 6,000 troops at the Rio de Janeiro garrison, backed by the Brazilian Navy, rose up in revolt. The local garrison had been preparing the coup d'etat for three days because of dissatisfaction with the conduct of the incumbent government.

The revolt immediately spread throughout the city. Mobs pa-

Voting Machine to Be Shown Here

A completed nine-column voting machine will be displayed here next week, according to Attorney H. D. Hirsh, representing the Poole Engineering and Machine Company, of Baltimore, whose $1,000,000 vote-machine contract with Allegheny County has been contested.

An effort is being made to have the hearing on injunction proceedings to invalidate the contract held next week.

Nicholas Delegate To London Air Meet

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Oct. 24. — (AP.) — Prince Nicholas, brother of King Carol, is leaving here in a few days for Paris, where he will attend to family personal affairs. Later he will go to London to act as Rumania's representative at the forthcoming aviation meeting.

Jurist Dead

THOMAS D. CARNAHAN

PARDONED PAIR GET MAXIMUM

Maximum penitentiary sentences were meted out today to Lewis Erska, 26, of 1816 Tell street, North Side, and Timothy O'Brien, 25, of 215 East Eighth street, Homestead, recently pardoned by Gov. John S. Fisher for holding up the Pittsburgh Natatorium.

The jury, which had been locked up all night, returned a guilty verdict, and Judge Samuel H. Gardner sentenced Erska to serve 40 to 80 years on four robbery charges, and O'Brien to 30 to 60 years on three robbery charges.

Judge Gardner ignored the mercy plea by Louis Little, counsel for the defendants, saying:

"Here are two men who, after serving approximately half of the sentence given them, were pardoned, but immediately began another career of crime. They have shown they are a menace to society."

Cannon, Accusers Meet, Charges Stand

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 24.—(AP.)—Bishop James Cannon, Jr., met with the four Southern Methodist ministers who have filed charges against him in a final conference held here yesterday before the charges are referred to a special investigating committee of the church. No details of the conference were available, but Dr. Costen J. Harrell, one of the accusers, said the charges would not be withdrawn.

T. D. CARNAHAN, 23 YEARS ON BENCH, DIES

Former Judge, Retired by Illness, Long Factor in Upbuilding of Pittsburgh

Judge Thomas D. Carnahan, for 23 years on the Common Pleas bench of Allegheny County, died shortly before noon today at his home, 350 South Graham street.

Judge Carnahan retired from the bench last July 25 because of ill health, which had caused him suffering for a period of a year.

He was born in Pittsburgh and had contributed much to the city's progress in drafting laws governing the opening and improvement of streets. He was educated in the city schools and the Western University of Pennsylvania, now University of Pittsburgh. He served many years as assistant city solicitor and city solicitor, during which time his efforts added bright pages in the development of municipality.

NAMED BY STUART

Carnahan was appointed to the Common Pleas bench by Gov. Edwin S. Stuart in April, 1907, and was elected for three full terms thereafter. When he retired he was allowed full pay, $14,000 a year, for the balance of his term, which would have expired in 1938.

Judge Carnahan's death was announced to a full bench at 3 o'clock by Arthur M. Scully, president of the Allegheny County Bar Association.

Mr. Scully said:

"I heard of Judge Carnahan's death with deep regret, and I am sure the other members of the bar will be sorry to hear of his passing. He was a very human judge and had a keen sense of humor. His removal takes away one of the bar's outstanding characters."

LAUDED BY IRONS

Harold M. Irons, chairman of the biography and historical committee of the bar association, said:

"Mr. Carnahan was a great judge and a very useful citizen. He was assistant solicitor and solicitor of the city for many many years, during which time he framed all the existing

FARRELL HOLDS CO-OPERATION KEY TO BOOM

Blames Steel Depression on Price-Cutting; Schwab Optimistic on Outlook

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—"I am a student of business and I am convinced that it is within our hand that in 60 days we can get the steel business back where it belongs."

This was the assertion today of James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel Corporation, speaking at the semiannual meeting of the American Iron and Steel Institute here.

SCHWAB HOPEFUL

Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the board of Bethlehem Steel Corporation, and president of the Institute, declared:

"The steel industry will lead the march to prosperity.

"We should welcome the opportunity to assume the aggressive leadership which business expects of us. This is a task requiring staying power, vision and hard work."

Schwab was exceedingly optimistic regarding the future of business in this country. He declared that it is "significant" that in the past 12 months there has not been uncovered in the nation's economic foundation any basic structural failure.

CAN REVIVE BUSINESS

Mr. Farrell, in his address, declared:

"We can resuscitate the steel business, in my opinion, within

Contract Let For Federal Bank Here

A general contract for construction of the new Federal Reserve Bank building on Grant street near Seventh avenue was awarded to the Mellon-Stuart Company today at a figure of approximately $1,500,000.

The contract calls for construction on the new seven-story building to begin at once. Foundation work will probably start within a week, it is said.

Construction of the new building means employment for a number of Pittsburgh men now out of work, it is said. Of the bidders for sub-contracts, 90 to 95 per cent are Pittsburgh firms, it was announced.

Eleanor Pratt Will Wed New York Man

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—(AP.)—The engagement of Miss Eleanor Pratt, granddaughter of the late Charles Pratt, one of the founders of the Standard Oil Company, and James Ramsay Hunt, Jr., of New York, has been announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Irving Pratt, parents of the bride-to-be, said the marriage would take place next June. Hunt is the son of Dr. and Mrs. James Ramsay Hunt, of New York.

'Flu' Attack Forces Jones From Stump

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 24.—(AP.)—A mild attack of influenza forced Senator Wesley L. Jones to cancel an address. He explained:

"I have gone all my life without an attack of the 'flu.' I have boasted of it and have been warned to 'knock on wood,' but I scorned such advice. Now I am flat on my back."

WHITER SCORED BY PINCHOT

Gifford Pinchot, Republican nominee for governor, has replied to a veiled attack upon him, made here Wednesday night in a radio broadcast by E. T. Whiter, vice president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, which Pinchot supporters have branded a "bread and butter" speech.

Pinchot has charged an unholy alliance exists between the Pennsylvania Railroad Company and the politicians to control the state government by defeating Pinchot at the election November 4.

ATTERBURY BOLTS

Under Pinchot's fire, Gen. W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania, resigned some time ago as Republican national committeeman and joined the associates of William S. Vare in bolting to John M. Hemphill, anti-dry nominee of the Democratic and Liberal parties.

Omitting Pinchot's name, Whiter had urged the public to disregard the attacks made by

FAKE BEING TRACED BY ARREST

Police Expect to Locate Source of Counterfeits; Heavy Bail in Scalping

The arrest of a man near the William Penn Hotel today is expected to disclose the source of the counterfeit tickets for the Pitt-Notre Dame game, through which scores of football fans have been vitcimized, police announced.

The arrest was made by Detective William Sullivan. After a conference with Inspector Frank Boyd, the detective head announced he would make an arrest this afternoon which would expose the gigantic ticket swindle. He refused to disclose the name of Sullivan's prisoner.

Two alleged scalpers were held for further inquiry in $10,000 bail each by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Central Police Court today.

FACE FURTHER QUIZ

Julius Foreman, 311 Herron avenue, and Nathan Cherkos, Philadelphia, arrested yesterday at Fifth avenue and Market street when police allege they found 33 counterfeit tickets in their possession, must face further grilling. Cherkos had been arrested on a scalping charge previously.

Joseph Silow and Barney Cherkos, arrested yesterday, failed to appear for hearing and forfeited $55 each.

George McNamara, of Oakland, testified he had paid Nathan Cherkos $5 for one of the phony tickets, but had the money refunded when he complained.

The men are charged with violating a city ordinance by selling without a permit.

ESTIMATE $30,000 TICKETS

Detectives estimated that between 2,000 and 3,000 bogus tickets were in circulation downtown and a number of business men victimized. The spurious tickets were described as poor imitations and easily detected. The watermarking in the fake ones is poor and the printing not sharp, it was said. Inspector James N. Hoey of the Oakland district expressed belief there were $30,000

Harvard Charwomen Get Help From Lamont

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 24.—(AP.)—Corliss Lamont, son of J. P. Morgan's partner, Thomas Lamont, took up again the cause of Harvard University's 19 discharged scrub women with the statement that the university had failed in its promise made six months ago to investigate and settle the case.

A letter signed by Lamont and several other Harvard graduates in the Alumni Bulletin announced a campaign to raise $3,880 which will be presented the scrub women on Christmas Day. The graduate group contends that sum is due the women because Harvard failed to pay the amount required by the Massachusetts minimum-wage law. The letter says:

"The fund may counteract to some extent the fact that this administration, which during the last six years and the next two will have improved Harvard's material equipment to the extent of some $30,000,000, haggled 19 scrub women out of a paltry 2 cents an hour or 10 cents a day for nine whole years."

The scrub women were discharged last Christmas.

Among the signers besides Lamont were Dr. Haven Emerson, former New York health commissioner; Frederick Vanderbilt Field, of New York, and Lewis Gannet, New York newspaper literary critic.

Coste's Marital 'Trouble' Smothered in Kisses

HAVRE, France, Oct. 24.—(AP.)—Capt. Dieudonne Coste, trans-Atlantic flight hero, debarked from the liner France incognito at 8 a. m. today and his much advertised marital difficulties were immediately smothered in the kisses and embraces of Mme. Coste, who was awaiting him at the pier.

They left for Deauville in an automobile, intending to return here at 4 p. m. for his official debarkation, when he and Maurice Bellonte will be received by Mayor Leon Meyer and the city council.

Coste told newspapermen:

"They certainly do things in a big way in America. By the time we had gone half way on our national tour Bellonte and I were puzzled whether we were in France or in America.

"Only for language our welcome was just as enthusiastic as it might have been or will be in Paris tomorrow. Will you please tell them in the United States how much we appreciated it. Tell them Bellonte and Coste simply feel like shouting 'Vive L'Amerique.'"

EARLY CONGRESS SESSION SEEN TO SPEED JOB RELIEF

WHITE HOUSE SILENT ON PLANS

Government Work Held Up Until Appropriations Are Made; 'Ohio Idea' Adopted

By PIERCE MILLER,
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The White House maintained silence today concerning reports that President Hoover is contemplating bringing Congress into session two weeks in advance of the regular session, due to convene December 1, in order to speed up the government's public works program.

Congressional appropriations are necessary before the government can expand its public buildings program to any appreciable degree.

The "Ohio Idea" of combatting unemployment has commended itself so highly to federal authorities dealing with the problem that Frederick C. Croxton, of Columbus, was appointed today to assist in extension of the plan to other states.

The selection of Croxton was announced by Col. Arthur Woods, federal director of unemployment relief.

CO-ORDINATE WORK

The "Ohio Idea," briefly, is that the state, county and municipal authorities get together and so coordinate their public work that it will be distributed where the need is greatest, and provide an even flow that will prevent gluts and shortages in the labor market, while at the same time extending the maximum of relief.

Meanwhile, the federal government had set an example to the country by assuring jobs, over the winter at least, to hundreds of workers, and was prepared to seek the co-operation of all other agencies that might bring succor to the army of unemployed.

Postmaster General Brown and Chairman O'Connor of the Shipping Board pointed the way for other departments and the country at large. The former issued an order suspending overtime throughout the postal service so as to give the work to substitutes.

DEFER REORGANIZATION

O'Connor announced that contemplated reorganization of the Shipping Board and the Merchant Fleet Corporation, will be deferred. He said:

"We will just forget it. This is no time to let employes out."

His decision means that from 500 to 700 employes scheduled to be released under the reorganization, will keep their jobs for the winter at least and possibly longer.

The Postoffice Department, according to an announcement by Arch Coleman, first assistant postmaster general, is now preparing to take on extra employes for the Christmas season. Although this is an annual procedure, Coleman said this year it would be spread out as far as possible, and married men with families would be given preference.

FAMILY MEN FIRST

"Women and children first" will be the consideration of the government forces in its campaign. Col. Arthur Woods and Secretary of Labor Davis have agreed that employment must be found for the jobless who have families dependent on them. Then single men and women will be cared for. This doctrine will be preached to industry, and is expected to be adopted as a policy generally where possible. Col. Woods, chief of the government's employment campaign, announced he would seek at once the co-operation of "every conceivable agency connected with unemployment."

While his old organization with which he met the crisis of 1921-22 is being mobilized, all government agencies, states and municipalities, will be asked to supply figures on present unemployment.

Bad Check Charge Causes Man's Arrest

F. E. Haley, 39, of the Savoy Hotel, arrested at Federal and Ohio streets on complaint of J. E. Gibson, meat dealer, in the North Side market, was held over for investigation by Magistrate Ray Schneider in North Side Police Court today. Gibson testified Haley, who says he represents a religious newspaper of this city, had given him a bad check several days ago.

PROJECTS HERE COST MILLIONS

Early return of prosperity in several lines loomed for Pittsburgh today with announcement that several millions of dollars would be spent here for river and harbor improvements, replacement work of the Carnegie Steel Company and fabricating plant activity.

The program is in line, it was said, with Col. Arthur Woods' efforts to relieve unemployment by co-ordinating projects, both governmental and commercial.

Of the $1,000,000,000 to be spent by the War Department for river and harbor improvements, nearly $15,000,000 will be the outlay here, it was said at the district engineer's office. Although the program is to be carried over a period of years, an early start is expected to be made.

The United States Steel Corporation will spend $60,000,000 for improvements to plants within the next year. Carnegie Steel Company, local subsidiary of the organization, will be appropriated several millions. The exact amount to be spent here has not yet been ascertained.

The Steel Construction Institute, composed of fabricated steel manufacturers, will double its production the next 12 months, President Hoover was told. Plants of the McClintic-Marshall Steel Company, Fort Pitt Bridge Works, Bethlehem Steel Corporation and others are included in this category.

2 Students Held In Extortion Plot

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—(INS.)—Two high school boys were under arrest today, charged with attempting to extort $5,000 in cash from Dr. Lewis K. Eastman, chairman of Keystone Hospital. Messages received threatened that three children would be kidnaped if the $5,000 was not produced. Detectives trailed a messenger who took a package of marked money to the appointed spot, and John Dalton, 21, and Thomas Hughes, 19, were arrested. Dalton's brother, Willie, stole $750,000 in securities from a trust company here in 1921.

Hosiery Salesman Held, Fraud Charged

Sol Abrams, 32, of 5709 Melvin street, hosiery salesman, was held by Magistrate Charles Papale in East End police court today. He was arrested on complaint of James Phianelli, of 645 Larimer avenue, who alleged that Abrams obtained a deposit and failed to deliver the goods.

DETROIT, Oct. 24.—(AP.)—Detroit shops and factories today were reported to have recalled 2,261 workmen during the past few days, while the municipal unemployment committee has found jobs for 3,803 men.

Birth Rate for '29 In U. S. Lowest On Record

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—(AP.)—The American birth rate for 1929 was announced by the Census Bureau today as 18.9 per 1,000 population, the lowest for any year since 1915 when such statistics were first compiled on a national scale.

At the same time the infant mortality rate also dropped to the lowest point recorded—68 deaths of infants under one year of age for each 1,000 born. This compared with a high infant mortality rate of 101 per 1,000 births recorded in 1916 and 1918.

FARRELL URGES CO-OPERATION

60 days if we co-operate. What we need most is co-operation.

"The steel industry has been passing through rather trying times. I think the greatest thing we did was to take the position last spring that there would not be a reduction in wages. This has been carried out to a great extent. There were a few who have been stupid enough to believe they could make more money by reducing wages.

"We have to take this thing seriously and do something for establishing stability of prices. We can have stability in the steel industry, but we must get rid of the lack of consideration of the rights of the rank and file of the industry.

"We have to get rid of the practice of going after the customer by cutting prices.

"Quotations have been ridiculously low. Our plants should be running today at 70 to 75 per cent of capacity."

Mother of Children Killed in Fire Dies

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Oct. 24.—(AP.)—Mrs. Mary Keenan, 39, is dead here, victim of a fire which took the lives of three of her four children and caused painful burns to her husband, Carl Keenan, 50, in his attempts to rescue them.

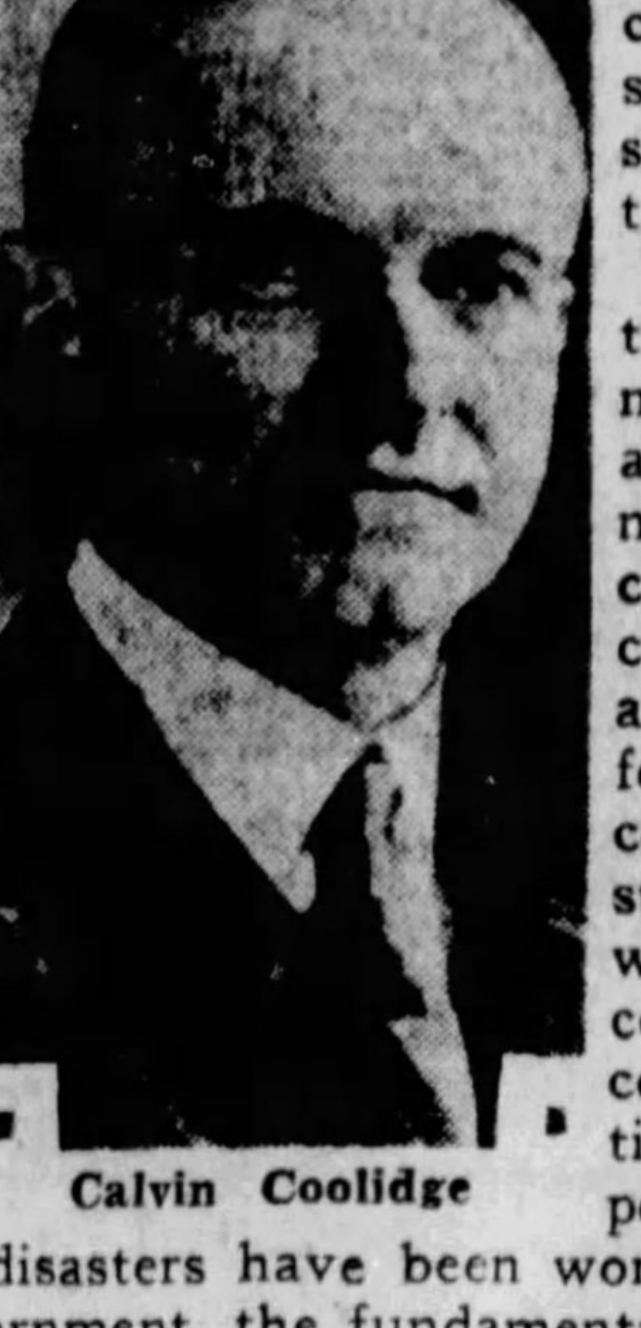
The mother, who was caught in a burst of flames when she threw kerosene into a stove to kindle the fire, died at East Liverpool Hospital.

Coolidge Urges Common Sense as Election Nears

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Oct. 24.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

A political campaign is a very healthful process for a self-governing people. It will develop the weak points in the governmental and economic structures. This is necessary to keep them sound. But there also will be a vigorous demonstration of what is wholesome and good. We have learned to discount the exaggerations of both sides. If we are not so well off as some represent, certainly our condition is not so bad as others claim.



Calvin Coolidge

But the weeks preceding a nation-wide election are filled with so much uncertainty, so many charges and counter charges, that they are not helpful in restoring that public confidence which the country especially needs at this time. There is all the more reason during the next few days for the people to keep their common sense. Nationally and by states, this country is on the whole well governed. In spite of some recession in trade the business of the country remains enormous. The nation is solvent. During a time when political revolutions and economic disasters have been world wide, the strength of our government, the fundamental soundness of our financial institutions, stand unquestioned.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

P. R. R. BUILDING PLAN MAY COST BIG DAMAGES

Utilities Concerns to Demand Compensation for Moving Pipes, Other Devices

Damage suits against the Pennsylvania Railroad for approximately $1,000,000 may follow approval of the new $20,000,000 Pennsylvania Station plans by the Public Service Commission, it was indicated today.

While counsel for none of the nine utility concerns affected by the contemplated railroad plans, which will require relocation of Pittsburgh Railroad Company tracks, closing of streets, shifting of gas lines and telephone wires, etc., would so state, it was made clear by the companies entering formal protest that they expect to be compensated.

Public Service Commissioners Charles A. Young and Samuel Walker yesterday adjourned the hearing until November 6 on the application of the city and county for approval of the contract entered into with the railroad for vacation of streets and reconstruction work. A prompt decision by the commission is anticipated.

RAILWAYS COMPLAIN

W. D. Wiggins, chief engineer for the railroad, on the stand stated that in the 1925 agreement supplemented by the 1930 agreement, not all the utility company costs were to be met by the railroad, but only provision for costs of replacing equal facilities. Attorney P. A. Fleger, for the Railways Company and other Philadelphia Company interests, complained that no plans had been submitted to them by the railroad company and that a rough estimate of the work his companies must do involved an expenditure of $750,000.

Director of Public Works E. G. Lang said he believed the contemplated improvement, including the widening of Penn avenue to 120 feet from Eleventh street to Twenty-first street, would prove of incalcuable benefit to the public. Attorney Fleger took the position that the railroad would be the chief beneficiary.

FOR PRESENT NEEDS

City Engineer Charles M. Reppert admitted the street plans as agreed upon would only take care of present day needs of traffic.

Vice President E. T. Whiter, of the railroad, told the commission he recognized the rights of the Seventeenth Street Incline riders, and plans no doubt could be worked out, giving the incline the proper ingress and egress to Penn avenue. He said the plans as now proposed were the outgrowth of suggestions by the City Planning Commission and this was verified by Hugh N. Arthur, the commission's engineer.

Besides the railways company, other protestants include the Bell Telephone Company, Peoples Natural Gas Company, Equitable Gas Company, Allegheny Traction Company, Citizens Traction Company, Duquesne Light Company, Allegheny County Steam Heating Company and the Seventeenth Street Incline Plane Company.

Carnegie Postmaster Job Open January 6

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—(AP.)—The Civil Service Commission announced that receipt of applications from candidates for appointment as postmaster at Carnegie would close November 18. The term of the present postmaster expires January 6. The salary is $3,300.

REALTY GROUP HONORS CREE

READING, Pa., Oct. 24.—(INS.)—J. W. Cree, Jr., of Pittsburgh, will head the Pennsylvania Real Estate Association for the ensuing year. He was named president at the end of the third day's session here last night.

Addresses by Judge Arthur J. Lacy, of Detroit; Herbert U. Nelson, Chicago; George Porter McMahon, Detroit realtor, and Robert S. Ellis, of Pittsburgh, featured the session.

For the past 28 years, Mr. Cree has been manager of the Denny estate. He is also a director of the Commonwealth Trust Company, a member of the board of governors of the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board for 10 years and twice vice president of the Pittsburgh board. He was also a vice president of the organization he now heads.

Scranton Ex-Mayor Out of Jail on Bond

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 24.—(AP.)—Former Mayor Edmund B. Jermyn, who was sentenced a short time ago to a year in the county jail on a conspiracy charge in connection with the slot-machine scandal, was released this morning under $10,000 bail. His brother, George, qualified as his bondsman. His release was made possible by a Superior Court order.

raded through the streets, attacking the offices of government subsidized newspapers. Thousands of students joined in the demonstrations, while airplanes roared overhead dropping revolutionary proclamations.

Popular antagonism against the government reached its height when word was received here that federal forces planned to use poison gas against rebels invading the state of Sao Paulo.

TROOPS RUSHED

Loyal troops were rushed to the presidential palace immediately upon outbreak of the insurrection here, barricading themselves in the streets surrounding the palace.

A number of conflicts took place between loyal forces and demonstrators near the palace, but for the most part the insurrection here was confined to a show of popular opinion, as evinced by attacks upon government subsidized newspapers. The "Agencia Americana," official Brazilian government information service, was invaded and burned, as was the office of the government newspaper Gazeta Noticias and the magazine Pute Malho.

The manifestations by the populace were without Communist character and were more in the nature of patriotic demonstrations.

90 BULLETS KILL GANG LEADER

International News Service.

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—Authorities today expressed the belief that Joe Aiello, millionaire gang partner of George "Bugs" Moran and the late Jack Zuta, was slain at the command of Alphonse Capone in reprisal for the killing of Alfred "Jake" Lingle, racketeering Chicago Tribune reporter.

Aiello, one of Capone's bitterest foes, had been warned one week ago that he had been marked for death by the scarfaced gang overlord, it was learned. He disregarded the warning. Moran likewise has been warned, police were told.

90 BULLET WOUNDS

Opening fire from four different positions last night Aiello was cut down by a barrage of machine gun fire as he crossed the courtyard of a North Side apartment building on North Kolmar avenue. From the windows of two apartment buildings overlooking the courtyard and from two automobiles the bullets poured.

The dapper Aiello, startled, tried to run, staggered a few steps and fell to the sidewalk. Ninety steel-jacketed bullets, most of them of 45 caliber, had riddled his body, almost cutting him in two across the waist.

CAPONE WINS

Removal of both Zuta and Aiello from the once powerful Aiello-Zuta-Moran triumvirate of gang leaders leaves their territory open to Capone's exploitation, police pointed out.

After the killing, several men raced from the two apartment buildings carrying their weapons and were whirled away in the two automobiles from which a cross fire had been poured. The apartments were rented three weeks ago by a man giving the name of Morris Friend and several other men moved in shortly afterward.

PUT ON "SPOT"

Aiello, when slain, was leaving the apartment of Patsy Presto, wealthy Italian importer and former partner of Tony Lombardo.

Presto, who was accompanying his guest to a waiting taxicab, fell as the bullets began to fly and witnesses saw him lifted to his feet by several men and carried to one of the gunmen's cars. Police were searching for Presto today on the theory that he arranged to put Aiello "on the spot."

Only one conviction stands against Aiello. He was arrested and sentenced in Pittsburgh, Pa., as a pickpocket in 1918, serving 60 days in jail.

England Acts to Banish World War Memories

LONDON, Oct. 24.—(AP.)—With hope of soft-pedalling war memories, the British government has asked other foreign governments to eliminate ceremonies at the Tombs of the Unknown Soldier and Cenotaphs in future official receptions.

No formal statement of transmission of the request has been made by the government, but foreign office officials confirm that the step has been taken with the intention of discouraging perpetuation of the war memories and the bitterness engendered by them.

The conclusion is drawn that henceforth no official visitors in England will be taken to the Cenotaph or Unknown Warrior's Tomb to deposit a wreath, and that British delegates to foreign countries will not participate in such ceremonies.

America Helpless If War Breaks, Pershing Warns

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—(AP.)—A warning to the United States that it will be caught unprepared in event of another war is sounded by Gen. John J. Pershing in an interview published in the Country Home.

The leader of the American armies is quoted as saying:

"People say we should disarm. America already is disarmed. Good men and good women tell us that we should throw away our armaments. We have very little to throw away."

Declaring no one hates war more than he does, he says:

"I pray fervently that there will be no more war. With all my soul I hate it. I have seen it in all its horrors. The great war was called a war to end war. Yet, in these dozen years, think how many disastrous wars have been fought and how many others seem to be in the process of making.

"It is a question whether we shall defend this wonderful country of ours if some other nation, which does believe in war, should attack us."

ARMY PLANES TO GUARD BORIS AND GIOVANNA AT WEDDING

FEAR ATTACK BY FASCIST EXILES

International News Service.

ROME, Oct. 24.—Squadrons of military airplanes were ordered today to escort trains bearing Italian and Bulgarian royalty to Assisi for the wedding tomorrow of King Boris and Princess Giovanna on persistent rumors that four planes landed secretly in the vicinity of Cosica during the night.

Suspecting the mysterious machines might be manned by Fascist exiles seeking revenge, the air squadrons were ordered to patrol back and forth above the church during the ceremony to guard against any possible attack or terrorizing of the royal bridal party.

For the same reason, a squadron of seaplanes was ordered to escort the newlyweds to Varna, Bulgarian seaport, where King Boris and his bride will debark and journey to Sofia.

THRONGS GATHER

ASSISI, Italy, Oct. 24.—(AP.)—Kings and commoners, statesmen and hawkers, soldiers and priests converged on this little city today in anticipation of the marriage tomorrow of Princess Giovanna, third daughter of the Italian king, to King Boris, of Bulgaria.

A royal train bearing the bride and groom, King Victor Emanuel, Queen Elena and others will arrive from Turin and San Rossore. After the ceremony it will carry the royal figures back to old haunts, while Boris and Giovanna leave for a short Adriatic honeymoon prior to a second ceremony at Sofia.

The Roman Catholic ceremony here is by special dispensation of the Pope, who is permitting Giovanna to marry Boris, of the Greek orthodox faith, with the proviso that their children be brought up as Roman Catholics.

A last-minute arrangement will permit the ceremony to be held in the Upper Church of St. Francis, instead of the Lower Basilica, on which it is superimposed.

CHANLER, NOTED ARTIST, DIES

WOODSTOCK, N. Y., Oct. 24.—(AP.)—Robert Winthrop Chanler, noted artist and former husband of Lina Cavalieri, opera singer, died early this morning after a long illness.

Born 57 years ago, on February 22, 1873, he ignored the advice of his family, who wanted him to follow a political career, and turned in early youth to the study of art.

His first European study was in the sculpture classes of Mariano Benlliure at Rome.

His interest in politics revived, however, upon his return to America, and he became a member of Tammany Hall and eventually sheriff of Dutchess County. It was that comparatively unimportant political post which gave him a nickname which clung to him throughout his life. He was known better as "Sheriff Bob."

Handcuffs Snare Villain, Halt Play

IRON RIVER, Mich., Oct. 24.—(AP.)—The curtain rose on the first act of "The Locked Door," a drama by the local Finnish lodge.

Nestor Hill, who took the villain's part, was pursued, captured and handcuffed in the best melodramatic style. But when the time came to remove his handcuffs, the lock refused to function. The audience departed.

The last act of the drama was played in a garage, where a mechanic cut the handcuffs open and released the stage bad man.

forced to spend the night in Pittsburgh as the result of bad weather between here and the Ohio capital.

He is flying back to New York today.

Flying over a route that is to be used for the new trans-continental mail-passenger service, beginning tomorrow, Lindbergh landed at Port Columbus at 10:20 a. m. today, according to news dispatches.

He had taken off here from Bettis Field at 8:15 a. m. after having been forced back yesterday by the rain, sleet and fog over Eastern Ohio.

MAYOR SENDS GREETINGS

Mayor Charles H. Kline today dictated a message of greeting that will be carried on dictaphone records by the first ship of the new service to Mayor John H. Porter, of Los Angeles, and Mayor James Rolph, of San Francisco.

The Mayor, James Francis Burke and James Rae, president of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, will make five-minute speeches at 11:30 a. m. tomorrow when the inaugural plane arrives from the East at Bettis Field.

The Mayor, with a flag, will give the signal for the ship to depart on its westward journey.

Before taking off Lindbergh scanned reports showing favorable weather conditions between here and Columbus. The sky was beginning to clear at Cambridge, O., where he turned back yesterday, and at Columbus a 4,000-foot ceiling was reported.

POSES FOR PHOTO

At Bettis Field the sky was overcast and a ceiling of only 2,000 feet prevailed, but after perusing weather reports Lindbergh said:

"By the time we get over there the weather will be cleared up. Now we will go on through."

He climbed into his plane with R. S. Leroy, in smiling good humor. Someone asked him for the latest reports on Baby Lindy. He merely smiled.

After posing for photographers, Lindbergh and his companions waved goodby. The tri-motored Ford plane, the A-10, taxied to the end of the field, rose and circled the field, then pointed westward and disappeared.

BLAZE IN HOME ROUTS FOUR

Four persons were routed from their sleeping quarters early today when flames of undetermined origin destroyed the home of Edward G. Wettlach, of R. F. D. No. 1, Allison Park. Damage was estimated by firemen at $6,000.

The flames began in rafters on the second floor of one frame structure and spread over the entire upper floor before the arrival of firemen.

Chicago-New York Flights Tomorrow

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—(AP.)—Continental Airways, Inc., will start through air passenger service between Chicago and New York tomorrow in conjunction with Trans-Continental and Western Air, Inc., on daily east-and-westbound schedules. Planes will leave Chicago at 9:05 a. m. and leave New York at 8 a. m., stopping at Dayton, O., and connecting at Port Columbus with the trans-continental ships for Pittsburgh, Harrisburg, Philadelphia and New York.

worth of counterfeits at scalpers' prices, after arresting three men in connection with the sale of them.

The three held in the Oakland Police Station under bond of $1,000 each were docketed as Ralph Swartz, 39, of Phillips avenue; Ralph Schuetzman, 32, of Shirbrook street, and David Manheim, 36, of Forward avenue. The three, Hoey said, bought counterfeit tickets, believing them to be genuine.

Following a hearing this morning in Oakland Police Court, the trio was held over for further investigation on suspicious person charges by Magistrate John O'Connor. Bond was continued.

DENY SCALPING

Nathan Cherkis had been arrested Wednesday with Barney Cherkis and Silow. At a hearing before Magistrate Rothenberg in the Central Police Court yesterday they were held over when the magistrate announced he would consult the city law department for an opinion after the trio contended they were not scalpers, since opening headquarters in fruit juice stands in William Penn way and lower Fifth avenue.

When the gates of the Stadium are opened tomorrow, a large force of bank clerks will be there to watch for spurious tickets, W. D. Harrison, Pitt director of athletics, declared.

Detectives reported finding several hundred bogus tickets in the possession of Nathan Cherkis when he was arrested last night.

SUSPECTS FLEE IN WOODS

CHILLICOTHE, O., Oct. 24.—(AP.)—The woods of Ross County in the vicinity of Taylor's Hill hid the trail of two men—believed to have been the Bowman brothers, leaders of a notorious gang of robbers—long enough to allow them to escape, temporarily at least, officers learned at daybreak today.

All night a posse kept vigil over a wood into which the men disappeared last night after exchanging shots with police. Early today the officer discovered the men had fled, leaving their automobile bogged down in the woods.

They were believed to be Neal and Howard Bowman, leaders of a band of robbers who have been operating in Southern Ohio, West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

THIRD TUNNEL VICTIM DIES

MARTINS FERRY, O., Oct. 24.—Death early this morning claimed its third victim of the tunnel accident on the Adena branch of the Wheeling and Lake Erie Railroad near here yesterday.

Lewis Romada, 35, died as the result of his injuries. He suffered a fractured leg and arm and was crushed about the body. J. O. Sells and Edward Dudda were killed. All of the men were trainmen, residing at Dillonvale, O. It is believed that cars ahead of the caboose struck loose timbers, bringing down the roof of the tunnel.

Woman Views Lindbergh As Sweet-Sour Puzzle

By DOROTHY BIDDLE.

Col. Lindbergh is peevish. Col. Lindbergh isn't peevish. He is not attractive. He is attractive. He is this and that and he isn't this and that.

So a woman sees the "Lone Eagle."

He arrived in Pittsburgh with a frown, left hastily and returned with a smile. Unfortunately, 299 of the 300 women waiting at Bettis Field yesterday saw only the frown—a preoccupied frown that no doubt was meant for the weather.

When he was forced back to Pittsburgh by a treacherous veil of fog he evidently decided to make the best of it, and was a charming, attractive and slightly embarrassed "Lindy." Only one of the 300 was waiting.

Evidently the prospect of staying in Pittsburgh was not unpleasant, for "Lindy" came back with a smile and a friendly word to the one woman who was there to greet him.

Lindbergh said:

"I am disappointed, of course, that I cannot go on to Columbus tonight. I have no immediate plans for my stay here, but will leave that up to the officials of the airport."

BANDITS SLAY PAYMASTER

SALEM, N. J., Oct. 24.—(AP.)—William J. McCausland, 40, paymaster for the Salem Glass Works, was shot and killed by robbers outside the plant today. McCausland was carrying the weekly payroll for the plant's 500 employes, amounting to several thousand dollars.

McCausland had left his motor car and was walking to the door of the plant when three men in an automobile pulled up nearby and hailed him.

As the paymaster turned around, police said, one of the robbers stepped to the running board of the machine and, without warning, opened fire.

PITTSBURGH HEIRESS DIVORCED

Thomas F. Ryan Gets Decree From Moorehead Girl, Ex-Wife of Henry O. Rea

SHERIDAN, Wyo., Oct. 24.—(AP.)—Thomas F. Ryan, II, grandson of the late Thomas Fortune Ryan, New York multimillionaire, has obtained a divorce from Margaret M. Ryan, Pittsburgh heiress, on grounds of desertion. The decree was granted at a hearing in District Court before Judge James H. Burgess.

Testimony of two witnesses, Harry Churchill, member of the Wyoming Game and Fish Commission and friend of the plaintiff, and Mr. Ryan, preceded granting of the decree.

Ryan was married in the Municipal Building in New York on January 17, last year, to Mrs. Margaret Moorehead Rea, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Moorehead, Jr., of Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Ryan, a member of one of Sewickley's foremost families, eloped with the heir of the late financier in January, 1929. She had been Mrs. Henry Oliver Rea until a divorce was granted in May, 1928, on her charges of cruel and barbarous treatment. The Reas, leaders in society in Sewickley, had been married in 1921. Mrs. Rea applied for a divorce in 1927. Testimony had been given before a master and all papers kept secret.

CHARGE 2 WITH GLASS KILLING

DENVER, Oct. 24.—(INS.)—Two separate informations charging first-degree murder against Mrs. Pearl O'Loughlin and her brother-in-law, Frank O'Loughlin, were filed in West Side District Court today.

The informations, though filed separately, charge in each case the felonious and malicious murder of 10-year-old Leona O'Loughlin, stepchild of Mrs. O'Loughlin, and niece of Frank.

District Attorney Earl O. Wettengel announced that Leo O'Loughlin, husband of the accused woman, had requested that charges be filed against his brother, Frank. The information related no details of the alleged crime.

Escorted by two detectives, Mrs. O'Loughlin was brought into an ante-room, where a quarrel broke out when counsel for Mrs. O'Loughlin demanded that a deputy sheriff be ousted from the room.

Argentina Sends U. S. 5 Million Gold Pesos

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 24.—(AP.)—A shipment of 5,030,400 gold pesos ($3,873,408) was sent to the United States by the Banco de la Nacion for use in helping to stabilize Argentine exchange. It was directed to several New York banks.

Cissie Loftus Dances Out Of Past Into Talkies

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Oct. 24.—(INS.)—Cissie Loftus, English musical comedy star, accompanied by 18 trunks and her pet cat, stepped out of the past today and was assured of an imperishable future.

Miss Loftus celebrated her fifty-fourth birthday and the twenty-fifth anniversary of her first visit to Southern California by arriving in Hollywood to make talking pictures.

When Miss Loftus first stepped upon the boards of a London music hall, in 1903, nobody had ever had so wild a dream as the reality of talking pictures. Old timers who "knew her when" wished her youthful charm could have been recorded in the films.

Her first appearance here was in 1905 with one of E. H. Sothern's companies in the play "If I Were King."

Now Miss Loftus is under option to the Fox studio to make one or more pictures, titles and scenarios not yet selected.

1,000 DISTRICT AIDES INDORSE PINCHOT

Armstrong Flays Elected County Officials Absent From Hotel Henry Rally

Gifford Pinchot, Republican nominee for governor, and his running mates, were indorsed by more than 1,000 workers of the Eleventh and Twelfth Legislative Districts at a meeting last night in Hotel Henry headquarters of the Republican campaign committee.

The two districts extend from Elizabeth to McDonald, south of the Ohio and Monongahela rivers. Some of the workers had traveled 25 miles to be present.

OFFICIALS ABSENT

County Chairman Joseph G. Armstrong, who presided, asked for a roll call that revealed every elected county official absent although each had been invited. Armstrong said:

"They ought to be here and not hiding behind a board. They were put on the public payroll by the Republican organization, and when they are not here they can't expect the same consideration in the future they received in the past.

"Any person that profits by this organization should put into it as much as he gets from it. That goes for Armstrong and the others."

Absentees were Controller R. G. Woodside, Treasurer John Francies, Sheriff R. S. Cain, Clerk of Courts S. J. Topley, Coroner W. J. McGregor, District Attorney Andrew T. Park, Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell and Recorder of Deeds S. D. Foster.

Armstrong explained that Mayor Charles H. Kline had expected to attend, but was suffering from a severe cold, and did not wish to leave home on account of the rain.

Topley, McGregor and Park attended the first organization meeting October 10 in Hotel Henry headquarters and urged support for the entire ticket.

REPORTS PARK ILL

Veren Edwards, assistant district attorney, declared that Park had planned to be present last night, but was confined to his home through illness. Edwards declared:

"I can say, however, that the whole force of the district attorney's office is for the Republican ticket from top to bottom."

CAVANAUGH PROMISES VOTES

Burgess John Cavanaugh, of Homestead, said:

"If every election district in the Eleventh and Twelfth Legislative Districts comes in like Homestead, Homeville and the Thirty-first Ward, there will be no defections from the straight Republican ticket.

"If James J. Davis gets 15,000 votes for United States senator, Gifford Pinchot will get the same for governor. James S. Crawford, burgess of Duquesne and chairman of the Eleventh Legislative District, could not come here, but he told me he was for the entire ticket."

Attorney George W. Brawner, burgess of Rosslyn Farms, stated:

"The cornfields and pumpkin patches will pile up a big percentage of the county's majority."

Supporters of Pinchot in the primary who pledged support for the whole ticket were former President of Council James F. Malone and Mrs. Lois Downs McBride, chairman of the women's division.

City administration leaders of the two legislative districts who urged support for Pinchot and his running mates included William J. Soost and Mrs. Lillian Morgart, chairman and vice chairman of the Republican City Committee, and these ward chairmen: F. A. Sacher, of the Twenty-ninth; Lon Macintosh, of the Thirtieth; C. J. McBride, of the Thirty-first, and Attorney J. J. McGrath, of the Thirty-second.

PLEDGE PINCHOT AID

Nominees for the Legislature who declared they had supported Francis Shunk Brown in the primary, but now were for Pinchot and the ticket, were Frank Reed and Frank Hoffman, of the Eleventh, and M. A. Dunn, Dr. J. G. Steedle, M. A. Mussmanno and F. C. Gangloff, of the Twelfth.

Other speakers were State Senator Frank J. Harris, D. B. Jones, referee of the State Workmen's Compensation Board; Attorney John F. Conley, chairman of the Republican Committee of Carnegie Borough; A. W. McMillen, of Carnegie; C. M. Shoaf, of Elizabeth, member of the Board of Viewers; William Dodds, of Banksville; Mrs. Laura J. Hinnau, vice chairman of the Republican County Committee, and Mrs. Nell Rose Reiter, of Crafton, member of the Republican State Committee.

Fire Routs Family; 3 Firemen Injured

ALTOONA, Oct. 24.—Fire routed Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Henry, of Duncansville from their home when they were awakened by falling plaster and found the home ablaze. The house was destroyed, firemen being unable to check the fire due to a water shortage. Fire Chief Raymond Baker and Dewey Brawley and Ellsworth Magill, firemen, were slightly injured, suffering lacerations when a wall fell out.

Hospital Searched For Missing Radium

WILMINGTON, Del., Oct. 24.—(INS.)—A capsule of radium, very small, but said to be worth between $1,500 and $1,700, has been lost in Wilmington General Hospital, it was learned today. Every nook and cranny of the hospital has been searched and portions of the plumbing ripped up, but without discovery of the capsule.

Bishop Griswold Ill, Undergoing Crisis

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 24.—(INS.)—Critically ill from acute heart and kidney ailments, Bishop Sheldon M. Griswold, of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago, today was undergoing a crisis which is expected to determine whether he will survive. The Bishop underwent a sinking spell yesterday, according to Dr. Dwight F. Clarke, attending physician.

Pinchot on public utilities. Whiter said:

"On election day we are going to say with our votes whether we will stop throwing bricks at important leaders or will assist them in keeping our industries going and putting men back to work."

When Pinchot's attention was called to the speech, he said:

"Mr. Whiter is apparently following in the footsteps of Gen. Atterbury, his boss."

PINCHOT TO BROADCAST

Pinchot returned here today after campaigning Ambridge, New Brighton, Beaver Falls and New Castle. After a broadcast at 6:15 p. m. today over KDKA, he is due at a banquet in his honor at 7 p. m. in the Penn-McKee Hotel, McKeesport, under the auspices of the Ninth Legislative District Republican Committee headed by State Senator William D. Mansfield.

Gen. Edward Martin, Republican state chairman, is due here tomorrow to join nominees at a noon meeting in front of the City-County Building for the regional rally of Western Pennsylvania. County Chairman Joseph G. Armstrong will present Mayor Charles H. Kline, who will welcome the visitors to the city.

Nominees will include Pinchot, James J. Davis, for United States senator; Judge James B. Drew, for judge of Superior Court, and Phillip H. Dewey, for secretary of internal affairs.

GUEST AT BANQUET

Pinchot will be honor guest at a banquet tomorrow night in the William Penn Hotel under auspices of the Richard W. Martin Republican Association. Prior to the dinner, Pinchot will witness the Pitt-Notre Dame football game and broadcast at 6:30 p. m. over KDKA.

Pinchot's reply to Whiter's broadcast follows:

"Buses in Pittsburgh charge 25 cents for a 10-cent ride. Trolleys in Philadelphia charge eight cents for a five-cent ride, and in Pittsburgh 10 cents for a five-cent ride. As a result, millions are yearly added to the high cost of living and these millions come out of the pockets of wage earners throughout the state.

"Work was not plenty and times were not good when I went into office eight years ago. Work was plenty and times were good when I went out of office four years ago. If this happened before why should it not be true again?

CALLS CLAIM NONSENSE

"This talk that Pinchot would be bad for business is transparent nonsense, just as the Liberal Party's claim that it is trying to abolish the Eighteenth Amendment is. Both are cries of great special interests trying to hang on to their graft and avoid fair regulation in the public interest.

"Now that the Liberal party, as representing a general attempt to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment, has blown up, the Liberals are totally without even the semblance of a constructive program. They are reduced to repeated attacks—vague generalities mostly—and the direct, but totally unconfirmed, statement that my election would be bad for business.

"Nothing is easier than to make such a general statement and nothing harder than to prove it. Nothing has yet been shown why it would be bad for business to reduce the rates on electric power to manufacturers to a decent figure.

SEES CHANCE OF RELIEF

"No one has shown why it will be bad for business to have electric rates of shopkeepers brought down to a figure that would have some decent relation to the cost of supplying the service. This period of depression can be relieved at least to some extent if the overcharges of electric utilities, for example, were replaced by fair and reasonable rates.

"The method by which the companies gouge the public is perfectly well known and has been known for years. It is the old trick of making people pay rates that will produce interest on huge quantities of water. The result is that electric light, which should never be higher than 5 cents a kilowatt hour, is charged for at 7, 10, 12 and 16 cents, in certain cases even higher."

M'CULLOUGH TO SPEAK FOR DEMOCRATS

Meeting at Noon; T. A. Dunn Hints Big Hemphill Vote, Hits Party Regularity

Attorney F. X. McCullough, nominee for state senator in the Fortieth District, will be the principal speaker at noon today in Democratic headquarters, Magee Building, 334 Fourth avenue.

Thomas A. Dunn, Democratic candidate for mayor last year, spoke at the noon meeting in headquarters yesterday, urging support for John M. Hemphill, Democratic nominee for governor, who is backed by the Liberal party composed mainly of Republicans that have bolted Gifford Pinchot, Republican gubernatorial nominee. C. G. Llewellyn, former collector of internal revenue, presided.

DUNN IGNORES KISTLER

Dunn did not say a word in behalf of Sedgwick Kistler, Democratic nominee for United States Senator, or any other of the nominees on the Democratic ticket. Dunn said:

"We have heard a lot about regularity in politics and to my way of looking at it, it is all bunk. In every case the candidate should be analyzed by both sides and there is no reason why a man should be voted for because he is a Democrat or a Republican.

"If this yardstick is used in the election November 4, and outstanding merit considered, which should be done in the best interests of the Commonwealth, then Hemphill will be the next governor of Pennsylvania.

"In 1928 the Democrats of this city in the primaries, registered only 34,000 votes, but Gov. Smith received 84,000 in the election. In last year's primary, the Democrats registered only 5,000 votes in the city, and I received 41,000 in November.

"So it speaks well that history may repeat and give Hemphill a larger vote than was given Gov. Smith in 1928 thereby showing the wiseacres that the people register one way but vote the other way."

DONORA HEARS HEMPHILL

CHARLEROI, Pa., Oct. 24.—Ideals of the Democratic platform in Pennsylvania, calling for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and the return of liquor control to the states, was likened yesterday by John M. Hemphill, Democratic-Liberal gubernatorial candidate, to those of Carrie Nation, pre-prohibition saloon wrecker.

"We are really Carrie Nations," Hemphill told a gathering of citizens at Donora, near here. "Carrie Nation sought for real temperance. We have the same thing in mind today.

The campaign of Gifford Pinchot, Republican nominee for governor, "is crumbling and falling about his ears" because he has refused to meet the prohibition issue, Hemphill said.

Promotions Issued By Reserve Corps

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—(AP.)—Commissions in the Officers' Reserve Corps were issued by the War Department to the following Pennsylvanians: Dana L. Barbour, Greensburg, major, Coast Artillery; John T. Crawford, West Newton, first lieutenant, Engineers; Elmer E. Lapp, Pittsburgh, first lieutenant, Coast Artillery; Chester A. Lee, Pittsburgh, captain, infantry; Robert E. Sadtler, Wilkinsburg, captain, infantry; Paul Edwin Wilkins, Franklin, captain, infantry.

Italian Helicopter Claims 3 Records

ROME, Oct. 24.—(AP.)—Three world's records, for duration, distance and altitude of flight, are claimed by the Royal Aero Club for the new Italian helicopter L'Ascanio.

The helicopter, piloted by Maj. Nello Marinelli at Ciampino air field, stayed in the air for eight minutes 45 1-5 seconds. In a straight line it traveled 3,284 feet in 5 minutes 12 1-5 seconds, and it rose 54 feet in 1 minute 40 1-5 seconds.

Utilities Director Urges Support of Hemphill

James D. Callery, president of the Diamond National Bank and director of the Philadelphia Company, which dominates the trolley, gas and electric fields in this section, has urged support of John M. Hemphill, Democratic-Liberal party nominee for governor as a "necessity from a business and industrial standpoint."

Callery is one of a score of Republican executives of banks, utility companies and manufacturers who are members of the Liberal party's money-raising committee in a campaign to defeat Gifford Pinchot, Republican gubernatorial nominee.

Pinchot is pledged to stop public utilities from charging exorbitant rates. He has stated almost daily that fair utilities which earn a reasonable profit by charging fair rates for good service are imperative to the welfare of the people and that he would encourage them. Callery said:

"It does seem to me, and I base my opinion not only on personal observation, but on information received from leaders who have been friends of Hemphill for many years in Philadelphia, as well as in other sections, that our candidate is an upstanding citizen and has all the qualifications required to make a mighty good governor. It is highly important, especially at this time, that the qualities of the candidates be widely known.

"Hemphill is a first-class man. Unlike his opponent, he is not given to indulging in destructive criticism. Hemphill, I have every reason to believe, will make a record as governor of which we may all be proud and which will be a credit to our great commonwealth as well as to our Pittsburgh community. He is a first-class man and will, in my opinion, be a first-class governor."

CHURCH URGES CLERGY BACK HEMPHILL

Carnegie Institute Head Calls Anti-Dry Candidate Foe Of State 'Blue Laws'

Samuel Harden Church, president of Carnegie Institute, in a broadcast last night over KDKA, urged clergymen to support John M. Hemphill, anti-dry candidate of the Democratic and Liberal parties for governor.

Church declared:

"I want to convert all the clergymen in Pennsylvania and all the members of the Women's Christian Temperance Union and all the open-minded Republicans in Pennsylvania to vote for John M. Hemphill for governor of this commonwealth. He is no tool of the utilities or the vested interests. Such a man will never be anybody's tool. He doesn't put his fist in the air and threaten to paralyze business. He is going to study the utilities question with a sane mind.

PROHIBITION PARAMOUNT

"The paramount question in this campaign is prohibition and that will be the paramount question in every campaign in this country until it is settled, and settled right. Hemphill is the candidate of the Liberal party and he is frankly and persistently for the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

"Another question with which the Liberal party is concerned is the question of the Blue Laws of 1794.

"When, four years ago, in a hearing before the judiciary committee of the United States Senate, I made the statement against the Lord's Day Alliance that it was composed of rich men who ride in their automobiles, play golf and see moving pictures in their clubs, all on Sunday, and that it was keeping the common people from the enjoyment of those pastimes, the reverend president of that association sent me a telegram denouncing me as a false witness.

CHALLENGE UNANSWERED

"I replied that I would give him the proof from his own records and that if he would let me have a list of the one hundred largest contributors to his Blue Law fund, I would show him and the world at large how much hypocrisy there is in his tyrannical work.

"Instantly his wrath left him. He said that would be an embarrassing thing for him to do. Would I not come to New York and take dinner with him and when we looked into each other's eyes, he was sure that I would see the matter as he saw it.

"I declined his hospitality but my challenge has been before him now for four years and still he will not give me the list of his subscribers because he knows that my accusation is true.

"The Liberal party will do away with Sunday laws because they are based upon sectarian prejudices, restrict the development of culture and freedom and restrain the innocent happiness of our people."

GRUNDY WARNS PARTY

HARRISBURG, Oct. 24.—Senator Joseph R. Grundy warned Republican leaders assembled here yesterday that election of a Democratic governor would create a situation paralleling the control of New York State by the Tammany organization of New York City.

He urged the party leaders to go back to their counties and work with their official representatives for the success of the entire Republican ticket.

Gen. Edward Martin, Republican state chairman, welcomed the visitors and told them that this meeting and one held here last Monday were necessitated by large defections from the party ranks by Philadelphia politicians. Martin said:

"No minority of the party has the right to question the will of the majority. The party will degenerate if one section continues to secede."

Nurse Ends 43 Days In Artificial 'Lung'

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—(AP.)—Frances McGann, student nurse in a Chicago hospital, began her forty-fourth day in a respirator today showing "steady improvement."

Hospital authorities said she was eating and sleeping normally and that she was removed for a half an hour or more at several intervals daily.

Woman, Disorderly, To Get Mental Test

Mrs. Irene Desemo, 48, of 15 Washington street, was held for mental examination by Magistrate T. D. Jones in Morals Court, today. E. M. Smith, an agent of the Humane Society, testified she made life miserable for her husband by drinking and jealous fits and that on one occasion she upset a hot stove.

Infant Mortality Rate in State Drops

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—(AP.)—Pennsylvania, the Department of Commerce announced, had a birth rate of 19.8 per thousand in 1929, while the infant mortality rate was 71. The infant mortality rate was one per thousand less than the preceding year and 39 per thousand less than in 1915.

ENTRANCE TO McCANN'S NEW DOWNTOWN STORE

A Word of Thanks . . . We take pleasure in thanking those friends of McCann's Butter—both producer and consumer—who helped build the little Butter and Egg stall of 1873 into America's Unique Food Store of today—McCANN'S.

"The best Rewards of Last Year's Work
Do Something Better This Year"

FAMOUS EUROPEAN CHEFS have achieved Fame with butter—just fame too, for with it they have created marvelous art pieces for table decoration.

But it remained to Pittsburghers to Build a BUSINESS with Butter.

Back in 1873 two brothers—the McCanns—opened a small Butter and Egg Stall in the old Market House. They selected the freshest eggs, the best butter they could buy.

A few customers bought McCann's butter on the opening day. Perhaps even they didn't know why they made this first visit to McCann's! But they did know why they made a second visit.

Here they found butter so newly churned—so rich in flavor—so much better than any other butter they had used—that they wanted more of it.

They spoke of it to neighbors, and the next day more customers visited McCann's—a little warily perhaps—for butter can be so variable in quality. But McCann's Butter—they found—was always of the same fine flavor—always churn-fresh.

It didn't take long for this good news to spread, and soon hundreds of particular Pittsburghers learned to know and depend upon McCann's butter.

In all these 57 years of McCann's development, McCann Butter has never varied in quality. Folks have learned to depend upon it.

People who do not know McCann's would be amazed to see customers standing four rows deep at the long, immaculate butter counters. They would be surprised to see the number of expert butter cutters who cut pound after pound of butter all day long before their eyes.

Last year three million pounds of McCann's Butter were purchased by discriminating Pittsburghers . . . Do you wonder that McCann's is known as "The Business that Butter Built"?

QUALITY in BUTTER

Repetition of words somehow often make them meaningless to us. Eggs, coffee, butter—we order these foods so often! But these words, alone, may mean anything. Butter may be unspeakably poor—or it may be rich in cream, freshly churned, delicately flavored and properly safeguarded.

For nearly sixty years thousands of Pittsburghers have known that by ordering McCANN'S BUTTER they are assured of the finest quality butter at a right price.

McCann Butter—like all McCann products—is subject to the McCann policy of Standards. Every producer supplying McCann with butter knows this and gives McCann's the richest, the freshest butter they produce.

DR. BEACH RITES TOMORROW

Dr. William M. Beach, 71, one of the founders of Presbyterian Hospital and an authority on American Protologic Society, who died yesterday, will be buried tomorrow afternoon from Moreland funeral home.

Dr. Beach died at the family residence, Hampton Hall, Dithridge street. He was widely known as a surgeon, having practiced in Pittsburgh for more than 40 years. After many years on the staff of Presbyterian Hospital, Dr. Beach carried on his profession in St. John's Hospital.

He was one of the founders of the American Protological Society, in which Dr. Beach held several offices before it became a part of the American Medical Association. He was a member of the American College of Surgeons and Allegheny Medical Association.

Born near Grove City, he was graduated from Waynesburg College in 1882, and prior to graduating from the Jefferson Medical College taught in a Missouri college for five years. He was married to Miss Lucy Miller, of Waynesburg, in 1882. He was an elder of the First Presbyterian Church for 35 years and a member and officer of the Pittsburgh Presbyterian Union for many years.

EDITOR SHOT IN POLITICAL FEUD

MADISON, W. Va., Oct. 24—(AP.)—Efforts to enter the plant of the Coal Valley News here early today resulted in the serious wounding of a man identified by Luther Jones, editor of the paper, as Amos Sullivan, 30, Logan County deputy sheriff.

Jones believed Sullivan and his companions attempted to enter the building to destroy equipment used in publication of the Guyan Valley News, a Logan County weekly published in the Coal Valley News shop, recently established to oppose the Republican candidates for county offices.

Elmer Jones, brother of the Coal Valley News editor and assistant editor of the paper, was arrested by W. G. Wamsley, state policeman, and when arraigned before Justice of the Peace C. F. Hager was placed under $5,000 bond on a charge of malicious shooting.

Rum Case Forgery Draws Prison Term

A plea of guilty to forgery and perjury drew a prison term today of one to two years for Harry Fineberg, 34, of Joseph street. He was sentenced by Judge George V. Moore.

Fineberg admitted last week that he had signed the name of his mother, Mrs. M. Fineberg, to a bail bond for Joseph W. Lennowitz in a liquor case.

Sunday Game Fine Appeal Halted Again

An appeal of Hugh Pascarella from a $2 fine following conviction for violation of the Sunday Blue Laws, was postponed for the third time today in County Court until next Friday. Pascarella was fined by Magistrate Charles Papale after police testified his team had played amateur baseball on Sunday.

Sheriff Kept Busy Feeding Seals Held in Debt

JACKSON, Miss., Oct. 24.—(AP.)—Deputy Sheriff Will Sandel is worried. Sallie, Oscar and Annie, three trained seals, are consuming some 300 ounces of fish per day, and Sandel is "keeper of the seals" whether he likes it or not.

The submarine girl in a carnival show had the seals attached to secure her suit for $345 which she claims due her as back wages. The sheriff's office must feed the animals until the case is settled.

The sheriff is considering putting on a show to defray expenses, but he faces a difficulty. No double for the submarine girl can be found among his deputies.

Meanwhile the seals continue in good appetite.

CITY AWARDS PAVING JOBS

Edward G. Lang, director of the Department of Public Works, today announced the city had awarded contracts totaling $165,651 for street improvements.

The largest, the paving of Eleventh street from Etna street to Penn avenue, was awarded to R. D. Thomas & Co., for $43,785. Other projects include the Thirteenth street improvement, paving Cadet avenue south from Pioneer, Campania street from Lincoln to Gopher, Climax from Arlington to Amanda, Shady from Beechwood to Ludwig, and Caldwell east from Snowden.

All the work is to be completed by the end of the year, except the Cadet and Campania jobs.

HOLDS NATIONS BALK DOPE WAR

ANTWERP, Oct. 24.—(Universal.)—Failure of governments to allow international police to tackle the illicit dope trade in an efficient manner is being blamed today for the thriving smuggling business which is adding to the number of the world's dope addicts.

This charge was made by Dr. E. Weiss, vice president of the Berlin police, in a complaint to the Third International Police Congress here that police in civilized countries are barred from getting at the facts of the illicit narcotic trade.

The battle of the world's hygienists against dope smuggling gangs has been sadly disorganized, Weiss said. The opium commission of the League of Nations will be a failure, he charged, so long as there is only one police expert on the body.

MYSTERY GIRL DIES FROM GAS

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—(AP.)—In a luxuriously furnished apartment within walking distance of Broadway, Miss Lee Rutan, 27-year-old brunette, died while gas flowed from an opened jet.

Battering in the door, a policeman found her body, clad in a silk dressing gown, in an overstuffed chair. Across her lap lay a sheet of paper and in her hand was a pencil as if she had been about to write a note when death came. The walls were lined with heavy silks and the wardrobe was filled with expensive clothes.

Police could locate neither friend nor relative. The apartment house superintendent said she spoke to no one and had few visitors.

LITTLE THEATER PLAY TONIGHT

"Fingers," a drama of boy life, will be presented at the East Liberty Carnegie Library by the American Boy Players at 8:30 tonight. The play will be under the auspices of the Little Theater of Pittsburgh.

Lewis H. Abel, executive secretary of the Little Theater of Pittsburgh, will look after the boy players on their tour through Western Pennsylvania. Sun-Telegraph newsies have been invited to attend the show as guests of the officials of the Little Theater.

Noted Suffragist Leader Target For Eggs

NEW CASTLE, N. S. W., Oct. 24.—(AP.)—Eggs were thrown at Mrs. Tom Walsh—formerly Miss Adela Pankhurst, daughter of the suffragette leader—today during a political meeting, but the missiles all missed their target.

The meeting broke up in disorder and Mrs. Walsh was given police protection. She has been campaigning on behalf of the Nationalists during the states election campaign.

PASTOR HUNTS LOST SON HERE

Aid of the Missing Persons Bureau was sought today by the Rev. John W. Link, of Mt. Pleasant, N. C., who is seeking his son, John, 16, missing for more than a week.

A student at Wittenberg College, Springfield, O., the youth disappeared after he wrote the following note to a classmate:

"I am restless and tired. I am going to take a long bus ride."

Since his son's disappearance, the father told bureau attaches, he has received two postcards from him dated Pittsburgh.

BELLEVUE BIDS ON SCHOOL HIGH

Members of the Bellevue School Board will meet Wednesday to consider bids opened last night for a two-story addition to the Grant School.

An architect estimated the building could be erected for $100,000, but the bids indicated the expenditure would approximate $150,000, members of the board said.

The bids opened were for the general construction, electrical work, plumbing, heating and ventilating.

Sick Man Flees Bed As Fire Burns Home

Damage estimated at $2,000 was caused this afternoon when, according to firemen, an overheated furnace fired the third floor walls of the residence of W. C. Corcoran, 450 South Aiken avenue. Ill in bed, Corcoran was forced to flee his home.

SAINT-GAUDENS LAUDS EXHIBIT

The first of a series of lectures on the Twenty-ninth International Art Exhibition was delivered last night by Homer Saint-Gaudens, director of fine arts at Carnegie Institute, in the Carnegie Music Hall. He spoke on "The Artistic Idea."

He declared the International represents not what the institute, its trustees or officials or the people of Pittsburgh think is present day art, but that which, within the limits of space and money, represents the opinion of the pooled artistic intelligence of the nations represented.

Next Monday night the second lecture of the series will be given by Royal Cortissoz.

RCA HEAD HOLDS OUTLOOK GOOD

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—(AP.)—Edward E. Shumaker, president of the RCA-Victor Company of Camden, N. J., told the membership council of the Merchants Association of New York that the causes of our business ills had been removed.

Shumaker said business reacts to prosperity as an individual does and becomes sick from over-expansion, over-production and all the attendant evils accumulating in the boom period of 1927-29. He showed that savings accounts had increased and that business recession was only 10 per cent below normal years.

TRAFFIC DEATH TOLL UP HERE

Percentage of fatal traffic accidents in Pittsburgh has increased 7.08 during the last year, according to Lewis W. McIntyre, city traffic engineer.

An increase of 8.4 per cent was shown in the non-fatal accident report. A total of 1,344 non-fatal accidents was reported during the last year, and 136 fatal accidents occurred during the nine months ending October 1. The reports were prepared for the Better Traffic Committee.

Young Clerics Fill Sacred Heart Pulpit

An innovation in church activities is promised starting Sunday night at Sacred Heart Catholic Church, Alder street, when the first of a number of the younger clergymen of the Pittsburgh diocese will occupy the pulpit as guest speaker. Misses' New Frocks

Woolsheers for School Silks for Under-Coat Wear
Chiffons for Dinner Wear

$16.75

What a surprising and gratifying group of dresses from every standpoint . . . quality, smartness and variety!

Among the silk frocks are many which will be recognized as copies of much higher priced models . . . Straightline, tunic and bolero models, with velvet bows, angora trimming, and some eyelet-embroidered.

Woolsheer frocks in two-tone tunic effects, peplum models and one-piece tailored styles; and frocks of wool jersey with yarn-embroidered sleeves.

The chiffon dinner frocks are sleeveless ones, accompanied by detached long sleeves which may be added at will . . . In bright red, blue, green.

...Horne's, Second Floor...

Costume Pearls*

$1.95 $2.95

The rich, creamy tones that make pearls* a perennial jewelry fashion are particularly lovely with the rich colors of autumn and winter frocks.

This new collection offers almost unlimited choice for daytime and evening wear . . . lariats—one, two, and three-strand necklaces — evening pearls with back pendants — chokers. Clasps and ornaments of rhinestones, colored crystals, and baguettes lend their sparkle to contrast with the delicacy of the pearls*.

Simulated.*

...Horne's, Main Floor...

Washable Kid Mousquetaire Gloves

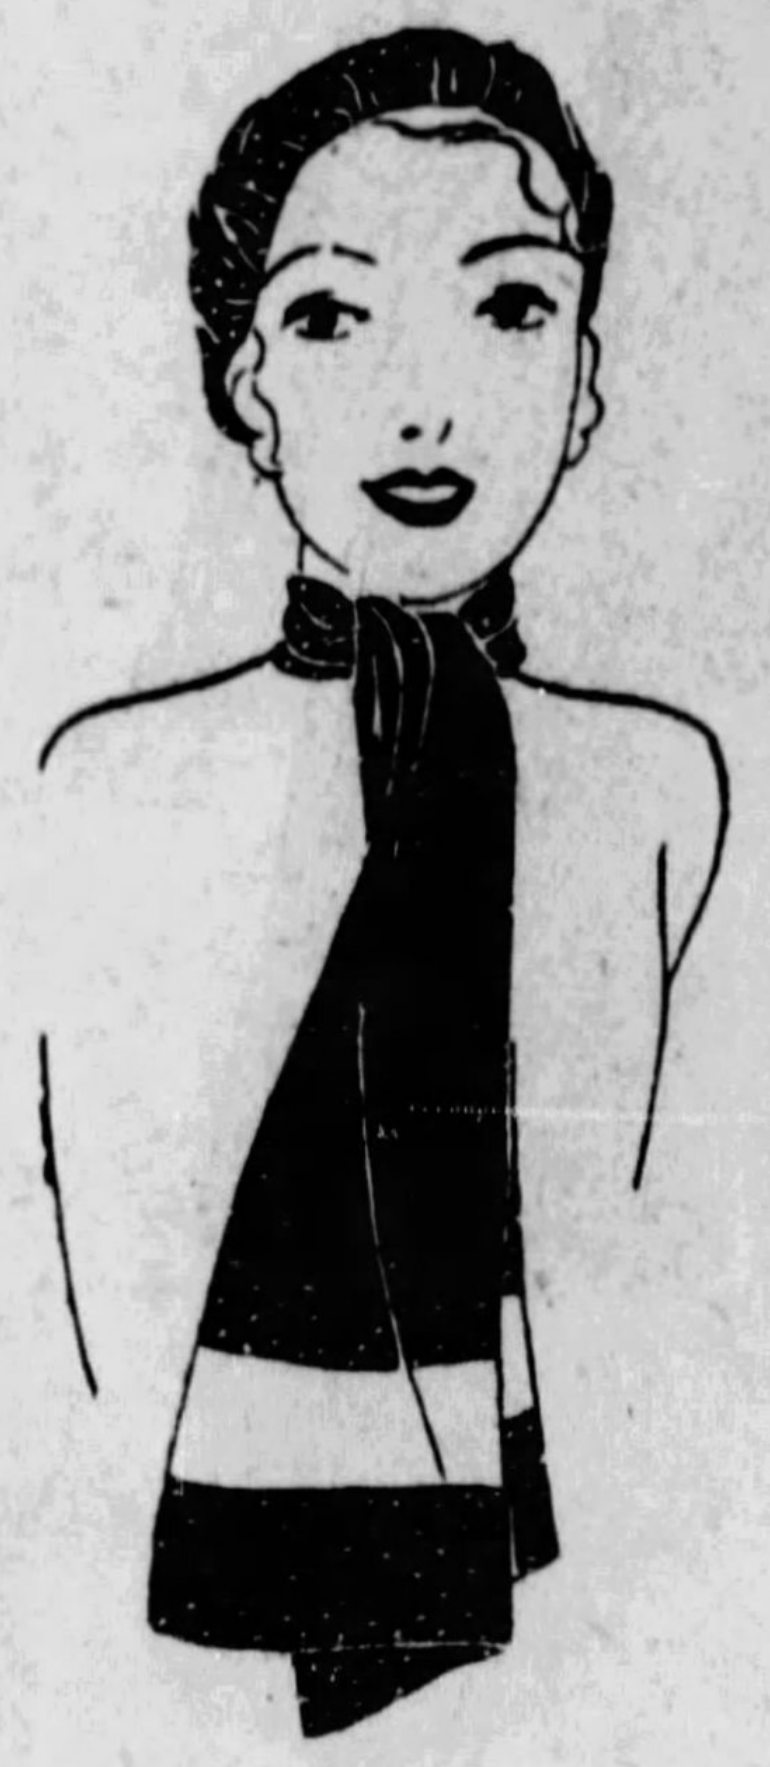
$3.95

Fashionable slip-on gloves of imported washable kid — with all the desirable qualities that are usually found only in much more expensive gloves.

Beautifully finished, close-fitting, long enough to wrinkle smartly, buttoned to fit snugly at the wrist, and washable . . . they will appropriately complement your fall and winter costumes. In these smart shades . . . brown, mode, medium gray, beaver, black, black-and-white, and white.

...Horne's, Main Floor...

New! Scarf and Beret Sets



Of Wool Jersey

The jauntiest of fashions in the stadium—on campus—for winter sports — with tweed suits—a cravat scarf of dotted jersey and a beret to match!

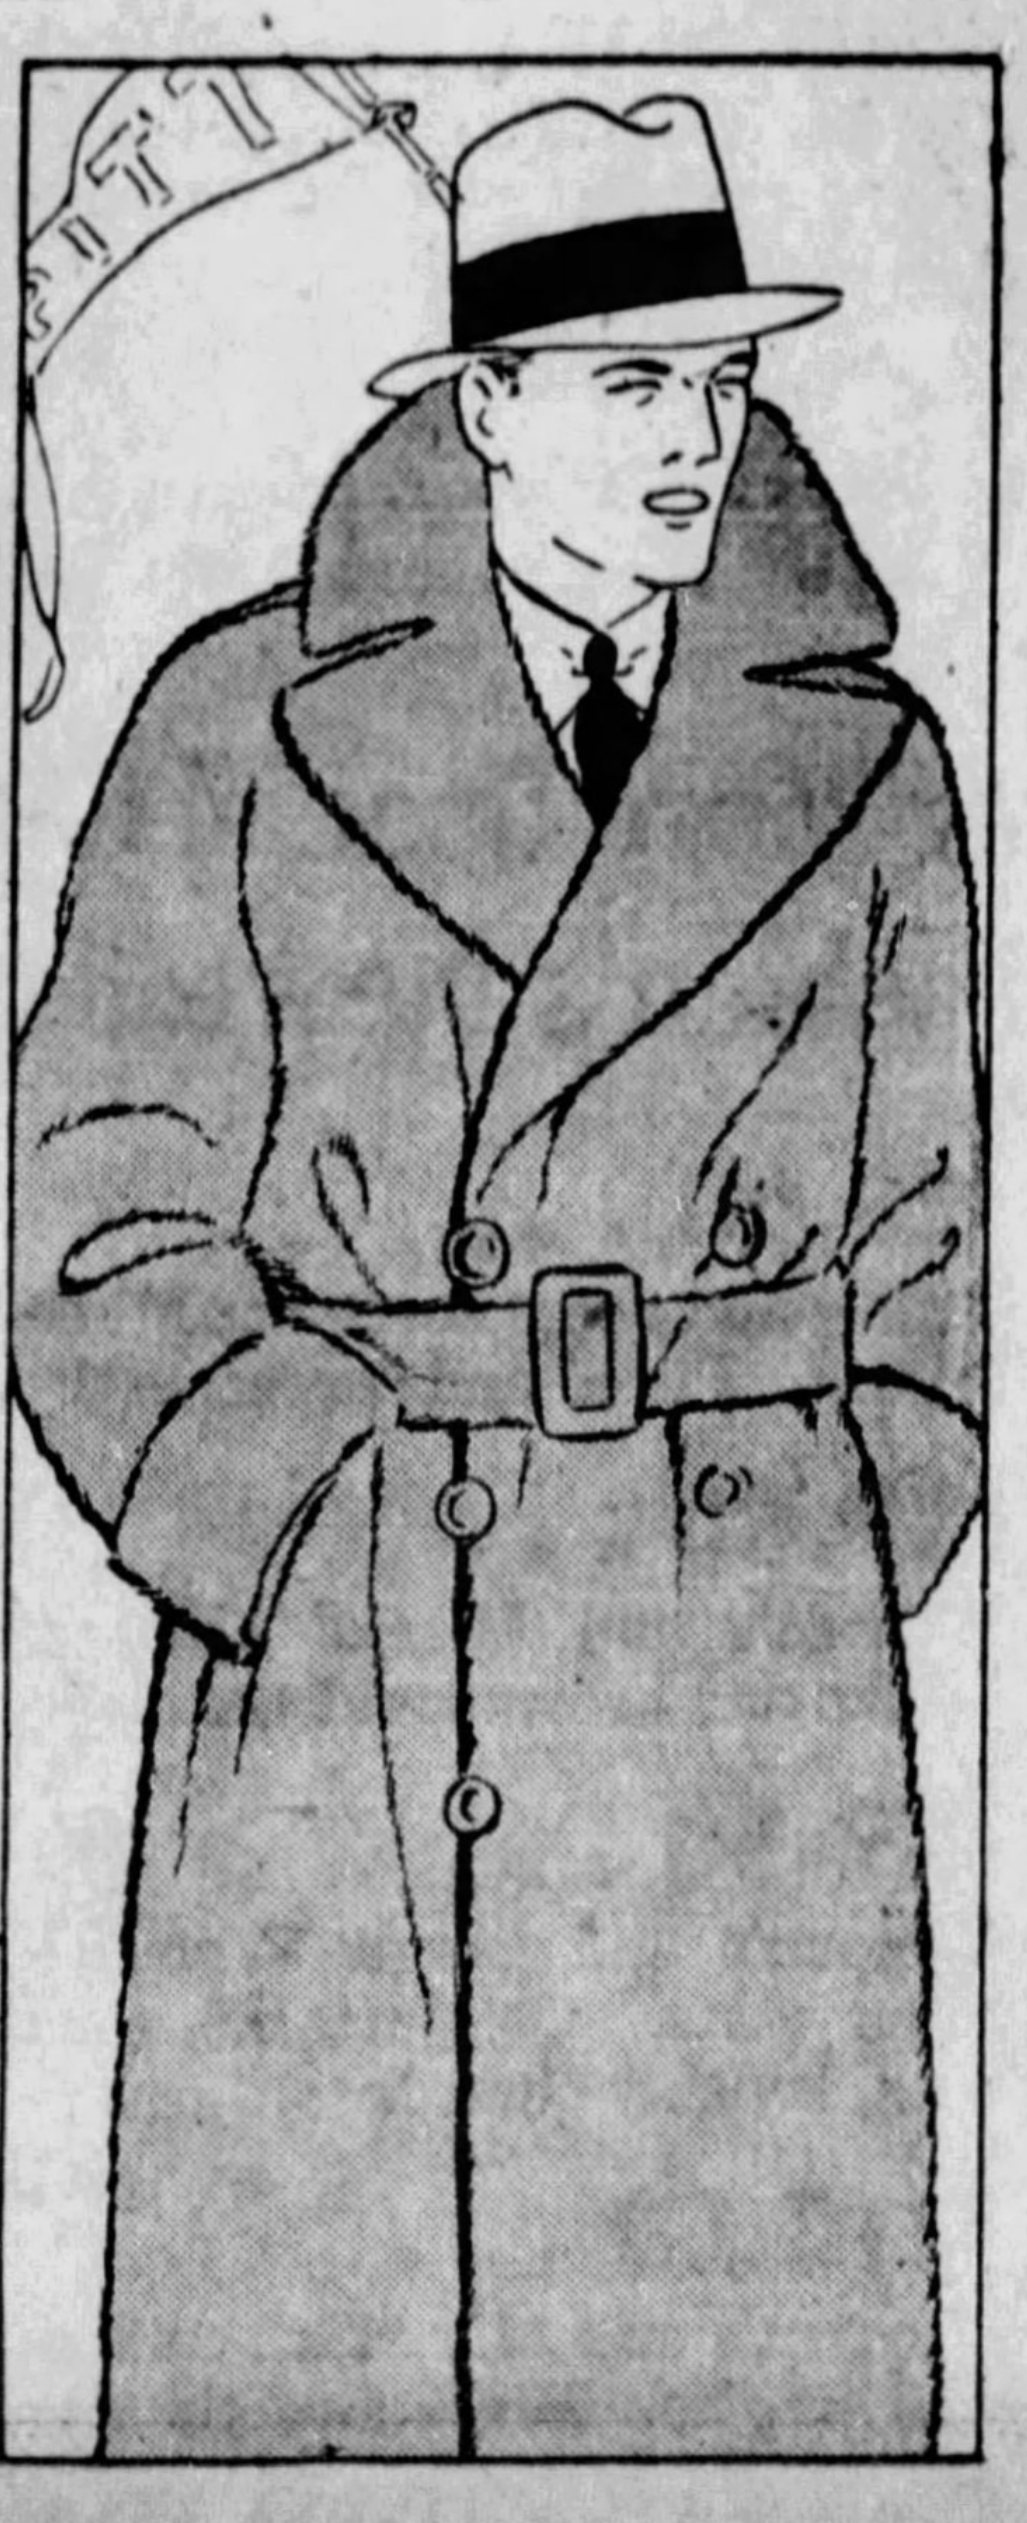
Overcoat Sale



$28 $38
$48

The coats are the finest we have ever offered in this great annual event. No man can afford to pass the opportunity to secure one at such prices as these.

The fabrics are the pick of English and American production. The tailoring is exactly the same employed in our fine regular-stock coats. The prices are due solely to an unusually favorable woolen market and to the fact that the makers were willing to make almost any concession for business.

Come in and select yours tomorrow. Choose a high-pile alpaca, if your mind runs to youthful, sportive types. Or a Chesterfield for dress. Or a box model, raglan or ulster for general all-purpose wear.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

What Position Is Best for Sleeping?

"Do you sleep on your left side, or is the right side the best side to sleep on?" was a question asked me the other day. I scratched my head and appeared very thoughtful, but to be perfectly frank I could not recall on which side I do sleep.

DR. COPELAND

Numerous text-books, investigations and articles have been written on this subject and it seems no two authorities agree. As a matter of fact, I do not believe it makes much difference whether we sleep on the right side or on the left side.

Sleep is brought about by fatigue and the body attempts to rest by the relaxation afforded during sleep. If you are accustomed to sleeping on your left side and sleep well, by no means force yourself to change to the right side.

The position you assume when going to sleep is not the position in which you find yourself on awakening. The body changes its position many times during the night. Have you ever watched children sleep, and noticed their various contortions? They will assume different positions, tossing about quite frequently, yet they are thoroughly relaxed and are resting in their sleep.

Some authorities advise sleeping on the back, and then again others do not. Some advise sleeping on the abdomen and others warn against it, stating it is dangerous. If we were to listen to all the advice, we would not know how to sleep and the thought of that alone would probably keep a good many of us awake.

The most frequent question asked is whether it is safe to sleep on the left side. This question arises because of the location of the heart on the left side. Most persons believe it is not advisable to sleep on the left side on the theory that it interferes with the action of the heart. This theory has never been proven and appears to me to be very doubtful. I would advise you to sleep on whichever side suits you. No catastrophe ever occurred from sleeping on the left side. I doubt if it will ever be proven it makes any difference. Providing we sleep well and get up refreshed, it matters not what the posture is.

Recent observations conducted at the Mellon Institute in Pittsburgh, show that restful sleep is accomplished by many bodily positions. As a result of these studies it would be ridiculous to advise any healthy individual to spend the night in one position. It is rare indeed for one position to be maintained during the night's sleep.

Even if you decided you should sleep on your right side it would be necessary to strap you down to guarantee that position. This would be the only method I know of to keep you in that one position. This method will not be recommended, of course.

Give yourself plenty of fresh air at night. Do not pile on the bed clothes too thickly. Do not crowd your stomach with a lot of unnecessary food just before retiring. Go to bed to sleep and leave it to your instinct to determine the position your tired body is to take.

PANTAGES CASE TO BE REVIEWED

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 24.—(INS.)—The California Supreme Court has granted the state's petition for a hearing in connection with the appeal of the Alexander Pantages girl attack case.

This means that the recent decision of the state Appellate Court in Los Angeles reversing Pantages' conviction and granting him a new trial will be reviewed by the Supreme Court.

Date of the hearing of arguments will be set later.

Pantages, millionaire theatrical man, was convicted last November on complaint of Eunice Pringle, 17-year-old dancer, and was sentenced to a maximum term of 50 years in San Quentin prison. He has been at liberty on $100,000 bail pending appeal.

GALLI-CURCI, HURT, SINGS

BIRMINGHAM, Eng., Oct. 24.—(AP.)—Amelita Galli-Curci, American prima donna, sang at a recital in the Town Hall despite the fact that less than 24 hours previously she had been bruised and shaken up in an automobile accident.

She was received with great enthusiasm. The audience knew about the accident, in which her automobile overturned while trying to avoid a collision with another car, and showed their admiration for her courage in fulfilling her concert engagement.

Her voice showed no trace of the alarming experience.

INDUSTRIAL ART SEASON OPENS

Opening program of the Industrial Arts Association season will be held tomorrow in the Clifford B. Connelley Trade School with cards and dancing as the closing feature.

F. J. Coyte

The program, announced by President Francis J. Coyte, will begin at 2:30 p. m. with addresses by Loren N. Turner, principal, and Fred W. Boland, director of trade training. Following an inspection tour of the building, a water carnival and swimming meet will precede a banquet. Associate Superintendent of Public Schools F. M. Leavitt will be among speakers that include Urdan D. Willis, of Chicago.

HOOVER SCORED BY DANIELS

OWENSBORO, Ky., Oct. 14.—(AP.)—Josephus Daniels, former Secretary of the Navy, declared in a campaign address here that President Hoover was influenced in his formulation of governmental policies by "big business." Daniels said:

"The god of big business, to which President Hoover has given his support, is Andrew Mellon. He honestly believes all wealth should be concentrated in a few hands, that a few men like himself ought to control the destinies of the country, that they are better equipped than the masses to govern. In other words, he is a Hamiltonian, who distrusts the capacity of the people to exercise the right of self government.

"President Coolidge worshipped at the Mellon shrine, and President Hoover has been very careful to do nothing that is not in accord with the Mellon tradition. The Mellon regime is an alliance of giant business interests with the government. Big business is more powerful than the government itself."

BLAST KILLS 1; 50 IN PANIC

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Oct. 24.—(AP.)—One man was fatally injured, another so seriously burned he was expected to die and 50 persons were thrown into a panic when a 1,000-barrel oil tank in the new Venice oil field exploded.

Eugene Allen, an employe of a pipe construction company, died after the explosion. Allen and J. P. Brown were working outside the tank into which oil was being pumped and were drenched with blazing oil.

The others were attending a lecture in a small house nearby. The blast blew in the rear of the house, which caught fire. Cause of the blast was unknown.

Syria Mosque Plans Halloween Party

The annual Halloween party and Mardi Gras to be held at Syria Mosque next Wednesday night will be the most pretentious in the temple's history, according to a committee announcement. The Mosque and auditorium are undergoing a transformation, with Herman B. Mertz as chairman of decorations. The evening's entertainment will include dancing, motion pictures and vaudeville acts from local theaters. George H. Matz and his orchestra will furnish music.

OHIO MAN WINS HOSPITAL POST

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 24—(AP.)—Paul M. Fesler, superintendent of the University of Minnesota Hospital at Minneapolis, was elected president of the American Hospital Association, defeating Robert E. Neff, superintendent of the University of Iowa Hospital at Iowa City.

Fesler said illness cost the United States $10,000,000,000 annually in various ways, and business men owed it to their businesses to support preventive measures.

The Rev. M. F. Griffin, of Youngstown, O., was elected association trustee over Fesler by a vote of 220 to 217. The presidency and trusteeship were the only contested offices.

The election culminated a business session of the convention which was enlivened by the adoption of a motion urging the board of trustees "to have the prohibition forces give a more liberal interpretation of the laws as regards the use of whisky in hospitals."

3 NEAR DEATH IN FIRE, CRASH

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 24.—(AP.)—Two brides who had been seriously burned while cleaning curtains, and a woman passenger of an automobile, which was struck by the ambulance in which they were being taken to a hospital, are near death here.

Mrs. Mary Emch, 18, and her sister, Mrs. Ethel Langerman, 19, were burned when a gas explosion wrecked the basement of the Emch home at Pemberville, near here, while they were cleaning curtains.

The ambulance rushing them to a Toledo hospital collided with the car here, hurling Mrs. Anna Clark, 42, a passenger, 20 feet against the side of a building and fracturing her skull and back. The sisters were pulled into the street from the ambulance as it burst into flames.

2 SAILORS HURT IN SEA CRASH

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Oct. 24.—(INS.)—Two sailors were seriously injured and the destroyer Claxton of the United States Navy was towed to port with a gaping hole in her side as the result of a collision at sea with the destroyer Badger during tactical exercises.

The two ships crashed at sea in a heavy fog.

A large hole was torn in the side of the Claxton above the water line but her machinery was so disabled by the impact of the collision it was necessary to tow the ship to port.

WIDOW HEADS RAIL BOARD

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—(AP.)—Mrs. William Boyce Thompson, widow of the copper magnate, has been elected chairman of the board of the Magma Arizona Railroad. She is believed to be the first woman to hold such a position.

The railroad's entire capital stock is controlled by the Magma Copper Company, of which the late Col. Thompson was president. He died June 27, leaving an estate estimated between $85,000,000 and $100,000,000.

URGES MARINES AS DRY FORCE

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Oct. 24.—(AP.)—Prof. Robert P. Carroll, dry candidate for governor, would use the Marines against prohibition violators, if elected he told an audience here.

He said he would ask for 10,000 Marines to clean up the speakeasies in New York City and would declare martial law if necessary. He also "would ask for submarnies to blow the rum fleet of the coast, to the bottom of the sea."

Woman Sues Over Injuries by Trolley

Agnes Kissane, of the East End, asked $60,000 damages from the Pittsburgh Railways Company in a suit filed in Common Pleas Court, for injuries she alleged were caused by a street car which failed to heed a red traffic signal.

Miss Kissane averred she was crossing Penn avenue at Sheridan avenue, East Liberty, December 5 last, when the car, ignoring the red light, struck her and crushed her against another car going in the opposite direction. Her chest was crushed and a number of ribs broken.

Woman Driver Sued By Youth's Parents

Claiming $25,000 damages for injuries to Robert Lindner, 19, when his motorcycle was struck by an automobile, his parents, Mr and Mrs. Joseph Lindner, filed suit in Common Pleas Court against Helen Young, of Mt. Lebanon. She was driving her automobile on Washington road, Mt. Lebanon, when it struck the motorcycle, the suit averred.

EDUCATORS FOR COACH CONTEST

Vocational educators in Pennsylvania schools are enthusiastically subscribing to the Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild and their pupils are eagerly awaiting the publication Sunday of complete details of the model coach-building contest. Prizes include four $5,000 scholarships besides 980 other valuable awards.

The boys who have enrolled and who are contemplating joining the Sun-Telegraph Chapter of the Guild may know just what these teachers in manual training think of the project, excerpts are printed from a few letters:

"I congratulate you upon the progressiveness and vision of your plan. I hope you will be successful in developing a finer spirit of craftsmanship. There is a genuine need for this in this country."—L. H. Dennis, deputy superintendent, Department of Public Instruction, Harrisburg.

"I am pleased to say that I think you are sponsoring a very commendable activity for the boys of high school age. A number of my boys tell me that they have already sent in their application blanks for enrollment."—John D. Rogers, head of the Department of Industrial Arts, Mt. Lebanon Public Schools, Pittsburgh.

"I am very much interested in the Guild. I feel that you are doing a wonderful thing for the promotion of craftsmanship."—Charles N. Geisler, director of vocational education, North Braddock, Pa.

"I will bring your offer before my pupils at once. I assure you some of them will try hard to make the best model. The contest will stimulate the value of craftsmanship and will impress on their minds that hand workmanship is in great demand today."—George Knerem, Garfield Junior High School, Johnstown, Pa.

There is still time to join the Sun-Telegraph Chapter. Boys between 12 and 19 may enroll at any General Motors car dealer. This enrollment then will be registered at Guild headquarters in Detroit, and by the Sun-Telegraph.

WEATHER HERE DOWNS PLANES

Yesterday's snow, fog, rain and sleet brought grief to four airplanes in the Pittsburgh area, all of them being forced to perilous landings.

Col. Lindbergh turned back to Bettis Field after taking off for Columbus because of poor visibility near the Ohio border.

Larry D. Faurot, Pennsylvania inspector for aeronautics, flying from Detroit to Pittsburgh, was forced to a blind landing in a cornfield near Summitville, O., when he ran into a blizzard.

Faurot landed at Bettis Field this morning and said he had never encountered a storm that so completely blotted out visibility.

T. Seree, piloting a Pittsburgh-Cleveland air mail plane from the Ohio city, was forced down by fog and landed in a field near the Pennsylvania Railroad at Edgeworth. The mail was taken to Bettis Field on a truck.

A Pittsburgh Airways passenger plane was forced to land near Latrobe and passengers continued to Pittsburgh by train.

Woman Confesses Passing Bad Checks

Mrs. Mary Butler, 24, of 317 Penn avenue, Wilkinsburg, admitted in East End Police Court today charges that she had passed a score or more bad checks in the East End district, ranging from $10 to $50. Others had aided her, she said.

According to testimony, Mrs. Butler went under the name of Mary Scott. She was held.

I. O. O. F., Rebekahs Go to Washington

Two degree teams and more than 300 members of Allegheny County Odd Fellows and Rebekahs will leave by special train tonight over the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad for Washington.

The degree teams, Odd Fellows of Stokes Lodge, Mt. Washington, and Rebekahs of Theodore Lodge, South Side, will confer degrees in the capital tomorrow night.

DODGE TRUCKS

PLAN HOMAGE TO ROOSEVELT

Marking the seventy-second anniversary of the birth of the late President Theodore Roosevelt, the tenth annual dinner of the Roosevelt Commemoration Association of Western Pennsylvania will be held Monday night in the William Penn Hotel.

Gifford Pinchot will be the principal speaker. State Senator Frank J. Harris, association president, will preside. The Board of Public Education has been asked to have the schools hold appropriate exercises to mark the day.

Ice Tinted Hues To Match Gowns Ready Soon

ATLANTIC CITY, Oct. 24.—(INS.)—Pink, pale blue, lavender, green and yellow or any other shade of ice a housekeeper may fancy soon is to be delivered to "those housewives who would have tinted ice to match the color ensemble of their dinner gowns or the general decorative scheme of their kitchens and refrigerators."

Such service, according to Amos V. Pankey, of Harrisonburg, Pa., who spoke before a meeting here of the Eastern Ice Association, will soon be available to the general public.

JURY ACQUITS FRIEDMAN

Charles Friedman, of Monessen, former rum racketeer of McKeesport, who was paroled from Atlanta after giving evidence against the big rum ring in the Tube City, today was acquitted of a charge of impersonating an officer. The case was tried before Visiting Judge W. T. Darr, of Jefferson County.

Daniel Lichtenstein, of McKeesport, accused Friedman of entering his store, drawing a revolver and saying he was an officer empowered to search the premises. The costs were divided.

9 O'Clock Curfew Imposed on Auto Theft Suspect

ALFRED, Me., Oct. 24.—(AP.)—Curfew rings tonight and for 729 more nights as well for Roland Letellier of Biddeford—and he'd better heed it, says the law.

The 20-year-old youth pleaded nolo contendere to a charge of automobile larceny in Superior Court here and after imposing a probationary jail sentence Judge G. Kemery informed him that if he ventured out of doors during the next two years after the clock strikes 9 p. m. it would be just too bad.

ROBBER KILLED, HOLDUP FOILED

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 24.—(INS.)—The theft of an exhibit of diamonds worth $100,000 was prevented by a quick-shooting policeman.

He shot to death a man, not immediately identified, who intercepted William Haymon, New York diamond dealer, as he was leaving a hotel. This man hit Haymon on the head, while other holdup men snatched for Hayman's bag.

The diamond dealer's cry for help brought the policeman to the scene, whose one shot killed the leading holdup man and routed his companions.

SERVICE CLUBS JOIN IN MEET

Members of South Hills Post No. 156, American Legion; the South Hills Kiwanis, Mt. Lebanon Lions and the Dormont Rotary clubs held the second of a series of inter-service club meetings in the Mt. Lebanon Methodist Episcopal Church last night when each organization represented furnished a part of the program.

The general chairman of the meeting was Jack Hamilton, of the Kiwanis Club, with R. R. Rubottom, of the Lions Club, as general secretary. Other members in active charge included Kenneth Burley and W. H. Rowswell, of the Kiwanis Club; J. B. Cole, of the American Legion, and Ferdinand C. Bienhauer, Robert Elton and S. B. Stein, of the Rotary Club.

Film Show Planned By Brotherhood

The Brotherhood of St. Luke's Evangelical Lutheran Church, West View, at a meeting this week voted to give a movie entertainment for benefit of needy and unemployed families of the borough.

U. S. STANDARDS HELD TRADE AID

That American demand for the modern home, the latest style creations and speediest transportation are lifting industry from the so-called depression was the opinion of J. C. McQuiston, advertising manager of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, expressed before the Lions Club of Pittsburgh luncheon yesterday in the Fort Pitt Hotel.

The program was planned in conjunction with the observance by Lions International of business confidence week. Terming much of the present cry of depression as a mental state, the speaker declared the slack could best be referred to as a resting period and that business was ready for upward trend.

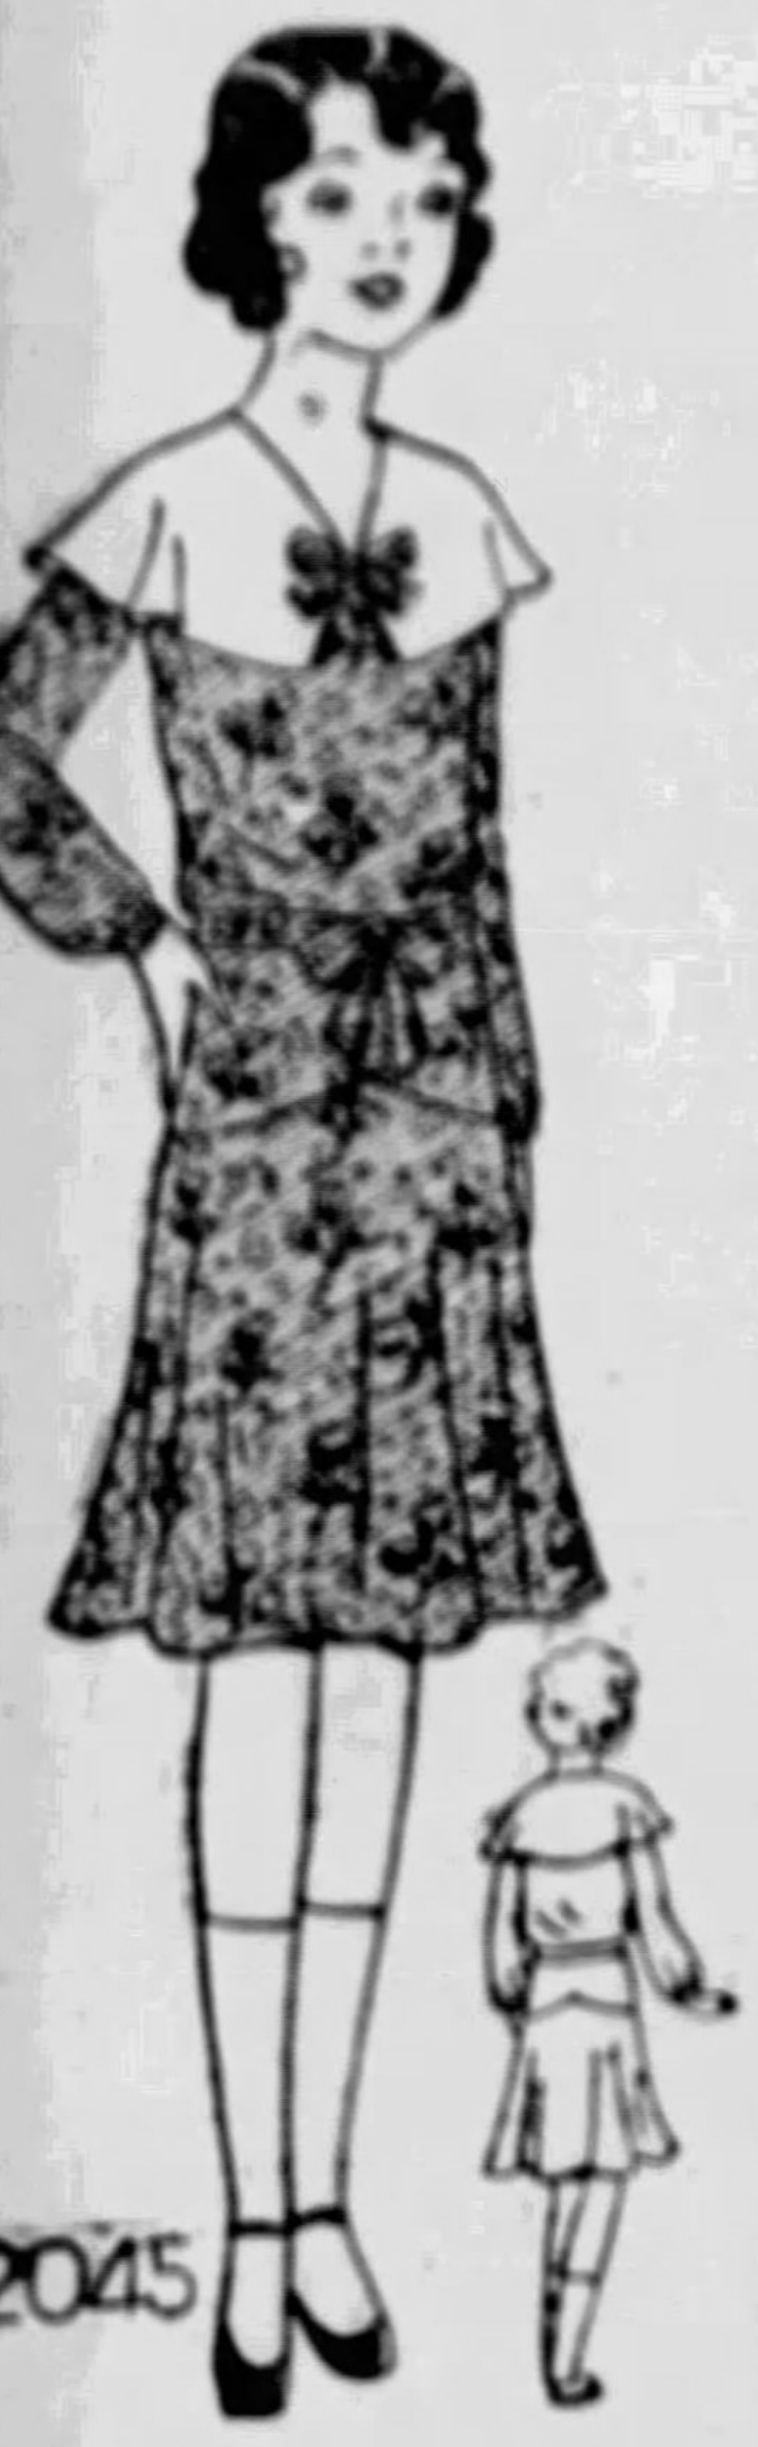
A Dainty Model

Pattern 2045

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern



By ANNE ADAMS.

The cape mode continues its smart way in contrasting fabric. This charming little frock, which may be made with or without sleeves, acquires fullness and grace with a skirt flare that points upward in chic manner. Bows at neck and waist are extremely smart this season.

Pattern 2045 is delightful made of printed fabric—silk crepe, georgette, cotton broadcloth, dimity, challis, etc. The becoming collar may be cut from like material in solid color, or a contrasting fabric such as pique or organdy.

May be obtained only in sizes 6, 8, 10, 12, and 14. Size 6 requires 2¼ yards printed and ⅝ yard plain fabric 36 inches wide. No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern. Yardage for every size, and simple, exact instructions are given.

SHORT CHANGE SUSPECT HELD

R. W. Parker, 30, giving his residence as the Wolfendale Hotel, was held on suspicion of being a short-change artist, at a hearing before Magistrate Ray Schneider, in North Side Police Court, today.

A. Welley, a grocer, of 827 Reedsdale street, testified Parker gave him a large bill for a small purchase, had the change made, then submitted two smaller bills on the plea that he didn't want to break the large ones. With a mass of change on the counter, Welley got confused and called police.

When Schneider asked Parker if short-changing was his business, Parker was quoted as replying:

"It looks like it, doesn't it?"

2 LIQUOR BOATS SEIZED IN FIGHT

WESTERLY, R. I., Oct. 24.—(INS.)—A gun battle between four Coast Guard patrol boats and two powerful alleged liquor smuggling speedboats off Mapapree Point, near Stonington, Conn., today resulted in the capture of the two speedboats and the arrest of the crew of one of them and seizure of nearly 1,000 cases of liquor.

Nearly 200 machine gun bullets were sprayed upon the two speedboats in the battle that lasted 20 minutes. The fire was returned with pistols from aboard the alleged liquor smugglers.

It was believed no injuries resulted. A number of summer cottages at Mapapree Point were struck by the bullets.

BURIAL OF 257 MINERS SET

ALSDORF, Germany, Oct. 24.—(INS.)—Flags were at half-mast in Alsdorf and vicinity today and a special cemetery was being prepared for burial of 257 workers killed in Monday's mysterious triple blast at Anna mine here.

The caskets will be lowered into common graves tomorrow. Rescue squads expect to find several more bodies under the tons of debris blocking shafts and tunnels. They were unable to find a trace of the rescue party of 23 men entombed a day ago.

At least 75 injured remain in a hospital, the majority in serious condition.

Mine experts were unable to determine the cause of the catastrophe.

Misery Ends Quick With New Prescription, ACIDINE

"For the last three years I have been bothered by food souring, causing a burning sensation, that at times I felt like jumping in the river," says Mr. E. J. Moore, Cincinnati, Ohio. "I tried innumerable medicines, consulted a stomach specialist, but no relief. Finally I heard about ACIDINE and got some. No more burning or sour belching and vomiting, no headaches. ACIDINE is wonderful."

Similar reports from all over rave about this amazing new prescription that succeeds where others fail. The reason is that ACIDINE is entirely different. Contains the marvelous digestant called Japtase. In laboratory experiments Japtase has been tested on certain starchy foods which cause so much stomach distress. It digested 800 times its weight of such foods in only 30 minutes!

Five other ingredients in ACIDINE instantly neutralize burning acid, soothe irritated stomach lining, stop gas and headache from acidity. No other remedy contains this scientific combination to end acid stomach.

Don't risk serious and more painful troubles. Get ACIDINE from your druggist today. Costs only a few cents. Watch how quick acid indigestion, burning stomach, belching, pain, heartburn, fullness, short breath vanish. Eat, drink, and smoke all you want. Results guaranteed. Maker gives money back if not delighted.

Youth Befriended By Police Held As Thief

Abe Atkins, 19, befriended yesterday by police, was held for court on a larceny charge by Magistrate T. D. Jones, in Morals Court, today. When arraigned yesterday he was discharged and given $1 to aid him in getting a room. Police also promised to help get him a job.

Today Shirley Homer, of 7 Sylvania avenue, a clerk in a downtown store, identified Atkins as a former employe to whom she had given $20 to get changed. He left and failed to return, she said.

OFFICERS TRAIL HOLDUP PAIR

Negro footpads who robbed two men in the Hill district last night were being sought today by police from the Center Avenue Station.

Joseph Smith, of 2137 Fifth avenue, told police he was attacked by two Negroes at Moultrie and Watson streets and robbed of $46. The pair knocked him down and took the money from his pocket, Smith reported.

A short time later Nick Lash, of 328 Carson street, was robbed of $30 by four Negroes at Logan and Colwell streets, after being struck on the head.

Foot Mangled, He Crawls Mile For Aid

Steve Kralik, homeless, jobless and broke, today was in New Kensington Hospital with his right foot amputated above the ankle. He was injured last night as he jumped from a Bessemer and Lake Erie freight train at River Valley, near Cheswick.

With his foot mangled by the car wheels, Kralik crawled almost a mile to the Bessemer Railroad barracks, where workmen gave him first aid and called Dr. W. P. McCulloch, of Cheswick, who had the man rushed to the hospital.

A. F. OF L. BACKS M. M. NEELY

FAIRMONT, W. Va., Oct. 24.—(AP.)—Van A. Bittner, chief representative of the United Mine Workers of America in Northern West Virginia, made public a telegram he said he had received from William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, indorsing Bittner's opposition to James Elwood Jones' candidacy for the United States Senate.

The telegram said:

"Working people are deeply interested in the election of Senator Neely to the United States Senate. For this reason, I deeply appreciate the service you are rendering in opposition to Elwood Jones and in support of Senator Neely. In your support of Senator Neely, you are truly representing the American Federation of Labor."

FARM LABORER KILLS FOUR

EDMONTON, Alta., Oct. 24.—(INS.)—Wielding a shot gun with deadly effect, George D. Wenychuck, farm laborer, shot and killed two men, an invalid girl and a woman on the farm of his father-in-law at Smoky Lake, 80 miles from Edmonton, according to reports to provincial police here. A fifth victim, an aged woman, was reported dying.

Those killed were: Wenychuck's father-in-law, John Walanski; Mary Walanski, 16-year-old invalid; Mrs. G. Huchaluk, Walanski's mother-in-law, and a farmer named John Darichuck.

Mrs. E. Huchaluk, grandmother, was believed fatally wounded.

Wenychuck fled into the bush after the shooting and is pursued by hurriedly organized posses, police said.

RICHMAN BROTHERS
BLUE OVERCOATS
are more popular than ever this year

Navy blue ... blue-black ... blue mixture cloths, when made of fine wool and indigo dyed, are not only stylish but very serviceable. Our blue meltons, blue kerseys, blue fancy mixtures and Scotch tweeds are the most remarkable values the world has seen since pre-war days.

We recommend them to men and young men ... to men of every size, for we manufacture them for the youth of 16 as well as for tall, slim men, for stout men of 50 inch chest, and for very short men. There are few men we cannot fit perfectly without an alteration ... for those few, alterations are made speedily and without charge.

Our assortment of overcoats in Oxford grays, medium and dark shades of gray, tans and beautiful mixtures is just the same as in the blue overcoats ... the values for the money are beyond words .. it is needless to say what the same quality sells for elsewhere, or to make comparisons.

Our business has not been built upon words or advertisements, but upon the merit of our clothes, and upon the way we've done business for 51 years. We've made clothing in Cleveland since 1879 ... They're sold direct to our customers who save the middleman's profit ... we stand back of every garment with a guarantee to please you or to refund your money with no "ifs", "ands" or "buts".

Deep-pile camel hair overcoats are just $22.50 ... ours are made of the actual hair of the camel from Asia ... there are many imitations of cotton and what-not to fit a price. Before paying a very high price for a camel hair or fur coat, we request that you inspect this Richman Brothers achievement of 1930.

ANY BUSINESS SUIT, TOPCOAT, OVERCOAT OR DRESS SUIT IN EVERY RICHMAN BROTHERS STORE IN THE U. S. IS ALWAYS THE SAME PRICE

Autos Hurt 8; Seek Hit-Run Driver

SIDEWALKS —of— PITTSBURGH

By William Pfarr

A friend of ours is searching for a pretext on which to argue with his sweetheart. He does this each October and usually it is a different victim. He keeps the quarrel alive until Christmas and then humbly returns to his love. By these means he neatly sidesteps the necessity of buying her an expensive Christmas gift.

William Pfarr

However, he is in a fix this year. She won't argue, neither will she quarrel. If he contends that the sun is shining when snow is falling, she merely agrees. Politically he is a Communist and, although she is of a long line of Democrats, lately she has been subscribing to all the tenets of Communism. That is true love.

Under the impression that we write "Advice to the Lovelorn," he asked our counsel. We advised him to be frank, to go straight to the girl and say, "Minnie, nothing would give me greater pleasure than to buy you an eight-cylinder roadster for Christmas but, because this is a year in which we should all make some sacrifice, I am going to forego that pleasure."

This is rather harsh on the little gal, so we advised him further to soothe her hurt feelings by sending her a very pretty Christmas card.

Once before we tried to solve the traffic problem but Prof. McIntyre, the traffic man, neatly put us in our place. This time we are more confident that we have the solution, although this time, too, the solution does away with the professor and all others whose vocation is to untangle tangles. Our new plan simply is to refuse to recognize what we all call the traffic situation. Do away with traffic cops, traffic experts, traffic conventions, threatening traffic signs, et cetera. Let pedestrians cross corners at their own peril, let motorists turn corners on two wheels at 45 miles, let recklessness be unconfined, on with the dance, hew to the line and let the fractures fall where they may. All this occurred to us while we were crossing Grant street at Sixth avenue.

The other day a traffic policeman hailed us and he said, so he did, "Say, ain't you the fella that writes that stuff for the paper?" and we said "Yes, sir!" and he said, "Well, why doncha put my name in the papers" and we said, "All right," and he said, "I'll be looking for it," and we said, "Even in capital letters, Lieutenant," and here, by golly, it is, so far as we remember:

JOE DOAKES.

Half-pint Jackie Heller, who used to peddle papers on Pittsburgh streets, is back in town, warbling tunes for Joe Hiller, the cabaret man. Not many of his admirers know that the young man turned down an attractive offer to sing in London's famed Kit Kat Club simply because he doesn't like the London fog and he was afraid to meet the Englishman who criticized Broadway's electric sign.

Heller, we might as well say, was explaining a new sign which was to go up outside a big night club.

"It'll have 10,000 red lights,

EXTRAORDINARY BUT--

12 big searchlights, 22 electric figures and 3,000 purple lights," Jackie boasted.

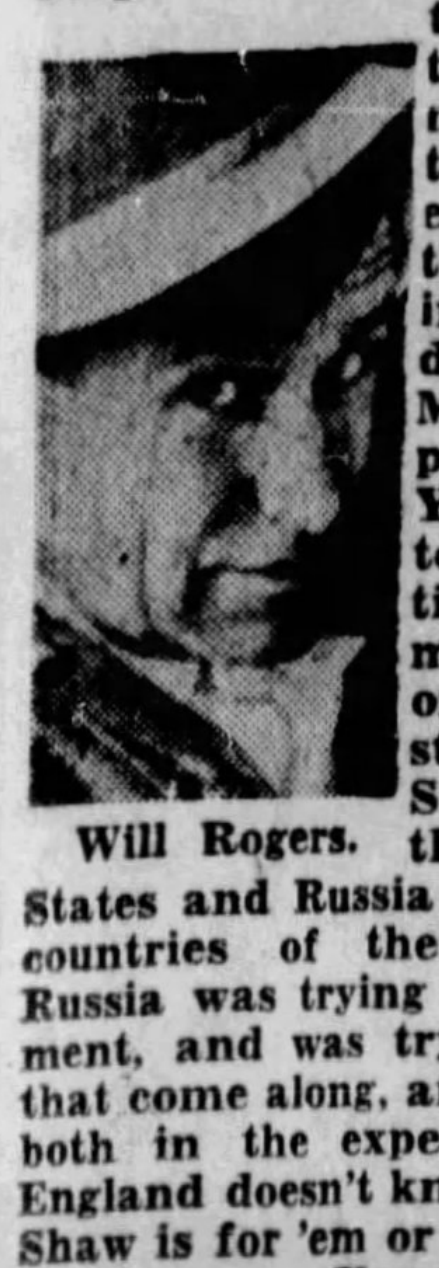
"Extraordinary!" the Englishman agreed, "but don't you think, my friend, it'll be just a bit conspicuous?"

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Oct. 23.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Say, we got a great treat in store for us next Tuesday evening. Bernard Shaw is going to talk to us over the radio for 40 minutes. He is the most interesting and entertaining man in the world today. He and Mussolini are pretty near a tie. You don't need to ask any questions when you meet either one of 'em, just sit still and listen. Shaw told me that the United States and Russia are the unique countries of the world today. Russia was trying a great experiment, and was trying everything that come along, and that we were both in the experimental stage. England doesn't know yet whether Shaw is for 'em or against 'em.



Will Rogers.

Yours, WILL.

FLEES AFTER INJURING MAN, 72

Car Crashes Into Safety Zone Downtown; Girl Safe as Machines Collide

Eight persons were injured in automobile accidents in the Pittsburgh district last night and early today.

George M. McKnight, 50, of 1135 North Negley avenue, was in Magee Hospital with a fractured skull as a result of being struck by an automobile at Bigelow boulevard and Forbes street, last night. Police said the car which struck him was operated by Charles Walinsky, of 5800 Munhall road.

HITS SAFETY ZONE

Paul Schreiber, 25, of McDonald, Pa., was arrested by police of Central station early today after his automobile crashed into a safety zone at Sixth street and Liberty avenue. He was charged with reckless driving.

Marie Marshall, 19, of Seventh street, Trafford, and Helen Sullivan, 23, of Eleventh avenue and Hays street, Homestead, were in St. Francis Hospital as a result of an automobile crash at Bigelow boulevard and Kirkpatrick street.

They were in an automobile driven, police said, by John S. Stahl, Jr., 27, of 5850 Maeburn road, and were thrown to the street when the car ran into a pole.

Stahl took the girls to the hospital and then drove to Homestead, where he surrendered to police. Police in Pittsburgh were notified and took him to Center Avenue station, where he was charged with reckless driving.

DAUGHTER OF SCHOOL HEAD

Lawrence Foscoe, 22, and Joseph Jacobs, 23, both of East Pittsburgh, sustained lacerations of the head, and Irvin Stevens, 20, of 328 Versailles avenue, Turtle Creek, suffered from shock when the car in which they were riding collided with one driven by Margaret Shaffer, daughter of Prof. Charles W. Shaffer, superintendent of Wilmerding Public Schools, according to a police report. Miss Shaffer escaped injury. The three men were given treatment at a physician's office and sent to their homes.

HUNT HIT-RUN DRIVER

East End police today were searching for a hit-and-run motorist who struck Henry Gross, 72, of 1924 Chislett street, after the victim was said to have walked against the side of another machine at Penn and Negley avenues last night.

The aged man was struck just as W. J. McCullough, of 3378 Parkview street, into the side of whose car Gross was reported to have walked, got out of his car to determine if he had been injured. Gross is in the Pittsburgh Hospital suffering from a fractured skull.

ARREST MOTORIST

Struck by an automobile at Seventh avenue and McClure street, Homestead, Robert Vaugh, 48, of Heisel street, Homestead, was inujred seriously and taken to the Homestead Hospital. The machine was said to have been driven by E. F. Hoffman, of Homeville.

Bellevue Woman Hits Water Service

Mrs. Mary M. Bryant, of Bellevue, has filed complaint with the Public Service Commission at Harrisburg, charging the Pittsburgh Suburban Water Service Company failed and refused to serve her premises. Mrs. Bryant alleged the concern is giving service in her neighborhood, but that she had been compelled to carry water one-fourth mile since a well on her property went dry.

GERALDINE FARRAR....VISITING IN PITTSBURGH

Youth Spurns Creative Art For Quick, But Fleeting, Success, Says Farrar

Creative art is being overlooked in America in the rush for quick riches of the mechanical age, such as provided by Hollywood, is the reflection of Geraldine Farrar, opera and concert star, who opens the Art Society season tonight in Carnegie Music Hall.

Resting at the William Penn hotel for a day before her local appearance, Miss Farrar reflected on the lack of creative artists who would seek a following of music lovers. Citing that youth no longer thinks of assuming privation to win a permanent place in the music world, Miss Farrar said:

"The stage and screen in its mechanical age offers immediate wealth after brief training. Yet, the career continues but little longer than five years. With the speed and tempo of the age, youth seems to lack the ambition to fill the place left vacant by such artists as Caruso.

"Of course, amusement patrons too seek the variety of entertainment such as offered by the motion pictures and at such small prices. But it will all change. Creative art as offered from the gifted artists sometime will again find its place. To predict when would be impossible, however."

Disabled Vets Hold District Conference

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Oct. 24.—(AP.)—Representatives of the disabled American Veterans of the World War from West Virginia, the District of Columbia, Virginia and Maryland are here for a district conference which will open today in charge of C. M. Jones, commander of the fourth district. The conference will be devoted to discussions of rehabilitation and legislative matters. Among the speakers will be Herman H. Weimer, Chicago, national commander; Vivian D. Corbley, Cincinnati, national adjutant, and Thomas Kirby, Washington, chairman of the national legislative committee.

ENGINEERS SEE 2 AUTO PLANTS

Inspection tours through two local automotive plants close the three-day transportation meeting today of the Society of Automotive Engineers.

One technical session was scheduled with J. F. Winchester, of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, as chairman. The part that aluminum alloys play in the construction of modern commercial motor vehicles was to be described by F. D. Goll, of the Aluminum Company of America. Maintenance of the army motor transport was to be described in a detailed discussion by Lieut.-Col. Brainerd Taylor, of Washington.

The sessions being held since Wednesday were sponsored by leading transportation engineers of the country. Several hundred executives attended the annual national conference that featured a banquet in the William Penn Hotel last night at which F. P. Phillips, vice-president of the Philadelphia Company, was the principal speaker. Walter Rosenbaum was the toastmaster.

Radio Hour Speaker Appears Here 4 Days

The Rev. John A. McClorey will open a four-day speaking engagement in Sacred Heart Catholic Church, Alder street, beginning November 13. Father McClorey now conducts the Catholic Hour on the radio every Sunday. The engagement will be his first here.

Bellevue, Avalon Temperance Rally

Churches of Bellevue and Avalon will unite in a temperance rally Sunday night, in the Bellevue Methodist Episcopal Church the Rev. Dr. John B. Magee, pastor. William H. Berry, retired bishop, will speak on "At the Crossroads on Prohibition."

Driver Paroled, Must Pay For Victim's Burial

Ordered to pay $238 for the burial expenses of his victim, Howard Gilchrist, 22, Montier street, today entered upon a one-year parole, following his conviction of involuntary manslaughter in the death of John T. McVeigh, 50, of Third street, Sharpsburg, July 2. McVeigh's skull was fractured when he was struck down by Gilchrist's automobile.

The driver testified it was raining at the time and blamed the wet street for the accident. Visiting Judge William T. Darr, of Jefferson County, granted the parole.

Chief Has Sinister Plan To Crush Gorio Gang

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Following the killing of "The Edgewater Kid," a member of Goldie Gorio's North Side gang, Kinky King, leader of the rival West Side gang, is murdered. Evidence points to Goldie, but crooked politics prevent his arrest. To satisfy the public, Polack Annie, the Kid's woman, and formerly Kinky's, is arrested. When the police chief refuses to release Annie, Goldie creates havoc by destroying public property. Later, he raids the jail and kidnaps Annie. The police give chase. As they close in, Goldie throws a twenty-dollar gold-piece at the chief, striking him in the eye, and escapes. The chief plans to deal with the gangsters in the only manner they understand.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XIV.

Big Joe Gleason had taken up the work that Kinky King had left unfinished when Kinky King was left finished. They called Gleason the "Secretary" because he was so handy with the typewriter. And his typewriter was the make that wrote 125 words the minute and every word was cruel, leaden and penetrating. The patron muse of Secretary Gleason's typewriter was Death.

He had learned to operate the "mill" overseas in a machine-gun unit. The work fascinated him. He had been drafted into it. But when he came back he adopted it as his profession.

Right-hand man to Kinky himself he had become. And when they found his chief laid out in an undignified and ungraceful lump on the rug of his own rococo apartment, beside him a gilt magazine revolver and a lipstick, Secretary Gleason took over the mantle of President King.

He was a large man, with a flat nose and square jaw. Open viciousness shot from his pale gray eyes. No cunning, no treachery; here was a butcher. He affected no uppity ways and had little traffic with women. He lived in a small room in the fastnesses of his West Side domain, where his landlady thought him a hard-working day laborer — often working nights.

Born under a dock, he had early gone to sea. He deserted ship in New York and drifted West, leaving his scars on Newark and Pittsburgh and other centers where his trade—murder—drew a living wage. He had learned hard ways from hard men, before the mast and behind the rod. His post-graduate degree had been won in stir. On the fields of Flanders he had absorbed the insignificance of manslaughter. So when he went into the liquor racket, the lowest avocation that deluded fanatics had ever pressed into the brow of a defenseless people, he had no more conscience than a hyena.

Tough Gang

Gleason Calls Desperadoes Together

The day the newspapers threw spasms over the latest gangster atrocity, the raid of the Gorio gang on Central Detail and the abduction of Polack Annie, Secretary Gleason called a council of his blacklegs in the foul, smelly cellar of one of the gang's cutting plants. Rarely was seen a tougher congregation than this Sanhedrin of Kinky King's survivors. Man for man, they measured up with the best product of prohibition.

Pete Ferrone and Pinky Shapiro we have already met; they had been sent forth to clip the Edgewater Kid. With them sat Yiddles Moscowich, a rotund, ruddy, pleasant-faced little Galician fellow, with twinkling brown eyes in his head and black murder in his heart. And Ratface Charlie, whose sharp beak and bloodless lips designated him a scavenger in his heart. And Fats Ryan, a crimson-cheeked Irishman, who scorned the gats of his time for a lead pipe wrapped in newspaper, a shameful improvement on the honest shillalah of his forebears. And Nigger Sam Jenkins, a giant ex-yegg with gorilla arms and paws. Scarnose Miko, a Portuguese hill bandit, who had served his hitch among his own and had fled here from the bloody vengeance of the brethren he had betrayed. Greeks, Italians, Jews, Czechs—a score of them—as ungodly a crew as ever spat.

They made their own laws and lived by them. Their laws were primitive and simple. A decent citizen was a one-way sucker; a law-breaker was a two-way worker. There was only one punishment—death. The code was—don't know nothin'.

Secretary Gleason semi-circled his glance over them like a panoramic camera. He flipped back his derby hat, spread his feet and let go his say-so, which was sweet and straight:

"I want ev'ry one o' youse to stay here an' stand by. I got the office t'day that we're settin' pretty. We got Goldie Gorio an' his mob in the bag—not one of 'em, but all of 'em. We wipe 'em out an' we get hunk for Kinky an' we cop their territory. That's pickin's. Nobody leaves here till I get back . . . c'mon, Ratface—kick the car."

"To Bandy's," he ordered as his driver spun the engine.

The auto stopped. Gleason went in, passed a long bar and opened a heavy metal door in the rear with two keys. Inside was an office, an ornate one for Gleason. It was a heritage from Kinky. Gleason picked up the French handset, fumbled, talked into the receiving end, got it adjusted with an oath, and in low voice called a number.

"Yeah—he," he said. "T'rough the alley an' I'll let you in the back way. Come alone."

Chief Visits

Calls on Gleason at Speakeasy

He walked into the bar and motioned for whisky. Bandy Gluntz, the vassal in charge, opened a little cabinet and drew forth a bottle of the uncut stuff and set it up. Gleason threw in a stiff slug and shoved the water aside. Then he said a few words to Gluntz in an undertone.

"Right you got, boss," affirmed the bartender. He touched a buzzer and from above came three worthies. Bandy whispered to them. They went through a small side door and up a narrow, short flight of steps to a balcony that surrounded the office. In the wall, concealed from within by curtains, were slots each big enough to admit the muzzle of a sawed-off rifle. The men could see into the lighted room; they could not be seen.

Gleason closed the door to the bar, opened another armored door into the alley ajar, and stood peering out. Up the passage, unattended, walked a stocky man with square shoulders and an air of authority. His hands hung free. Gleason stepped back, leaving the entrance open. The chief

'Smell' Warrant for Raid Upheld in U. S. Court

A search and seizure of alleged contraband liquor made on a "smell" warrant was upheld in an opinion handed down by Federal Judge Nelson McVicar. It was executed by Federal prohibition agents in a raid made on a building in Baldwin street, Bridgeville, which is owned by the Owls Club, Nest No. 233.

The court refused to quash the search warrant and suppress as evidence the liquor seized in the raid. The petition for quashing the warrant and suppression of evidence was filed by Joseph Schultek and Henry M. Welsh. They claimed the search was made without probable cause.

Prohibition agents had made affidavits to seeing many men leave the premises on different dates in April, some of them visibly intoxicated, and declared they had detected a strong odor of liquor emanating from the premises. The court held the facts were sufficient to justify the search warrant.

NISON TREGOR

SCULPTOR HERE TO SHOW ART

Nison Tregor, Russian sculptor, who has modeled Henry Ford, Col. Charles Lindbergh, Earl Haig, Lady Diana Manners, ex-Gov. Alfred Smith and scores of other notables, is in Pittsburgh, where he plans to demonstrate his art.

Tregor came from Russia in 1922. He was forced to flee from his native city of Vilna because of political trouble, and wandered into Crimea, then the battleground of the Red and White armies. It was here the 18-year-old boy was arrested by the soldiers of Gen. Deniken and held as a spy. Tregor told the general he was only an exiled artist. Deniken said:

"If that is true, draw my picture."

Tregor relates that he drew the picture and that it was the shortest "sitting" he ever had, for he was in a hurry to convince the enemy that he had no sinister design.

Tregor is a cousin of Marc Antokowsky, called the "Rodin of Russia," and one of his playmates in his native Vilna was none other than the celebrated master of the violin, Jascha Heifetz, who also has been modeled by his boyhood friend.

B. & O. Starts New Span Over Potomac

Officials of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad today announced work had been started on a new double-track bridge over the Potomac River at Harpers Ferry, W. Va., to replace the present span at that point. The new bridge will be 1,400 feet long and will consist of 11 deck-plate girder spans requiring 4,400,000 pounds of structural steel.

POLICEMAN HERO OF BLAZE

Officer Fights Way Through Smoke to Lead Woman, 2 Children From Flames

Ten persons, including a woman and two small children, were led to safety by a policeman when fire started in the Acme Variety Store, 803 Main street, Sharpsburg, early today. The flames spread to the Lang hardware store at 801 Main street before firemen could get them under control. Damage was estimated at $20,000.

John Reedy, night watchman at an undertaking establishment on the opposite side of the street, discovered the fire and turned in the alarm. Motorcycle Policeman Chester Zygello, one of the first on the scene, fought his way through a smoke-filled stairway to the apartment of Manuel Martinias, above the variety store, and led out Martinias, his wife, Julia, their infant son, Nicholas; a daughter, Lupe, aged 4, and six boarders.

Firemen had difficulty in locating the fire on account of dense volumes of smoke, during which time the flames got a good start in the rear of the building and spread to the hardware store. The latter place was damaged mostly by water, firemen said.

HOLD BELLEVUE BOY IN ST. LOUIS

Joseph Horvath, 15-year-old Bellevue High School boy, was being held by St. Louis police today pending the arrival of his father, A. Horvath, of 431 Division street, Bellevue, who was to leave this morning to reclaim his son.

Young Joseph has made a name for himself as an amateur tap dancer in Bellevue productions and became imbued with the idea of going to Hollywood, according to a police report. He left home last Thursday. Members of his family said they did not hear from him until St. Louis authorities notified them he was being held in that city.

A rumor that the boy left home because he had failed to gain a place on the Bellevue High School football team was denied by his mother.

SLOT MACHINE THUGS HUNTED

Police today were searching for two thugs who stole two slot machines from a restaurant in Helen street, Stowe Township, and escaped in an automobile. The machines were recovered in a rooming house in Carnegie where they were broken open and the contents extracted, after which the bandits fled.

Five men were seated in the restaurant when the thugs entered, but no attempt was made to rob the patrons who were covered with revolvers. Information against the restaurant owner for having slot machines in his possession may be made today, according to Chief Thomas Saunders, of Stowe Township police.

Police Hunt Cause Of Oil Well Blaze

Franklin Township police today were investigating the cause of a fire which destroyed a Beeler and McEvoy oil well on the farm of L. M. Frazier in Rochester road yesterday. Two volunteer fire companies from Ingomar fought the blaze, which was discovered by John Beeler, an owner of the well.

Stove Explosion Endangers Home

Firemen last night extinguished a blaze in the kitchen of the home of Mrs. Theresa Milbauer, of 214 Dengler street, which followed the explosion of a stove which was being lighted, it was reported. Mrs. Milbauer was uninjured. The damage was slight.

JOBLESS FAMILY IN AUTO, STRANDED HERE, GIVEN HELP

HUNGRY, COLD MOTORISTS DESTITUTE

Two Babies, One of Them Ill, in Party of Six Cared for by Policemen

Police of Central Station today were raising a purse to cover expenses of a family which appealed to them for shelter shortly after midnight, after members of it had exhausted their funds and gasoline on a trip from Philadelphia to their home in St. Louis.

They were Dewey Jones, 32, and his brother, Albert, 29; their mother, Mrs. Ellen Jones, 52; an aunt, Mrs. Kate Robinson, and Dewey Jones' two children, Albert, 16 months, and Robert, 3 years.

BABY SCANTILY CLAD

All in the party, which left Philadelphia early yesterday, were weak from hunger, and the children, the baby recently recovered from pneumonia, were scantily clothed. They were given food and beds.

The men told police that Dewey Jones' father-in-law wrote to them in St. Louis that if they would come to Philadelphia he would get them work. When they arrived there they found the father-in-law out of work and unable to care for them. Mrs. Jones decided to remain with her parents, while the others started back to St. Louis.

POLICE RAISE AID

They started out yesterday, experiencing extremely cold weather while crossing the mountains. They ate but once during the day, they said. When they arrived at the police station their money was all gone and only a small quantity of gasoline remained.

Police planned to get them on their way this afternoon, supplied with enough money to see them to their home.

STILLS, 2 MEN SEIZED IN RAIDS

Raiding two homes, one in Swissvale and the other in Lawrenceville, prohibition agents reported seizing two stills and arresting as many men yesterday.

A 75-gallon still and several gallons of moonshine found in the home of Frank Morollo, 32, of 2623 Tollgate street, Swissvale, led to Morollo's arrest, according to the agents. Later he was released on his own recognizance.

In another dwelling at 302 Forty-fifth street, the agents said they confiscated a 50-gallon still and arrested Walter Oleksak.

of police entered. He wore civvies.

"Sit down," invited Gleason. He shoved a decanter and a glass toward his visitor. The chief poured himself a shot and downed it.

"Chief," said the secretary, "I never done business d'rec' wit' the law. I got your message an' I'm takin' the chance. There's forty men knows where I am an' who I'm wit'. If anything drops on me—"

"I don' believe it," snapped Gleason.

"We gave him the fourth degree. He cracked. He spilled the works—who clipped Kinky King, why and how, and the way they're framing to spot a few more of you, mainly yourself."

"Oh, yeah? It'll take more'n that bunch o' squirrel-poppers to—

"They won't get to first base. I've got a proposition for you."

"I know—you want me an' my mob to blow the racket, then you'll handle the Gorios, an' they'll build you a monument in the park. Nothin' doin'. We'll pay our p'tection like we always did an' we'll p'tect ourself like we always did."

"Don't get all hot and bothered, Joe. You were never wronger in your life. Now, listen: Cop's dassen't kill."

"Oh, no-o-o-o?"

"No. We can't shoot men down unless we catch 'em in the act. No use our pinching any of that gang, either. Who'd testify? Who's prosecute? Who'd sit on a jury? They'd raise a million dollars bail, get crooked lawyers and straight lawyers and run us dizzy and beat the rap in the finish. Now, the word I sent you is on the up-and-up. I'll tell you when and where. You and your boys go to it. I'm in with you—and, again, I ain't. No harnessmen on that beat when you spring action. 'Came to their death by homicide at hands unknown,' says the coroner. I'm dumb. I don't know. How about it?"

Joe Approves

Accepts the Chief's Proposition

Gleason slowly poured himself a drink. He held the mellow rye to the light and watched the oily globules float on top to the edge. He flung it into his throat and gulped. He set down the little glass.

"I like it," he said.

"The proposition?" eagerly exclaimed the chief.

"No, the hootch. It's the real McCoy. If I was as sure o' you as I am o' that—"

"Don't be a damn imbecile. Would I come here, alone, like this? Would I double-team you as raw and as clumsy as this?"

"N-no. If a copper can be on the level, I guess you are this time. Lead your ace. What's exac'ly the trick you want turned?"

The chief leaned far forward, rested his elbows on the desk and talked rapidly, incisively. Joe's eyes lighted up for the first time. He listened on and said nothing. The chief drew little diagrams with his index finger on the polised mahogany surface. He did delsarte with his two hands. He hit his right fist on the board and made the glasses dance. He put his nose almost into Secretary Gleason's mouth as he strained nearer.

" . . . and Joe, here's my hand on it," he wound up. "Goldie gets his . . . I get mine . . . you get yours—you wipe out that mob and you wipe out the murder of Kinky King . . . and you get that whole North Side."

Secretary Gleason took the hand—the first time he had taken the hand of a copper in his life.

400 Insurance Men Attend Trust Class

Four hundred insurance underwriters attended the opening class on trust functions under auspices of the Peoples-Pittsburgh Trust Company last night. They represented a majority of companies operating in the Pittsburgh district. The course will continue nine weeks under direction of G. A. Price, vice president and trust officer of the trust company.

Camera Question Box

Today's question: If a person makes up his mind to do something, does this help him any in accomplishing his purpose?

Mr. Horowitz

MILTON HOROWITZ, Squirrel Hill, student, Pitt: When a man makes up his mind to do a thing, he usually does it. In the case of a weak-willed person, of course, it is different. He would be too easily influenced by others.

Mr. Shapiro

MEYER SHAPIRO, Hill District, clerk: Yes, I believe this would be a great help in accomplishing a purpose. Anything we wish to accomplish in this world is dependent on the state of mind in which we begin it.

Miss Cryder

MISS CLAIRE CRYDER, Brookline, student, Pitt: I believe this is true. It is quite evident that in any undertaking, it is determination that puts a thing over.

Mrs. Wanner

MRS. DOROTHY WANNER, East End, student, Pitt: Yes, if a person works himself into a certain frame of mind, it becomes a part of him. Only the accomplishment of his plans will satisfy him.

Miss Hill

MISS MADALINE HILL, East End, student, Pitt: The state of mind does help a person to accomplish his purpose. If a person is convinced of a thing, he can get it over better to another.

Mr. Goldstein

CHARLES GOLDSTEIN, East End, student, Pitt: Surely, this is true in any case. Determination is the winning factor in any undertaking. Without a firm resolve to accomplish the thing he wishes to attain, no man could ever reach his goal.

OBITUARIES

Mrs. M. C. Kerr.

Mrs. Susan Meenan Kerr, wife of Michael C. Kerr, died at her home, 319 Fifth street, Freeport, Pa., at 5:15 p. m. yesterday after a lengthy illness. Mrs. Kerr was born in County Donegal, Ireland, and was a resident of Freeport for 46 years. She was a member of St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church. Mrs. Kerr leaves six daughters, Sister Agnes Joseph, of the order of the Sisters of St. Joseph; Marie, at home; Hannah, a teacher in the East Pittsburgh public schools; Mrs. Robert J. Crawford, Jr., of Pittsburgh; Mrs. Thomas J. Lehner, of Kittanning, and Mrs. F. W. Omnus, of Freeport; one son, Cornelius J. Wakefield Funeral.

Funeral services for Wesley Simpson Wakefield, of 6011 Rodman street, civil engineer, who died Wednesday in Pittsburgh Hospital, will be held today in T. B. Morelands' funeral home, North Highland avenue and Rippey street. Mr. Wakefield joined the city of Pittsburgh under the late E. M. Bigelow. He was in charge of the engineering of Bigelow and Beechwood boulevard and Highland Park. Mr. Wakefield was a member of the Emory Methodist Episcopal Church and was the organizer of the Emory Brotherhood Bible Class of that church. He was also a member of Washington Lodge No. 253, F. & A. M.; Pittsburgh Chapter No. 268, R. A. M., and Duquesne Commandry, Knights Templar. He leaves his wife, Jessie Robinson Wakefield; two sons, Paul V. and Wesley, Jr., and a daughter, Mrs. J. Millard Farmer.

Oliver F. Wolf.

Oliver Franklin Wolf, 55, president of the McKennan Drug Company, Inc., Jenkins Arcade, died yesterday in Phoenix, Ariz., where he had gone to recover from a lingering illness. Mr. Wolf, who became sole owner of the McKennan Pharmacy in 1914, had resided at 205 Hazel drive, Mt. Lebanon, prior to leaving for the West last September. He was born and educated in Pittsburgh. He was a member of the American Pharmaceutical Association, National Association of Retail Druggists, Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, Keystone Athletic Association, Lodge No. 45, F. A. & M., Syria Temple and Islam Grotto. He leaves his wife, Mrs. Addie S. Mudge Wolf, and a brother, Edward G. Wolf, of New York. Burial will be made in Pittsburgh.

Hodgdon Funeral.

Funeral services for Mrs. Louisa A. Hodgdon, of 412 Home avenue, Avalon, who died in West Penn Hospital yesterday, will be held tomorrow at her home. She was born in Pittsburgh and moved to Avalon 25 years ago. She was a member of the Avalon United Presbyterian Church. She leaves a son, T. Guy Hodgdon, president and treasurer of the Franklin Electric and Construction Company.

Anthony Kountz.

TAXICAB DRIVER FREED IN THEFT

William Hamel, 23, of 16 Norman street, a taxicab driver, was freed of a charge of robbing Frank Eichenlaub, 30, of 27 West Robinson street, of nearly $2,000, at a hearing before Magistrate Ray Schneider in North Side Police Court.

Eichenlaub claimed Hamel robbed him while driving from West View. Hamel denied his fare's story of stopping to fix a tire and holding him up. Magistrate Schneider said he knew Eichenlaub of old and was surprised he had the money for cab fare, let alone the large amount he claimed he lost. Schneider discharged the case, with a severe reprimand for Eichenlaub for falsely accusing a man.

NEW AIR LINE TO LINK PITTSBURGH WITH WEST

SERVICE BEGINS NOVEMBER 1 TO CINCINNATI

Ships to Carry Passengers And Express; Bettis Field Designated as Terminal

A new air line to carry passengers and express between Pittsburgh and Cincinnati will be inaugurated November 1. The terminal here will be Bettis Field, the Main Aeronautics Company, establishing the new link, announced today.

In Cincinnati it will connect with Chicago, Detroit, and other cities' service.

Stops en route will include Huntington, W. Va., and Portsmouth, O.

SIX-PASSENGER SHIPS

Six-passenger cabin planes will be commissioned for the route, with heating equipment insuring the comfort of the patrons. The service will be a regular one, serious weather difficulties being the only cancellation cause.

The express will be carried in open biplanes, and some will be run beginning next Monday, with the regular service insured a few days later.

SCHEDULE ANNOUNCED

The passenger planes' schedule has been announced as follows:

Leaving Bettis Field at 8:10 a. m., reach Huntington 10:05 a. m.; Raven Rock Airport, Portsmouth, at 10:40 a. m. and Lunken Airport, Cincinnati, at 11:40 a. m.

The return trip will begin at 1 p. m., arrive Portsmouth, 1:50 p. m., Huntington at 2:25 and Pittsburgh 4:20 p. m.

Rates, which may be obtained through the Automobile Club, Union Arcade, include, to Cincinnati, $30; to Portsmouth, $24; to Huntington, $20. Return, the rates are Cincinnati to Portsmouth, $7; to Huntington, $11.50.

Pilots include Dick Copeland, Dick Laughlin and E. Q. B. Henriques, who will also have charge of the line.

ADEQUATE GAS ASSURED HERE

While drought conditions in West Virginia, Kentucky and Southwestern Pennsylvania have seriously hampered delivery of natural gas to Pittsburgh, Frank F. Schauer, vice president and general manager of the Equitable Gas Company, anticipates no shortage of gas here if the drought breaks before December.

Six compressing stations on pipe lines to Pittsburgh, situated on small streams which have totally dried up, are "practically shut down," Schauer says. The biggest supply of gas coming to the city now is pumped from the company's southernmost station in Burnesville, W. Va., where the water supply is plentiful.

As a precaution against shortage from this source, he says, wells have been drilled and temporary dams constructed in the beds of the dry streams.

Stating that the local gas company recognizes the seriousness of the situation, Schauer says that Pittsburgh can be assured, due to precautions which have been taken, of an adequate supply of gas despite the abnormal water conditions.

ILLEGAL RAID VOIDS TRIAL

Tony Tripanio, of Ross Township, convicted at the May term of Federal District Court of violating the prohibition law, has been granted a new trial by Judge R. M. Gibson. The court held that the arrest of Tripanio and search of a house in the township and seizure of a still were illegal.

The arrest of Tripanio occurred after dry officers saw five cans of moonshine being carried from the house. Tripanio was then arrested as he came from a lot in rear of the house. The captors then took him into the house and found the still. The court held that the offense charged against Tripanio had not been committed in view of the agents, and they were without justification to make the arrest.

Guiseppi Mozzeo was arrested for transporting the moonshine and subsequently pleaded guilty.

EXAM FOR DRY JOB HERE SET

By holding a competitive examination, the government is seeking candidates for a deputy prohibition administrator for the Pittsburgh district, it was announced today by the Civil Service Board of Examiners.

Competitive tests for both a deputy administrator, senior prohibition investigator and prohibition agent will be held after the application date closes, November 8, Miss Emily Coulson, local secretary of the board, said.

Purpose of the examinations, according to Miss Coulson, is to secure a registry list so that a capable deputy can be picked out at the time the government wishes to fill the vacancy now existing in the local district enforcement bureau.

Harold (Three Gun) Wilson, who was recently transferred to Wilmington, Del., by orders of National Prohibition Director Amos W. W. Woodcock, was recently in charge of the local district dry office.

RALLY TUESDAY FOR BOROUGH PROJECT

Mass Meeting Scheduled To Seek Backing at Polls For New Building Plan

Supporters of a $250,000 bond issue for the proposed senior-junior high school for Brentwood will parade through the borough and hold a mass meeting Tuesday night. The demonstration is intended to create interest in the project and win the support of the citizens at the election November 4. The school is to adjoin the borough park property.

The Brentwood Firemen's Fife and Drum Corps will head the parade, which will form at the Elroy School. The parade will end at the park shelter house, where the mass meeting will be held. Prof. J. H. Boydston is organizing the children of the sixth, seventh, eighth and ninth grades to march in the parade. Fire Chief Edward Ebs is marshal of the parade.

The Rev. S. C. Michelfelder, president of the school board, will preside at the meeting. Prominent citizens of the borough will speak. Other members of the school board who will be present are W. C. Cottrell, Nelson Ducharme, John Seifert and Dr. D. W. Goodpastor.

GIRL, 15, WEDS IN SECOND TRY

A 15-year-old Langley High School girl, who succeeded in her second elopement in two days, was to be welcomed home and forgiven today by her mother, Mrs. J. Parker Cruise, 2944 Zephyr avenue.

She ran away as Anna May Cruise and returns as Mrs. Bruce Campbell. A telegram from the couple was received yesterday from Wellsburg, W. Va., announcing their marriage. They went to a relative of the bridegroom in Ambridge and were to be back home today, Mrs. Cruise said.

Campbell, 19, a clerk in an electrical store owned by his bride's father, and who roomed at the Cruise home, and his sweetheart made their first marital attempt Tuesday. They had obtained a license and were at the home of a minister in Wellsburg when the sheriff intervened. The couple was brought back to this city, and the girl returned to her classes.

Wednesday noon Anna May left home after lunch, ostensibly to go back to school. Instead she and Campbell went again to Wellsburg, where the knot was tied, this time before parents knew anything of their elopement. Mrs. Cruise said her only objection was her daughter's age.

5 HOLDUP MEN ROB 2 OF $985

Police today were looking for five men, who, late last night and early today, held up two men near their home.

Roland Mayfield reported that while getting out of his automobile in front of his home, at 509 McDonald street, two armed men held him up and robbed him of $65, a diamond ring valued at $800 and a stickpin valued at $100. After robbing him, the men forced Mayfield to drive them to Highland Park, about a mile from his home, where, after taking his driver's license card, they got into an automobile, parked along the road, and escaped.

Samuel J. Klein, of 1506 South Negley avenue, reported that three men, one of them armed with a revolver, held him up at South Negley and Aylesboro avenues, and robbed him of $20.

Officer Saves Pups From Blazing House

Four puppies, abandoned in the excitement which followed discovery of fire in the home of Carl Bender, at 61 Millbridge street, Allentown, late yesterday, were alive today through the alertness of Patrolman Charles (Terry) McCann.

McCann, hearing the shrill yelps of the pups, ran into the basement of the burning building and carried them to safety.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Society Folk See Hunt Trials

The rain and cold failed to dampen the spirits and chill the enthusiasm of the spectators at the Brandywine Hunt Trials yesterday afternoon over the Morgan B. Schiller farm in Sewickley Heights. Folks encumbered with coats, slickers, umbrellas and overshoes waded through the mud and wet grass, undaunted, to watch the thrilling jumps.

Among those I saw on the hillside were Mrs. Maitland Alexander, wearing a red and white wool dress with a beige wool coat having a mink collar, and with her was her debutante daughter, Madelaine, who wore a red and white knitted dress with a grey tweed coat having a beaver collar, and with it she wore a red felt hat.

I saw Mrs. T. Howe Nimick arriving with William Callery and she wore a gown of coral-pink crepe and a coat of pony skin, with a brown knitted turban. And I saw Mrs. William Christopher Robinson chatting with some folks, and she wore a green wool ensemble with a brown caracul coat and a green felt hat.

Sport Coats

Mrs. J. O. Burgwin wore a riding habit and a leopard skin coat. Margaret McCready wore a brown camel's hair coat and a knitted turban dotted with white, and Nancy Craig, wearing a coat of brown tweed with a matching turban, arrived with Barbara Irwin, in yellow wool with a brown coat and matching felt hat, and Betty Childs, in a powder blue ensemble with a matching hat. I saw Mrs. Henry Clay Bughman, Jr., in a pirate blue riding habit.

Mrs. C. A. Painter, Jr., wore a red wool crepe suit with a matching felt hat and a brown coat. Chatting with some folks was Mrs. Donald Bakewell in a suit of brown and red tweed with a red crepe blouse and a brown felt hat. Amelia Davis and Virginia Doyle arrived together, and Amelia wore rust crepe with a mink coat and Virginia wore green tweed with a brown tweed coat and black felt hat.

Emily Frew was smartly attired in yellow boucle figured in red with a brown felt hat and muskrat coat. Susan Potter O'Neil, wearing a wood brown ensemble, was chatting with Caroline Crittenden, who wore a pirate blue tweed ensemble with a matching coat and hat. I noticed Mrs. J. Bernd Rose, wearing a blue wool frock with a matching hat and gabardine coat, talking over the jumps with Mrs. Dorwin Donnelly and Mrs. A. Rex Flinn.

Tweeds Smart

Mrs. Donnelly chose a dress of tangerine wool crepe with a sports coat of green tweed and a brown felt hat, while Mrs. Flinn wore a cinnamon brown ensemble with a matching felt hat. Mrs. William Calleran wore a coat of leopard skin with a brown felt hat and Harriet Ramsburg, who was chatting with James McCready, wore a turquoise blue wool sports coat with a matching turban, and Mrs. John Benney wore a tweed coat with a brown felt hat.

Mrs. George A. Benney, Jr., and Mrs. Charles Frick were there, with Mrs. Benney in a suit of English green wool crepe and a black felt hat, and Mrs. Frick in a blue dotted wool frock with a green coat and felt hat. Mrs. Alexander Laughlin Robinson, Jr., wore a brown frock with a knitted turban and Mrs. William L. Standish, III, wore yellow and white tweed with a black felt hat.

Wool Frocks

Genevieve Bell was among the spectators, too. Miss Dorothy Slack, wearing a black jersey frock with a sports coat and black felt hat, was talking with Mrs. John C. Neale, who wore a jade green wool frock with a matching felt hat. Elizabeth Hays chose a smart coat of camel's hair with a brown felt hat, and Emily Stuart a green tweed frock with a black felt hat.

Mrs. Walter Leland Ingham and Mrs. Samuel Adams, Jr., I caught a glimpse of in the forest of umbrellas, and I saw Janet McKinney riding.

Mrs. Jack Lyon wore a yellow and gray tweed coat and a knitted turban, and with her were Eugene H. Kipp and Mrs. Gilbert Rafferty, and Mrs. Rafferty chose a suit of red and white boucle with a felt hat.

Mrs. Eugene H. Kipp wore a riding habit, as did her sister, Miss Katherine Walker. Mrs. Rogers McMahon also wore a habit. Others who rode included Mrs. Harry Darlington, Peggy Milligan and Margaret Holdship.

Wool Tints

Mrs. Cyrus R. Miller wore a coat of popular leopard skin with a brown felt hat, and Mrs. T. M. Jones, III, who arrived late, wore a wood brown ensemble with a matching turban and sable scarf. Mrs. Theodore Smith wore a sports coat of lapin with a brown felt hat and Mrs. Felix B. Snowdon looked stately in a dress of navy blue and a matching felt hat. Betty Scott wore brown tweed with a brown felt hat. Virginia Goldsbury wore garnet red with a matching felt hat. Mrs. David Meade Gilmore wore a frock of beige with a brown beret, and Mrs. Lewis A. Park wore powder blue with a matching turban. Mrs. Charles Alvin Jones wore a camel's hair coat.

Mrs. Ralph Lynch and Miss Margaret Coulter, of Greensburg, were also among the spectators. Mrs. James S. Brown I saw wearing a beige tweed suit with a wood brown turban. Mrs. A. Marshall Bell chose a cinnamon brown ensemble with a matching hat, and Mrs. James Schoonmaker and Rosamound Fitch were there, with Rosamound wearing a polo coat and brown felt hat. Clodaugh McCune chose a black wool crepe frock with a dark felt hat.

Wedding In East

A wedding Pittsburgh folks are interested in took place yesterday in the East. The bride was Isabel Littell, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Edward Shillito Littell, of Cynwyd, Philadelphia, and the bridegroom was Dr. William McMillan McNaugher, son of Dr. and Mrs. Samuel McNaugher, of Pittsburgh.

The ceremony took place in the Littell home, with the bride's father, assisted by the Rev. Dr. R. R. Littell, pastor of the Tioga Presbyterian Church of Philadelphia, officiating.

Margaret Littell, as her sister's maid of honor, wore beige lace with a hat to match, and carried a bouquet of bronze chrysanthemums and red roses. Similar gowns were worn by the bridesmaids, Lillian Littell, another sister, and Helen McNaugher, sister of the bridegroom. They carried dark red roses.

David White McNaugher, Jr., of Pittsburgh, was his cousin's best man, and Robert Scott McNaugher, also of Pittsburgh, and Dr. William McClenahan, of Philadelphia, were ushers.

Epoch Club's 'Adventures' Start

The Epoch Club that's always doing something out of the ordinary is to go "Adventuring" this year and yesterday the members began their adventures with president's day. As is customary with this group of long-time friends, they held their opening meeting in the home of the retiring president, who happens this season to be Mrs. Albert Vencill, of Briarcliff road. Mrs. Vencill turned the gavel and its responsibilities over to Mrs. E. J. Searles, her successor, and the latter made a charming little speech of acceptance.

Mrs. John J. Jackson, chairman of entertainment, then started the women on their adventures by way of motion pictures. Films taken by Mrs. Frank D. Newbury, one of the members, while in Norway this summer, were shown and the motion pictures taken of the club at its closing affair last season were also run off while a third reel depicted a pageant written by Mr. Jackson and filmed in the Georgian Bay district where the Jacksons spent the summer.

The usual tea hour with lovely decorations of fruit and flowers centering the table completed the afternoon.

For the next regular meeting of the club—Epoch usually meets in the morning—Mrs. Thomas L. Painter will be hostess at her home in the Ruskin apartments, the program being on "Adventuring With Explorers." Mrs. Jens G. L. Schreuder will have a paper on "Romance of Excavation"; Mrs. William S. Elliott will give "Adventuring in the Gobi Desert" and Mrs. C. Calvin Burgess's topic will be "The Ocean's Floor."

THE NEW EVENING CLOAK IS A SUMPTUOUS GARMENT

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Oct. 24.—Length for a sumptuous evening wrap is more than an expression of desire; it is a decree. The short evening wrap devotees have no reason to complain for the little coat has certainly had its innings and its outings this summer. But the glamorous affairs that make bright the winter demand a sumptuous effect that can only be obtained through the medium of a rich wrap cut on long elegant lines. Such a wrap can be worn with the frock of great simplicity without sacrificing an iota of smartness and opulence. In fact the wrap is more than willing to bear the burden of the lavish fur trimming that is such a feature of the evening mode this season. The woman who is planning but one wrap will find that black velvet with a white fur trim will give her the best service and keep her looking chic and charming. And unless the fur is good, it would be better to invest in an unfurred model with clever details, for such a coat has an air of smartness all its own that is never found in a wrap trimmed with a poor quality of fur.

THE ENSEMBLE is still to be seen on some of the smartest women although it cannot be gainsaid that it is not as popular as it was of yore. And so just to show you that it is still on the map of the mode, we are sending you a sketch of a brilliant ensemble from the house of Heim—famous for their furs—which was worn by Madame Yturbide de Limatour at the grand charity gala held at Biarritz recently which was graced by the presence of the King and Queen of Spain and the two Infantas. The ensemble has a coat and dress both of brilliant red, the latter quite simple, the former in velvet lavishly trimmed with dark lustrous mink. The sleeves are important inasmuch as they are indicative of a certain definite style trend for the winter.

THE charming evening coat by Martial et Armand is of white panne velvet and is unique in its cut which is a compromise between the quite short wrap and the garment cut on long, regal lines. The back part is flaring and circular in cut. The coat is heavily trimmed with black fox, the fur marking the rich, rippling border.

Evening Wedding

Dr. and Mrs. A. L. Russell, of McDonald, Pa., announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Leile Russell, to James Wallace Knepper, son of Mrs. John B. Knepper, of Carnegie, which took place in the First Presbyterian Church of McDonald at 6 o'clock Saturday evening. The Rev. B. P. Heany, pastor of the church, officiated before an embankment of cibotium ferns. He was assisted by the Rev. J. Melvin Keys, of the First Presbyterian Church of Oakdale.

The bride wore a gown of white satin and carried white roses and lilies of the valley. Her veil of tulle was held by a cap of duchess lace. Mrs. J. Paul Kemerer, of State College, as the matron of honor, wore a gown of pale blue satin, and carried yellow chrysanthemums. Miss Odessa May Hill, as maid of honor, wore apricot satin and carried yellow chrysanthemums, and small Marilyn Jean Elliott and Betty Lou Weir, nieces of the bride, were flower girls.

Eugene C. Denny, of Oakdale, was the best man and the ushers included Ronald C. Knepper, K. Richard Shelly, William C. Denny and Richard Simpson.

Miss Betty Knepper sang and Miss Hazel Speer played the wedding march.

After the ceremony there was a reception in the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. T. M. Elliott, for 50 guests. Mr. and Mrs. Knepper will make their home in State College.

Three Mothers Agree

When mother is tired, nervous or ill the whole home is upset. For her family's sake, every mother wants to be well and strong. These three women tell how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helps them to care for their families.

Mrs. H. Dolhonde,
6318 York St.,
New Orleans, Louisiana

"Before my last baby was born, I started taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I got such good results that I named her Catherine Lydia. I have six older children and five grandchildren, too. I am now taking the Vegetable Compound again because of my age. I eat and sleep better and I do all my housework, and my washing. I will do my best to answer letters."

Mrs. Harold Goodnow
36 Cane St.,
Fitchburg, Massachusetts

"I cannot praise your medicine enough. After my baby came I was rundown. I had to go to bed often through the day. I took three bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I felt like a different woman. If any mother has those tired feelings I advise her to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

Mrs. Lloyd R. Blasing,
Anaheim, California

"After my baby came I was so nervous and tired that I felt miserable. One day a booklet was left at our door and after reading it I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I am now on my fourth bottle and I feel much stronger. It has helped me in every way and I feel sure that other women in rundown condition will pick up if they will only take a few bottles."

PRUDENCE PENNY'S RECIPES

It is regretted that Americans know so little of the delicious and flavorsome Japanese foods. We know much of the quaint and fascinating customs of the Japanese people, but surprisingly little about their cookery. In fact, to many, the words Chinese and Japanese are synonymous and their foods so confusing that Chinese chop suey or chow mein served in a Japanese tea room would cause no comment. While many of the same food materials are used by both countries, the resulting dishes are vastly different.

Recent advance in food science which stresses the increasing importance of food flavor for those who would be healthy and happy, has brought about a decided interest in certain features of Japanese cooking, which always stresses taste and flavor above everything else.

Most Japanese foods have a very delicious flavor, the origin of which is said to be a seasoning in white powder form used in every Japanese dish.

Without doubt, the most popular Japanese dish to the American palate is suki-yaki, a beef and vegetable dish which, the story goes, was invented by an American missionary. In the Japanese home it is prepared in a Japanese chafing dish on the charcoal embers of the hibachi (fire box). In Japanese restaurants it is cooked on a little gas stove provided on each table. This novelty is one thing that has increased its popularity. But you don't have to have a little gas stove on a table to make suki-yaki, you can make it right on your kitchen stove.

SUKI-YAKI—First prepare a sauce of 1 cup of shoyu sauce, ¼ cup of sugar, 1 cup water and 1 teaspoon of Japanese seasoning, by boiling together for 15 minutes. Then prepare 2 onions, about 8 mushrooms, several stocks of celery, some bamboo sprouts and some leeks, by cutting in small pieces—fry out in a heavy skillet or frying pan, a good sized piece of suet. Then fry the leeks and onions until they are well browned. Next pour on the prepared sauce and add the other vegetables. Lastly, add strips of beef, any tender cut with some fat, sliced thin as bacon. Lay the strips of meat on top to cover all. Allow it to cook slowly, turning the meat but not stirring the mixture more than necessary, adding the remainder of the sauce gradually as it cooks. Cook about 30 to 40 minutes until all is well browned and sauce thickens. Then serve with freshly-cooked rice. This amount will serve 4 people.

In making up toasted sandwiches there are a few general rules to be followed. To begin with, fresh bread is not necessary. It is not even specially desirable. It is best to cut the slices about three-eighths of an inch thick. When applying the butter to the outside of the sandwich you may either soften and spread it with a knife or melt it and brush it on with a pastry brush. But whichever method you use, use plenty of butter.

If you are making your sandwiches up in advance be sure that they are taken out of the refrigerator and put in a warm place for at least one-half an hour before they are to be served, for otherwise you will not be able to separate them at all. The butter cements the sandwiches together into a solid block.

Here are a few of our favorite recipes for making delicious toasted sandwiches. Because the sandwich toaster holds the sandwich filling in a horizontal position the filling does not fall out, and because of the self-adjusting hinge at the back you can even toast three-decker sandwiches if you want to. The middle piece of bread will not be toasted of course, but the filling goes into it nicely and makes a very hearty and substantial concoction.

TOASTED CHEESE SANDWICHES—Cheese sandwiches are probably the favorite of all the toasted sandwiches—and we have found that our simplest cheese sandwich is the best liked. Just spread slices of white bread with mild cheese, cover with slices of plain bread and spread the outside of the sandwiches with soft butter. Toast in electric sandwich toaster. Serve them with salads, for between meal snacks, for late suppers, after tennis with a glass of tomato juice—in fact, whenever there are people about who are hungry, who must be fed, and who want something satisfying while we want to give something simple.

CHOCOLATE CAKE—Cream butter (size of an egg,) adding gradually ¾ cupful of sugar, then beat in 1 egg with a few grains of salt; add ¼ cake of melted unsweetened chocolate and then add, alternately, ½ cupful of sour milk and 1 cupful of sifted flour; lastly stir in 1 teaspoonful of soda, dissolved in a little warm water. Pour into a square pan and bake in a moderate oven. A good uncooked frosting is made by beating into a can of condensed milk as much cocoa as it will take and sweetened with powdered sugar.

CANDLESTICK SALAD—Peel a banana and cut it in half crosswise; roll in lemon juice to prevent discoloration. Fit the banana halves into holes in the centers of slices of pineapple and decorate the top of each with a cherry to represent the candle flame. Cut a green pepper in thin strips and place a curved strip at the side of the banana candle to represent the handle of the candlestick. Arrange on shredded lettuce or watercress and serve with French dressing on individual plates.

GINGER PEARS—Five pounds hard pears, 5 pounds sugar, ⅓ cup preserved ginger, cut in small pieces; 3 lemons, juice and grated rind; 3 cups water.

Remove the skin and cores from the pears and cut the fruit in slices lengthwise. Add the water and cook the pears until they are tender. Add the sugar and the other ingredients and simmer the mixture until it is thick. Pour it into clean, hot jars and seal. Hard varieties of apples may be preserved in the same manner.

TOASTED EGG SANDWICHES—Chop up 2 or more hardboiled eggs, add to them a little minced green pepper, a dash of minced onion and some salt and pepper. Moisten with melted butter or mayonnaise and spread between slices of bread. Spread with softened or melted butter and toast in the electric sandwich toaster.

* * *

TOASTED MEAT SANDWICHES—Moisten chopped ham, chicken, lamb or other meat with a little mayonnaise and spread between slices of bread. Butter the outside of the sandwiches and cook in electric sandwich toaster. Serve with tomato sauce or with meat gravy for a heartier dish.

PICKLED PEARS—Four quarts pears, 2 pounds white sugar, 2 cups vinegar, ½ ounce stick cinnamon, ¼ ounce whole cloves.

Peel pears. Boil the sugar, the vinegar and the cinnamon for 20 minutes. Place a few of the whole pears at a time in the syrup and cook them until they are tender. Pack them into thoroughly cleaned jars. Adjust the rubbers and fill each jar to overflowing with the hot syrup. Adjust the covers and seal the jars immediately.

FROZEN CHESTNUT PUDDING—One cup chestnuts, 1 pint cream whipped, ½ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 tablespoons almond extract.

The chestnuts must measure 1 cupful after boiling and put through a press; add cream, sugar, vanilla and flavoring. Put in a mold and pack in ice and salt 3 hours, or freeze in the electric refrigerator. Decorate with maraschino cherries and marrons.

dozen lady fingers, 1 pint heavy cream, ½ cup powdered sugar, ½ pound fresh canned figs, ¼ cup orange juice.

Soak the figs, which you have cut in pieces, in orange juice over night and drain. Line bottom of a quart brick mold with lady fingers, rounded sides down. Cover with half of the cream, whipped stiff and sweetened, on top of this spread the drained figs, then the rest of the sweetened whipped cream, and lastly a layer of lady fingers. Cover with buttered paper, buttered side up. Put on cover, tie securely with string and pack in ice and salt or freeze in the automatic refrigerator.

CHEESE AND DATE SALAD—Wash and dry dates. Remove stone and fill center of dates with cream cheese moistened with mayonnaise, then add chopped cherries and nuts. Place four dates on a lettuce leaf, top salad with mayonnaise and serve at once.

TOMATO-RAISIN CONSERVE—Two quarts fresh, ripe tomatoes, 4 sour apples (peeled, cored, cubed), 2 lemons (cubed), 2 pounds sugar, 6 sticks of cinnamon, 1 tablespoon whole cloves, 2 pieces ginger root, 1 small piece of mace. (Tie spices in cheesecloth bag).

Boil all ingredients except sugar until a thick mass is obtained. Add sugar slowly and boil about 15 minutes, or until jelly stage is reached, which is when the mass sheets from the side of the spoon. One cup of nut meats may be added to this just before removing from the fire.

The fruit may be preserved whole, in halves or in quarters. Boil the sugar and water for 5 minutes, add the pears and the lemon and cook the pears until they are clear and transparent. Turn them into clean, hot jars and seal them. If hard pears, such as Kieffers, are used they should be cooked in clear water until tender and the water in which they are cooked should be used in making the syrup. A few cloves or a stick of cinnamon is sometimes added for flavor. Pineapple juice instead of water in the syrup gives a delicious flavor.

FUNNY-FACE SANDWICHES—Cut brown bread in circles and on half of them cut jack-o-lantern faces with a sharp knife. Butter the other slices. Mix together cream cheese and chopped canned pimento and add enough mayonnaise to spread easily. Spread on the plain slices; cover with the faces and stuff the eyes, nose and mouth with more pimento.

IVORY CREAM—Three-fourths tablespoon granulated gelatin; 1 tablespoon cold water, 2 tablespoons boiling water, ½ pint cream, 4 tablespoons powdered sugar, 3 tablespoons orange juice.

Soak gelatin in cold water, dissolve in boiling water and add sugar and orange juice. Strain into a bowl, set in a pan of ice water and beat until the mixture thickens slightly.

PINK AND WHITE SANDWICHES—Mix canned salmon and a little mayonnaise with finely chopped celery until a fine even mixture is obtained. Split French rolls and remove the soft crumb. Fill the space thus made with the salmon mixture. A meat, egg or fruit filling may be used in this way.

De Molay Dance Next Wednesday

Bob Garber

The Homestead Chapter, Order of De Molay, has completed arrangements for a dance next Wednesday night at the Masonic Temple, Homestead. The dance will be known as the "Bowery Brawl," according to Bob Garber, chairman. Members and their friends have been invited to attend in costume.

Real Estate

An exchange deal, made through the office of Cullen and Company, brokers, gives Daisy West title to a Penn avenue business property, lot 19x100 feet; while Katherine Rhodes takes title to a two-story duplex in McPherson boulevard, Fourteenth Ward.

Cullen Company has also sold for J. A. West to Leo J. Peters, a two-story brick dwelling and garage at 3900 Beechwood boulevard.

The Board of Directors of the Greater Pittsburgh Building and Loan Association have announced a three and a half per cent semiannual dividend.

For George N. Harig to Emma Schraepfer, a two-story frame house with irregular lot in Wabash avenue, Castle Shannon, for $5,600 cash.

For Peter Rauch and Sons, builders, to John H. Quinn, a new brick dwelling of six rooms and bath on a lot 30x120, Norwich avenue, Brookline, for $8,500.

For Harry H. Meyer to Peter Soderquist, a lot 30x120 feet, Woodbourne avenue, Brookline, for a private consideration.

Cereal Is Economical and Nutritive Food

Many Breakfast Foods Are Extremely Valuable. Do Not Feel That More Expensive Foods Are Essential Always.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Former Health Commissioner of New York City, United States Senator from New York.

Cereals may be considered as the food that supplies the most energy to man at the least cost. At one time the cereal was a favorite American dish, but for one reason or another it is no longer so popular. This is an unfortunate change in the diet because cereals are easily digested and are excellent sources of energy.

They are a very old food and undoubtedly their use dates back to the very first days of civilized man. Many cereals eaten by the early settlers in this country were recommended to them by the Indians. They taught the white man the use of corn, particularly the dishes later spoken of as "Indian pudding," or "hasty pudding," or "corn mush."

I believe we stress too strongly the necessity for the expensive foods. We glorify milk, meats, fats, oils, fresh fruits and vegetables at the expense of flour products, bread and cereal preparations. In our eagerness to include certain vitamins in our diet, we overlook such old friends as the nutritious cereals.

ESSENTIAL VITAMINS

This is a mistake even from the vitamin standpoint. Recent studies have shown cereals to be abundant in vitamin "B." Indeed this vitamin is more abundant in cereals than it is in milk, fruits and vegetables.

Vitamin "B" is essential for normal growth and development. Lack of this vitamin, or a deficient quantity of it in the diet, will lead to loss of appetite, poor growth and development. Being without it may be the main cause of certain nervous diseases.

The significance and importance of Vitamin "B" is not to be disputed. Fruits and vegetables contain this important element, but not in the liberal abundance it is found in cereals.

MANY CEREALS

But cereals alone will not balance and complete the diet. They should be supplemented by foods containing the other necessary vitamins, such, for instance, as are found in milk, green vegetables and fresh fruits.

Cereals should always be thoroughly cooked. This is best accomplished by long slow cooking in a double boiler or in a fireless cooker. Cereals should be served with milk and very little sugar. It is really best to serve without any sugar, but if desired, a small amount of sugar, particularly brown sugar, may be added. Lumpy, half-cooked cereals is not digestible and should not be served.

There are many cereals. Among the best are oatmeal, wheat and corn cereals, hominy, rice, farina and a multitude of others. The modern grocery store presents so many brands of breakfast foods that the array is almost confusing. It is best to ask for and purchase the very best brands.

MODERATE COSTS

Do not be misled by attractive labels. It is instructive to read the labels and note whether the product measures up to the pure food requirements of the law. Do not permit the energetic clerk to sell you a product the name of which is unfamiliar to you.

The price of cereals is within the reach of every one's purse. We should take advantage of this economical and nutritive food. We will be wise to partake of the porridges prepared by our grandmothers. These dear women never heard the word "vitamin," but they did know the nourishing value and food advantages offered by the cereals.

Cleric Flays Radio Broadcasts of Jazz

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 24.—(AP.)—The radio broadcasting of jazz music was flayed here by the Rev. Oliver Montgomery, of Washington, D. C., as the president's council of the Seventh Day Adventist Church opened its annual session. He said:

"The Godless jazz music that is being hurled through the air into the homes of the people is doing more to drive men, women and children away from the church of God than any other single thing in this world."

Police Bootblack On Job 50 Years

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—(INS.)—"A shining example in more ways than one" was the tribute paid to Samuel Asch, bootblack, when policemen celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of his connection as official bootblack of the Clinton Street Station.

Asch was given a gold watch and chain, a $5 gold piece, and a terracotta plaque depicting a rabbi braiding knots into a prayer shawl.

When he was 13, Asch was given the job of bootblack in the station.

Woman Unconscious 52 Days, Fear Death

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 24.—(AP.)—Mrs. Max Beghtol has been in a coma for 52 days.

Knocked unconscious September 2, when a taxicab collided with a truck, Mrs. Beghtol, wife of a Lincoln, Neb., attorney, is allowed only a slight chance by physicians to recover from the two skull fractures and multiple injuries she suffered.

Agency to Assist Beaver Falls Needy

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Oct. 24.—City Council has authorized establishment of welfare headquarters to work with organized agencies for the relief of the needy in the city. Councilman C. W. Calvin will have charge of arrangements. Business men and club women will co-operate.

Father of 4 Doomed For Wife Slaying

PATERSON, N. J., Oct. 24.—(INS.)—Bonaventura Nardella, 43, was found guilty of the first degree murder of his wife and faces a mandatory sentence of death in the electric chair, as no recommendation of mercy was made. The jury returned its verdict after deliberating eight hours. Nardella is the father of four children.

IN ADDITION to ScotTissue and Waldorf, dealers now offer SANI-TISSUE the new popular-priced white toilet tissue with the same health-protecting qualities.

HERE is an unusual opportunity for those who have never before used Scott Tissues. An opportunity also for the millions (*) of old ScotTissue and Waldorf customers to lay in their fall supply.

All this week dealers are featuring these famous tissues in quantity lots.

"New Customer Week" is in reality a nation-wide Health Drive. For there are still millions of housewives innocently buying harsh, inferior toilet tissues . . . tissues which doctors say cause serious rectal illness.

Scott Tissues are made from specially processed "thirsty fibres." Extremely soft and cloth-like fibres that absorb quickly . . . completely.

Crumpled in the hand, they feel as suave and yielding as old linen. Yet they are tough and strong in texture.

Scott Tissues are twice as absorbent as ordinary toilet tissue. And absorbency is absolutely necessary for thorough cleansing.

Only the finest fresh materials go into Scott Tissues. They are chemically pure —neither acid nor alkaline in reaction.

In fact, they have all the requirements physicians and hospitals say toilet tissue must have to be safe.

Don't miss this chance. Buy several rolls . . . enough for your fall needs. You'll save money . . . and safeguard your family's health.

YOUR FAMILY DOCTOR or any hospital nurse will tell you that "harsh toilet tissue may cause serious injury." To be safe, they say, toilet tissue must be soft, absorbent and chemically pure. SCOTT TISSUES have all three of these health requirements.

SURVEY SHOWS HOME BUILDING ON INCREASE

Federal Reserve Board Sees Business on Uptrend With Factory Output Growing

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—(AP.)—A September increase in the output of factories and in residential building was reported by the Federal Reserve Board in its summary of business and financial conditions.

Factory output had decreased substantially during the four months from May to August. The September increase swelled the upward trend, but despite this the board's seasonal index registered a one-half of one per cent drop, which was a much lower one, however, than that in the preceding four months.

A lower increase was reported in factory employment than is usual for this period of the year.

TEXTILES ACTIVE

Production of iron, steel, lumber and cement dropped while the output of automobiles continued small but activity in the textile industries including cotton, wool and silk increased substantially and there was more than the seasonal increase in output of coal with a larger copper production.

Employment in manufacturing establishments, the board said, increased less than usual at this season, the increases being chiefly in fruit and vegetable canning and the clothing industries, while reductions in the number of employes was reported for the iron and steel, automobile and lumber industries. Increased employment [illegible] reported from retail establishments and coal mines.

The board said wholesale prices remained at about the same level as in July and August. An increase in August, it continued, was followed by a decline in September in a large number of commodities including grains, livestock, meats, cotton and copper.

LOANS INCREASE

Security loans of member banks increased in the latter part of September, but declined rapidly in the first part of October, while commercial loans increased $150,000,000 in the first three weeks of October. Outstanding volume of reserve bank credit, the board said, increased $30,000,000 from September 20 to October 18.

CHARGE SALARY RAISES 'SECRET'

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—(AP.)—In the final hour of the last public hearing on the 1931 budget, unannounced salary increases totaling $65,000 for city officials were discovered. Among them were $3,000 increases each for the five commissioners of public works.

At the office of Budget Director Kohler it was announced the increases had been omitted from public discussion under the tentative budget through error. Kohler denied they were secret.

Driver Exonerated In Woman's Death

AMBRIDGE, Pa., Oct. 24.—Harry Mohler, 27, Hartsville, O., was absolved by a coroner's jury from blame in the death of Mrs. Raymond Ubrick, Ambridge, killed here September 26 when run down by a truck driven by Mohler, police reported.

Contract Awarded For 4-room School

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Oct. 24.—The West Mayfield School Board has awarded a contract for erection of a four-room brick school house to the Porter and Hoover Construction Company, New Castle. The bid was $23,475.

Burgess Gets Yule Treat Fund From Motorists

Each of more than 50 motorists tagged for illegally parking in Arnold streets recently has been induced to part with $1 toward the proposed treat.

Philadelphia Piers Destroyed by Fire

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 24.—(INS.)—Two piers are in smoking ruin after one of the most spectacular waterfront fires in recent years. The loss was estimated as several hundred thousand dollars.

Thirty firemen were trapped on the ends of the piers and had to be taken off by boats. The blaze raged for six hours, and shipping was tied up because of dense smoke clouds.

PHONE TO LINK U. S., AUSTRALIA

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—(AP.)—The American Telephone and Telegraph Company announced it will inaugurate regular commercial telephone service between North America and Australia Monday.

The new circuit, the longest ever established for regular commercial telephony, consists principally of two radio links, one across the Atlantic and the other between England and Australia.

The service, arranged in cooperation with the British and Australian postoffices and the Australian Amalgamated Wireless Company, will be available throughout the United States, Cuba and in the principal cities of Mexico; in Australia it will cover Queensland, New South Wales and Victoria and the City of Adelaide.

STEAL CLOTHES, $58 OF ILL VET

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 24.—(AP.)—John Ritz, 30, Somerset, Pa., en route from his home to a Dayton military hospital, was thrown from an auto here and robbed, he told police.

He said three robbers took his shoes, overcoat, watch and $58. He was treated at a hospital for minor injuries after his ejection from the car in which he accepted a ride shortly after leaving a train at the station here.

Councilman Quits Youngstown Post

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Oct. 24.—Benjamin Evans, prominent in political circles, resigned as Fifth Ward councilman, saying the work required too much of his time. He is head of a large printing company.

WALTER WINCHELL
On Broadway

(Copyright 1930 by Daily Mirror, Inc.)

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

Funny how some people react to various things . . . That old cynic, Sime of Variety, was saying that he encountered over 30 people one day who told him they intensely disliked me . . . until I started paragraphing about Walda and Gloria . . . Which is a heluva reason to switch your opinion of a guy you've intensely disliked personally . . . The big sentimentalists! . . . I told Sime how every time I wrote about my sugar pies, two morns later the mail was choked with affectionate letters from all types of readers—mothers, fathers, grandfolks, chorines, business executives and others, who applauded the items about the kids . . . But how some others would write and tell me that those items made them sick and would I cease? . . . Too bad about those people.

I will continue writing about Walda and Gloria, not only to keep making those readers ill, but because it brings me closer to my pussycats—two of the most important reasons I have to keep working—when my desire is to do a Crater . . . For a week, at least . . . Or a month, maybe . . . Not that I am tired Of It All, either . . . I'm not tired . . . I want more than twenty minutes once a week—to play grocer boy with Walda, and hear her seriously say: "Please, grocer boy, bring me some noodle sheop for my chillun, an' some bibs for my babies, an' some tahtoos," which happens to mean potatoes . . . I want more than twenty minutes a week to fondle her while she still is a baby—and get that kick out of trying to translate her baby talk—and have Gloria, the most angelic Gloria, tell me that the only boy she likes is me.

You can't dash into Childs at 46th, when they're having their dinnee, and grab a moment with your babies—and ask them if they are happy—or if they are having a good dinnee—or howz things?—and then dash out again to make the new play in time . . . The hell with the new plays—and all the soandsos that go with the racket . . . Those hostesses at Childs must think I'm a fine daddy. . . . I feel ashamed every time I walk in there . . . "What kind of a father is that?" they probably ask themselves . . . "He comes in, pets them a little, and then rushes away!"

Sure he rushes away . . . If you get your copy in late you get a piece of an alleged mind, that's what you get . . . What do you think we are running here—a paper just for you? . . . For what then?—I feel like shouting back . . . But I mustn't shout anything back . . . I used to shout a lot back . . . You stop shouting, or go nuts about matters—when they make it worth your while. . . . When they make it worth your while—you titter at everything—everything seems so trivial . . . The devil with this and that . . . Look at that baby face on the wall . . . Is that a sweet face or is that a sweet face? . . . She seems so sad in that photo. . . . "Why you no come to see you baby in she apart-ment?" I can hear her saying over and over again . . . It makes me miserable.

What an ache in my heart the other day when I thought I would miss them returning to the hotel from Childs . . . I didn't know whether to take 46th Street from 8th or 45th . . . I wasn't sure which route they used . . . But I did meet them coming home, and what fun! . . . Those taxi drivers who saw us must have thought I was nuts . . . But I am nuts! . . . How can you be anything but nuts and neglect your babies for this? . . . A mag wants an interview, Ruth tells me . . . They would like also to interview the bride . . . Huh-huh . . . They'd better not get anywhere near June.

That's my biggest worry—having any interviewer get near June . . . June would love that . . . She would like to spill plenty about "success" . . . "When you were making $25 a week and we had one room and no bath on 47th St. it was heaven!" she said the other day . . . Of course it wasn't heaven, at all . . . It was terrible, that's what it was . . . How the deuce can you be happy on $25 a week? . . . To her, however, it was plenty jolly . . . No children—just June and me . . . Delicatessen from the joint near the Somerset, and a large container of coca cola and sweet pickles. . . . I didn't know Broadway existed then—even though it is a half a block away . . . Used to get up at 8 to be at Vaude News office by 9 . . . Some fun, eh, June?

Say! That was a pretty important job, at that, lemme tell you. . . . Wasnt' I working for Albee? . . . Albee! . . . What a power he was . . . He's six feet deep today and show business keeps going on, anyhow . . . That's what June keeps saying . . . "If you really care anything about the three of us you'd do something about it!" . . . "But I can't do anything about it," I say back. "If I do not hustle around tonight for the next paragraph, then what? Don't you see, honey? Paragraphs! Things! Stuff! To keep them from saying things. If I start getting careless, where is the coin coming from to pay for those fancy skirts, and your dressy boots, and those combinations and those baby coats with the 'pussy feathers' on Walda's collar, and the very 'smart' and fancy 19-dollar dresses for Gloria and so forth?"

And now look at Ray Long, of Cosmopolitan. He's mad, I think. He's mad because I had an appointment with him the other day at 4 and I couldn't make it. I swore a long time ago I'd never make appointments. Long probably thinks I was giving him some top-hat stuff. But I wasn't . . . I tried to go to sleep a little earlier. So what happened? I was just about to fall off when I realized that my radio stuff was only half done, and those dopes up there probably would delete a few paragraphs at the last moment, and what would I do for material if I didn't think up some right then? Well, three hours later I played dead, and when I got up there was just enough time left to read proof and make the radio station. So Mr. Long probably thinks I didn't think he was important enough to keep an appointment with him.

Oh, I am so weary of remembering what people not to offend. Keefe was saying how he, too, gets that longing to tell certain people who get on his nerves that they do get on his nerves, and Keefe was saying, and, that being nice to people you really don't give a damn about is what makes you die young . . . But you mustn't be rude to people . . . Why mustn't you be rude to people? . . . What if you are rude to people? . . . So they quit talking to you! . . . Now isn't that a shame—they quit talking to you.

That is why Miss Guinan is in the hospital—that, and a misplaced vertebrae, because of a careless osteopath or chiro . . . Texas is always being nice to people, until she feels like choking. . . . She'd better be careful herself and not do a Jack Donahue, that's what Tex better be careful about . . . Didn't her physician tell her brother that he couldn't handle her and that her nerves are pretty shot? . . . They all imagine Tex is a happy woman—no cares or problems—if they only knew!

That maniac who nearly smashed a cabload of people to death at 49th and 7th with his crazy driving is lucky the cops on the beat were asleep at the time . . . A Cadillac sedan it was, numbered 2V176 . . . You can't drive machines in heavy traffic carefully, and try to pick up heavy-hipped things at the same time . . . He probably hasn't any children or anyone depending upon him for support.

I don't want to shove off because of some bum's carelessness. . . . I want a few more years' time yet—so I can get enough practice at columning to learn how to throw anything into type and be two weeks in advance like the experts do it . . . Then, perhaps, I will find time to play grocer boy with Walda, and let her ride horseback on my back the way I see fathers do in the movies . . . I want a snatch of what Victor Hugo described when he said Paradise was a place where parents are always young, and the children always little.

Hollywood Stars Halt Film Activity for Football Game

(Copyright, 1930, Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 24.

Hollywood stars are rabid football fans. More than 500 film people are treking north to Palo Alto to be present Saturday at the annual gridiron battle between the University of Southern California and Stanford.

Most of the stars are U. S. C supporters, and they back their favorites to the tune of thousands of dollars every big game.

In case an important contest is scheduled at Los Angeles, the studios are almost completely shut down Saturday noon. Directors work their companies nights to get far enough in advance of their schedules to allow a two days' layoff. This year, Sam Taylor rushed scenes on Mary Pickford's "Kiki" to make the trip north.

Mary Pickford.

Most of the U. S. C. players are personally known to the stars, for they have worked on football pictures on almost every lot. At least one of their number is in a fair way of becoming a star himself. John Wayne, the lead in Fox's "The Big Trails," played on the U. S. C. squad as Duke Morrison.

WHAT'S IN A NAME

Many difficulties have beset the christening of Douglas Montgomery, the stage actor, who plays opposite Joan Crawford in "Within the Law."

Because Robert Montgomery already was a contract player on the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer lot, the studio decreed that the stage player must have a new name for the screen.

After conferences, it was decided to call him Robert Douglas. When this was publicized, however, a local actor complained that he had prior right to the name.

At the end of more conferences, Miss Crawford's leading man has been officially christened Kent Douglas.

Incidentally, M. G. M. likes his work so well in "Within the Law" that he will play opposite Joan in her next picture, "Dance, Fools, Dance."

NEGOTIATES SERIES

George Duncan, the avenger, who engaged in fistcuffs with Rex Lease over the latter's troubles with Vivian Duncan, is trying to negotiate a series of two-reel comedies at Universal. His idea is to emulate the "Cohens and Kellys" series by a "Topsy and Eva" group. Carl Laemmle, Jr., is said to be lending an attentive ear.

IN COMEBACK

The first role of Ricardo Cortez under his comeback contract with R-K-O will be a gigolo in "White shoulders."

Ricardo Cortez

This is the screen name of Rex Beach's story, "Recoil." Mel Brown is to direct.

At this writing, the studio seeks to fill the part of the show-girl heroine and a South American millionaire.

ANN HARDING MEETS WEST AND SUNSET IN THE STANLEY

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

Can you imagine the cultured poise and the delicate sophistication of Ann Harding in the rowdy atmosphere of the Old West? Well, this is what "Girl of the Golden West," new Stanley picture, amounts to.

However, though there isn't much of the "pioneer woman" about Miss Harding, she is an actress. In spite of her almost classic blonde beauty, she creates belief in her Western girl.

And what a girl! She operates a saloon and falls in love with a stranger. She promises to marry him before she knows his real name. She stands by him when he turns out to be a bandit. More she gambles his life and her love against cruel stakes. Poker she plays. And she wins because she cheats at the cards and because the script calls for a happy finale.

The saloon she operates is the most he-mannish resort that ever hit the movies. No fancy drinks there. You can't even get water for a rinse.

The film is the talk screen idea of the old Belasco melodrama, first staged in 1905. Its story is of one girl among many men in the "mushroom" mining town of Cloudy. The time is 1850. It all begins with a stage coach rolling over rough roads and ends with hero and heroine riding into the sunset. Which is certainly giving Old Man Originality the "razzberry."

Miss Harding is always mistress of the dramatic moments. Her real-life husband, Harry Bannister, playing a gambling-sheriff who wants the heroine for his wife, is about as successful in his portrayal as he is as suitor. James Rennie isn't so keen as the bandit-hero either. Numerous others are in the cast.

"Neptune's Festival" is the stage show. A couple of comic troubadours, a classy Negro dance team and three feminine acrobatic dancers provide a lot of entertainment. Master of Ceremonies Lowry does a song or two and sneaks in a clever impersonation of "Mammy" Jolson. The bill also includes Broudy, Armstrong, Stage Band, Girl Ensemble and short film subjects.

$7,000 Mission Debt Fund Drive Object

The Collier Street Mission, where the Gospel is preached free from denominational prejudices, will start a drive to lift the $7,000 indebtedness on the building. Organized by the Rev. J. A. Keller several years ago, the mission has been struggling through the present depression to meet its financial requirements, due principally to the construction of a small brick building in the Homewood district. Membership, it is said, has been increasing.

Novelty Act Given In Fulton Lobby

PROGRAMS OF STAGE TO CHANGE MONDAY

"The Well of Romance," comic operetta, will have its world premiere in the Nixon next Monday. Norma Terris and Howard Marsh are featured.

"That Ferguson Family" will be presented by the George Sharp Players in the Pitt Monday. It is a comedy drama.

ROCKNE SQUAD ARRIVES

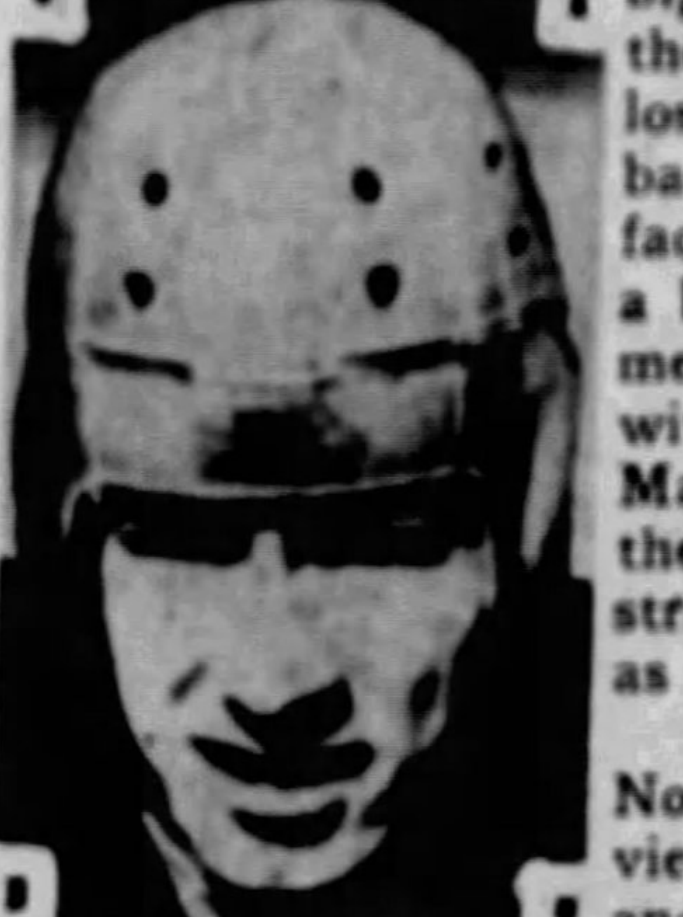
Sport Comment

By JAMES J. LONG

Line Is Panthers' Hope.
Irish Backfield Edge.
Ens' Retention Likely.
No Shifting of Traynor.
Big Grid Games Carded.
Conacher to Be Kept.

PITT FORWARDS MAY TAX NOTRE DAME

THE STRENGTH OF the Panther line and the possibility that the Notre Dame players may not be so full of fire as they were against Carnegie Tech last Saturday are the main items that give Pitt a chance to make a real fight of tomorrow's big game at The Stadium. Otherwise, the edge is on the side of the Irish. The loss of Jack Elder from Knute Rockne's backfield of a year ago, is offset by the fact that Marty Brill has developed into a brilliant ball carrier instead of being merely a blocker and defensive star, and with Joe Savoldi, Frank Cariedo and Marchmont Schwartz as Brill's mates, the South Benders have a set of first-string backs that ought to surpass Pitt's as a whole.



Marty Brill

There is a further advantage for Notre Dame at the ends, particularly in view of the fact that Jim MacMurdo and Eddie Hirshberg have not been at their best on account of injuries, as in Captain Tom Conley, Eddie Kosky and Paul Host the Irish have three of the country's classiest wingmen. It is this greater strength in the backfield and at the terminals, coupled with superior reserve power, that appears to give Notre Dame a winning margin, though earlier results have shown this season to be one in which anything can happen in football.

BUT THE CLASS of Pitt's forwards, if they are functioning up to normal, may make it a much tougher ball game than some of the gloomy reports from the Panther camp would appear to indicate as being possible. The Sutherlands are one of only eight teams in the East that have not been scored on to date, and this clean record for four games is due to what opponents have termed "the perfect line."

Until recently the left side of that line was washed out by injuries, with Hart Morris, guard, Jesse Quatse, tackle, and MacMurdo, end, on the crippled list, but the probability that all will be able to play against Notre Dame assures again a wall that will be hard to pierce. Admittedly, it does not appear sufficient to bring victory to Pitt, but it means at least that the Irish will be taxed to the utmost for everything they get, even though it has been said that you've got to play against Notre Dame for a year or two before you can hope to learn what it's all about.

ANOTHER THING THAT will help the Panthers is an improved defense against the forward pass. The locals have a better aerial attack, too, than they had a year ago, but the main improvement is in the defense.

Pitt was woefully weak against an overhead offensive in 1929 and would have been soft picking for a Notre Dame team skilled in that style of play. But Warren Heller, new halfback, is stronger than was Toby Uansa against forward passing, and the team is otherwise much better prepared to combat such an attack.

Warren Heller

IT'S HARD ENOUGH to keep Joe Savoldi from getting started, and it's even harder to stop him when he does get loose. You can't find a more formidable ball carrier in the game today. In addition to his speed Rockne's iron man packs tremendous strength, runs with terrific power, and employs a stiff arm that is like an iron bar. But opponents of Notre Dame never can figure whether Savoldi or another back is to be the main weapon of attack. Just when a foe has built up a defense for a certain back leather toter, Rockne crosses up the enemy by using somebody else.

FOR INSTANCE, WHEN the Irish played the Navy it was Savoldi who carried the ball in most of the plays, but after Carnegie had practiced all week on ways to stop Savoldi the Skibos found Schwartz and Brill lugging the oval around the greater part of the afternoon, and from changed formations, too. You never know what you're going to get.

As one baffled observer puts it, if Schwartz, Brill, Savoldi, Carideo, Conley, Kosky and the other regulars can't romp, then Koken, Kaplan, Howard, Jaskwich, Mahoney, Butler, Vlk and the rest of the second-stringers will do it; if they fall down, then O'Brien, O'Connor, Cronin, Staab, Shecketski and a bunch of the third-stringers will do it, and if they get into trouble, Rockne will call upon the boys who make the beds in the dormitories.

PITT HAS ONE star in the line who is not likely to be outplayed. He is Ralph Daugherty, center, a star in every game the Panthers have played to date. On defense, Daugherty's work is mainly responsible for the fact that Pitt has smothered every offensive threat.

Daugherty is a junior. Even when only a sophomore last year he won a regular berth. He is one of the best centers the Panthers have ever had, and they have had two all-America stars at that position, Bob Peck and Herb Stein.

Pie Traynor

YOU CAN SCRAP any idea you may be entertaining that you may see Pie Traynor shifted to shortstop in the Pirate lineup next year. That's a move that has been contemplated several times during the last two years, and tried once in spring training, but it's all off now—and for keeps. You can take Jewel Ens' word for that, and Jewel is the one guy in the world who can speak with authority on the subject of where Traynor is going to play, for in the light of yesterday's developments it looks pretty certain now that Ens will be retained as manager of the Buccaneers for 1931 and will be signed within a day or two.

THERE WAS A time when Traynor could have been converted into possibly one of the best shortstops in baseball. But it's too late in his career to make such a change now. Ens was convinced of that on his recent barnstorming trip to Cuba. He tried Traynor at shortstop on his team at the start, but quickly took him off that job and p him back on third base.

"Pie is never going to make a shortstop," said Jewel. "That's final with me. The time when that shift might have been made successfully has passed. He is no longer able to get that old jump on the ball at shortstop. He was wonderful at third base after I moved him back there. I am sure he will be as good as ever there next year, and that means the best in the game, but I am convinced that he never can be made into a shortstop."

CARNEGIE TECH will not be hard pressed tomorrow, having no tougher opposition than Western Reserve in Cleveland, but there are several other games on the card that are not to be doped so easily. Two of them, the Yale-Army and New York U.-Fordham numbers,

Shady Side Grid, Soccer Teams Leave

The football and soccer squads of Shady Side Academy will leave at 5 p. m. today for Buffalo, where they meet the Nichols School teams tomorrow, the soccer game being played in the morning and the football game in the afternoon.

Ponzi Is Victor Over Harry Oswald

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 24.—(AP.)—Andrew Ponzi, of Philadelphia, last night won the Southern Division of the Eastern Section in the world's pocket billiard championship tournament. Ponzi defeated Harry Oswald, of Pittsburgh, in the final round robin match with an unfinished run of 62 balls.

The invading Catholic University of America team arrived here early today and the proteges of Coach Dutch Bergman are ready to tackle Elmer Layden's Dukes under the Forbes Field lights at 8:15 o'clock tonight. The Washington, D. C., team arrived at the Baltimore and Ohio Station at 8 o'clock this morning and immediately retired to their hotel to rest for the important struggle in which they are seeking revenge for their 19-13 setback last season.

Tonight will be a gala event for the Duquesne University alumni, since the Catholic University game date has been designated as "homecoming night." Not only will past students assemble from miles around Pittsburgh and vicinity, but a Newman Club dance will follow the game in the Knights of Columbus ball room at Fifth and Bellefield avenues.

FIRST STRING TO START

The first string lineup of the Night Riders is scheduled to start against the Catholic University team, which is playing in Pittsburgh for the first time tonight. The announcement that Jack (Doggo) Burns is to be at his usual halfback berth interests the rabid Duquesne University fans who have been following the brilliant broken field running of the speediest halfback ever to play for the Red and Blue. Burns is ready to travel tonight after recovering from temporary knee injury which put him out of the going for some time.

The regular Duke team will begin the fray against the Catholic University eleven. Layden is taking no chances with the third successive opponent to employ the Notre Dame system in three weeks, and is seeking the Night Rider's fifth straight victory.

Coach Bergman's boys probably will take the game into the air even though this is much like stealing the Duke's thunder, and passes are bound to fly on both sides. The lines were almost evenly matched, a small advantage going to the Night Riders, and plenty of heady football will be required by the winning team.

WIND UP PRACTICE

The Dukes wound up their long practice sessions under the Forbes Field floodlights last night. The visitors will have an extensive drill period at Forbes Field tonight before the game as their only opportunity to familiarize themselves with the grounds. However, the Catholic U. team has played the after-dark game before and will find no hardship either in following the white ball or in carrying out their gridiron maneuvers on the white-lined Pirate park greensward.

Tonight will test two great elevens, each employing the Notre Dame system, and the battle will be a prelude to the Notre Dame-Pitt game tomorrow in many respects, not the least being the fact that both contestants employ the wiles of Knute Rockne, gridiron wizard.

BIG GAME CARDED

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Oct. 24.—A banner football attraction for the night of Armistice Day, November 11, at Reeves Stadium, was closed here last night in a conference between Weber, athletic representative of the American Legion, and Art Rooney and Paul Muzzio, football impresarios, of Pittsburgh. Those two managers will pit their clubs against each other in an afterdark battle as the feature athletic event of the annual Beaver Valley Legion celebration.

PERLICK TWINS WIN

Pitt Battles Notre Dame Fourth Time

Notre Dame and Pitt will be clashing on the gridiron for the fourth time when they lock horns at the Stadium tomorrow, with strikingly low scores to date.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: MRS. McCUTCHEON—GREATEST WOMAN BOWLER—Mrs. R. J. McCutcheon, of Pueblo, Col., whose present address is 8015 Dobson avenue., Chicago, is called the world's greatest woman bowler, due to the marvelous records she has made in the last three years, during which she rose from obscurity to fame in the bowling game. Her three 300 scores record never has been equaled by a woman and her records on tour last year exceed any other in the history of bowling. She defeated Jimmy Smith in a three-game series, 704 to 687, in Denver, Col., December 18, 1927. SMOKING WAS COMPULSORY IN A SCHOOL—Long after the introduction as a medicinal agent, it was generally believed to possess wonderful curative properties. Its compulsory use as a prophylactic in the Harrow School in England occurred in the 17th century, during the Great Plague. (See Werner's "Tobacco and Its Uses.")

TOMORROW—THE LITTLE DOG LAUGHED TO HEAR THE SPORT.

37 NOTRE DAME GRIDDERS HERE TO FACE PITT

By JESS CARVER.

Knute Rockne unloaded the 37 reasons Notre Dame University thinks it is going to crash through with an undefeated football record this year in town this morning. When you mention Rockne, you think first of football, then of Notre Dame, and then of the welfare of any group of young men Rockne may be planning to pit his footballers against.

Jim MacMurdo

Notre Dame is here for the game tomorrow with the undefeated and unscored-on Pitt eleven. The two adjectives in the foregoing sentence may not be applicable to Pitt after tomorrow, for before a crowd that figures to total between 70,000 and 75,000, the Irish and Panthers battle in the Pitt Stadium.

For the first time in Pittsburgh's history, there will be 70,000 of our best citizens in one spot without enough sense to come in out of the rain (if it is raining) and even if it were, with the spectacle that is to be paraded before their football-fevered eyes, they'd be nuts if they did.

Toppled along the gridiron trail the Irish have traveled so far this fall lie the battered forms of Southern Methodist, Navy and Carnegie Tech. In the wake of the Panthers, Waynesburg, West Virginia, Western Reserve and Syracuse are bobbing about on the tide, which has propelled the Panthers to four triumphs and kept their goal line unmarked.

BATTLE A NATURAL

Unbeaten, and with the Irish boasting a decisive triumph over one of the East's admittedly strong elevens last week, Carnegie Tech, tomorrow's struggle is a natural, a honey, a pip, a wow, and, as the erudite Bunny Buntach put it yesterday, a swell ball game to see from the sidelines and not from the bottom of one of those scrimmages.

After having taken time out to change typewriter ribbons, we will return to the matter of the arrival here of Mr. Rockne and his ball club. Rock unloaded 37 footballers at the P. and L. E. this morning. He brought along three players for each line position and four sets of backs. Following is the list:

Quarterbacks—Carideo, Jask-

ROCKNE PICKS WINNERS

Swamped by the thousands of letters sent to him in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's "Ask Knute Rockne a Question" contest, Rockne, the Notre Dame coach, here for his team's game with Pitt at the Stadium tomorrow afternoon, was unable to eliminate the contestants down to 10 winners in time to have their names published in the last two editions of today's issue as planned.

However, he did manage to get the list down to 24, and from these, between now and the time he goes on the air at Station WJAS for his Wrigley period broadcast with Christy Walsh, fellow-member of the All-America Board of Football, on a Columbia chain national hookup, at 10:30 tonight, he will cut down the field to the allotted 10.

The winners will be notified by telegram as soon as the task is completed and are invited to come to the studio, in the Law and Finance Building, 427 Fourth avenue, to meet Rockne in person and receive their prizes, two tickets each to the Pitt-Tech game at the Stadium, November 8.

Among the 24 survivors are six members of the fair sex. This list includes:

Nora Guiney, 4216 Lydia street.
Mary Regina Joyce, 714 Westmoreland avenue, Jeannette, Pa.
George Maher, 6409 Howe street.
Lee W. Tompkins, 558 Miller, avenue, Clairton.

Blocking, Tackling Main Essentials in Football

By HOWARD HARPSTER,

All-America Quarterback at Carnegie Tech, 1928, Now Coach at Geneva College.

America's great national game of football has so changed in the last eight or 10 years that today there is very little resemblance to the close mass game which the fathers of the present-day players used to engage in.

What if an old-timer, who had passed on in the days of the "flying wedge" and the "whirling mass," were to visit this earth again as a spectator at one of the big intersectional games? Wouldn't he be confused by the modern spinner and hidden ball plays, and by the double, triple, lateral and forward passes, when his team's only offensive plays had been bucks through the line? I doubt if he would understand what was taking place on the field before him. Perhaps he would not even associate the present-day game with that which he used to play.

Howard Harpster.

Modern football is like the original game in only two respects, and these are the basic fundamentals of blocking and tackling. Just as the letters of the alphabet are the basis of the English language, so blocking and tackling are the basis of all football. And so long as football is played, there always will be blocking and tackling, for the former makes possible the offense and the latter gives a team its defense.

LINE MAKES BACKS

Many football games are won or lost in the line. The team that is blessed with a strong forward line capable of opening up holes through which its backs may run naturally will have a strong running attack.

Any backfield man of mediocre ability can gain ground if his teammates are able to block the opponents and thereby clear the way for him. But an outstanding back would not be effective if his line failed to help him and he had to make his own holes.

Joe Savoldi, great runner that he is, could not possibly break away for his fine dashes if it were not for the remainder of the Notre Dame team's assistance in blocking. I am not detracting in the least from Savoldi's ability, for he has proved his greatness too many times to even question it, but, after all, he is not superhuman.

I am merely trying to show that blocking makes possible the long runs, and that blocking is the outstanding factor in a strong running game. A team to be successful offensively must possess a threatening running attack, other-

NO DEALS MARK BUC CONFAB

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

The long conference held by officials of the Cincinnati and Pittsburgh baseball officials yesterday did not produce a deal, but the negotiations probably will be continued at a later date, according to a statement made today by Sam Dreyfuss, vice president of the Pittsburgh team.

"The Cincinnati people apparently seek to strengthen their club," he said. "The cash transaction whereby they sold Pitcher Jake May to the Cubs might be taken as an indication that they were out to sell their best players, but they did not get much for May. The Red directors are anxious to get a better team on the field than they had last year and they will demand players in any deal they make."

The identity of the players discussed was not disclosed. One good guess is that the names of Catcher Clyde Sukeforth and Shortstop Dick Bartell were introduced into the pow-wow.

SUKEFORTH LIKED

Any number of Pittsburgh athletes are keen about Sukeforth, whose speed and actions remind one of Mickey Cochrane. Clyde, after a big season in 1929, fell off in his work during the past summer.

The Sukeforth angle is strengthened owing to the catching layouts of both clubs. The Pirates have two right-hand batters in Rolly Hemsley and Al Bool; the Reds have southpaw swingers in Sukeforth and Johnny Gooch, although Gooch turns around on the left-hand pitchers.

Neither Jewel Ens nor his employers are satisfied with the Pittsburgh catching department. Rolly Hemsley ought to be one of the stars of the game, but his batting was disappointing last season, and it would not be surprising if the coal miner were placed on the market.

ROY SCHOOLEY HEADS NEW CLUB HERE

By CARL W. SHATTO.

It will be the Pittsburgh Yellow Jackets, of the International League, and not the Pirates, of the National Hockey League, who will do their stuff for local fans at Duquesne Garden this winter.

Professional league hockey was definitely assured the Steel City last night when the Pitt Hockey Club, Inc., was formed, following a deal with Teddy Oke, owner of the Toronto Millionaires and the Niagara Falls Club.

The Yellow Jackets will play under the franchise of the Niagara Falls club, for which the International League made provision several days ago. Other teams in the league include London, Ont.; Syracuse, Buffalo, Cleveland, Detroit and Windsor.

SCHOOLEY PRESIDENT

The first game is slated to be played here either on the night of Armistice Day or November 13, and the schedule calls for 48 games, half of them at home. A definite opening date will be decided upon today by the local management.

City Treasurer Roy D. Schooley was elected president of the new club, Horace Townsend, of Duquesne Garden, vice president, and Attorney James Callahan, secretary and treasurer.

With Pittsburgh about to enter class A professional hockey, President Schooley has announced that 25 players, representing the cream of the Niagara Falls and Toronto Millionaires' clubs, would report here for tryouts Monday. Fifteen will be kept on the roster through the league season. The names of these players will not be divulged until such time as Schooley has been permitted to give them the "once over."

REED TRAINER

Charles Reed, manager of Niagara Falls last year, will be on hand Monday for the first practice session, acting in the capacity of trainer.

At the end of the league season, the four leading teams in the International circuit, using the same system as the N. H. L., will stage a playoff series. The first and third teams play two games and the second and fourth clubs do likewise, the survivors battling it out in a three-out-of-five-game series for the bunting.

BLOCKING MAIN GRID ESSENTIAL

wise it can not hope to build up a forward-passing offense.

RUNNING AND PASSING

In this age of scouting, when almost every game is being watched by future opponents, the teams know in advance just what to expect from their rivals.

If the opponents have failed to impress with a running attack, the defense naturally will set itself to stop forward passes, in which case the team is left without an offense of any kind. But if the opponents show great strength in their running game, the defensive team is forced to close in and then is definitely weakened against forward passes.

In other words, football to a strong offensive team is like a game of checkers in that it tries to force the defense to move. That is to say, when the defense closes in, the offensive team passes. Then, when the defense backs out, the offensive team runs.

Of course, it is not as simple as it sounds, for there are many details which we have not even considered. I do not contend that a strong running game assures a good forward-passing attack, but merely that it makes one possible. In a passing attack, talented passers and good receivers are essential.

But to be strong offensively a team must have good passing and good running, and it can't pass if it can't run. Then, since the passing offense depends upon the running offense, and the running offense upon blocking, it is plain that blocking is the most important of all football fundamentals.

Notre Dame Accepts Invitation to Penn

A special fleet of cars donated by one of Pittsburgh's leading automobile agencies, will be used in transporting the Notre Dame football team from the Pittsburgh Athletic Association, where they will be quartered, to Loew's Penn Theater, where they are to be guests of the management, at tonight's performance.

In accepting the invitation of Manager H. M. Addison, of the Penn, Knute Rockne advised that there would be 35 in the party and that they would arrive at the theater about 7:30. They will occupy box seats on the left side of the theater.

The Pitt team was also invited, but Coach Jock Sutherland's order for early retirement of the boys will prevent them from being on hand.

ANSWER TO QUERY

The series between Notre Dame and Southern California stands three games to one in favor of Notre Dame. The record: 1926, Notre Dame 13, Southern California 12; 1927, Notre Dame 7, Southern California 6; 1928, Southern California 27, Notre Dame 14; 1929, Notre Dame 13, Southern California 12.

Irish are Choice Of Biff Jones Over Pitt

By BIFF JONES,
Former Army Coach.

The Pitt-Notre Dame football game tomorrow will be another win for the Irish. Pitt's great team of last year was shot to pieces by graduation and they have not yet rebuilt enough to seriously hinder Savoldi, Brill and Carideo.

Yale has one of its best teams and is one touchdown better than Army, which cannot come back up to the form it showed last Saturday in defeating Harvard in a close, grueling battle, and Yale's defeat by Georgia earlier does not figure.

Harvard is in another tough spot with Dartmouth. Princeton should have a 10-point margin over Navy. Both are below normal in strength.

HARRIS, WEST BATTLE AT MOOSE

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

Two middleweights who know how to box and punch clash in the 10-round main bout at the Moose Temple, downtown, tonight. They are Harry Harris, of Bellaire, O., a brother of Frank Harris, a guard here with the Notre Dame squad for the battle with Pitt at the Stadium tomorrow, and Indian Tiger West, of Monessen, who has turned in some slashing bouts since coming around these parts. They ought to put up a battle packed with thrills.

Jimmy Kelly, of the North Side, boxes Paul Oger, of Wheeling, in the six-round semi-final, while, in the two six-round preliminaries, Sunny Jim McVey, of Braddock, boxes Frank Monroe, of Fair Haven, and Tom Anderson, Hill Negro, meets Al Farone, of McKees Rocks. The first bout is carded for 8:30.

Between Rounds

George Panka, Homestead heavyweight, is working hard in preparation for his bout with Emmett Rocco, Ellwood City Italian, at Motor Square Garden next Monday night. He realizes he has much at stake, for he must get past Rocco to establish himself as the best heavyweight in the district and thus merit other lucrative matches here this winter. The Garden plans to bring leading heavies here for the survivor, and George hopes to be that individual. However, he will have to concede considerable experience to his opponent, who recently won a decision over Tom Heeney in the Garden ring after Heeney had grabbed the duke over Panka in a great fight that turned the fans away at the Meyers Bowl, just as next Monday's battle promises to turn 'em away at the Garden.

Jimmy Riley, formerly of Saginaw, Mich., and a protege of Benny McArthurs, also formerly of that town and now of McKeesport, will box Young Angelo, of Braddock, in the semi-final to McArthurs' bout with Johnny Smackey at Johnstown, November 3.

Eddie Shea and Johnny Cook box at New Orleans next Monday night. Chuck Wiggins and Walter Pickard are paired at Indianapolis, November 6.

J. E. McDonald, of New Kensington, manager of U. S. Carpentier, veteran featherweight, and Freddie Boylstein, welterweight, has some new proteges whom he is ready to introduce to the fans. They are Joe Lavaskey, 170 pounds; Young Francis, 155, and Kid Bordell, 126.

Barney Ross will box Harry Dubinsky in the semi-final to the Jimmy Slattery-King Levinsky bout at the Chicago Stadium, November 6, with Otto Von Porat and Jack Renault being sought for another 10-rounder.

Tug Phillips boxes Tommy Juarez and Frankie LaFay meets Roy Collins in two 10-round bouts at Erie tonight. An amateur show is carded at Clarion, with Arden Hefron and Young Ames in the main bout.

Billy Scholes, of the North Side, who has beaten Tiger Joe Clark and Joey Lawrence his last two times out, would like to box Jimmy Reed, Eddie Brannon or Johnny Smackey.

GENEVA TAKES ON GROVERS

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Oct. 24.—A thrilling contest is anticipated tonight at Reeves Stadium when Geneva meets Grove City in a gridiron tilt, which year in and out, is the traditional "rivalry struggle" of both schools.

In the games engaged since the World War, Grove City has won five, Geneva four, and four have resulted in ties. The tussle tonight will be the first nocturnal meeting of these traditional rivals.

KNUTE REFUSES TO PREDICT

'GREAT GAME CERTAIN,' ROCKNE

By KNUTE ROCKNE,
Member, All-America Board of Football.

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office.)

I must refuse to make a prediction on the outcome of Notre Dame's game with Pittsburgh here tomorrow.

Last week, I felt sure that Carnegie Tech would beat us and yet our team came along and surprised me more than anyone else by the high caliber of ball it played against Wally Steffen's group.

Knute Rockne

I am frank to admit that I don't know what my team will do against Pitt or what Pitt will do against us, but I believe it will be a ball game well worth seeing.

The two outstanding games in the Middle West this week-end will be the annual clash between Michigan and Illinois and the Badger invasion of the Boilermaker lair at Lafayette. Michigan, from its fine showing the last two weeks, would appear to be the outstanding favorite, but you never can tell about one of Bob Zuppke's teams after it has been beaten. Zuppke, in my opinion, is one of the most resourceful coaches in the country, and he never is so dangerous as when he has his back to the wall. So look for the fighting Illini to do a little surprising this week-end.

MIDWEST GAMES

Wisconsin, from the tremendous power it showed last Saturday against Penn, looks a little better than Purdue. Those boys, Schneller and Behr, tore the Penn line to shreds, while Lusby tossed some neat and accurate forwards. Of course, Purdue won't indulge in any more orgies of fumbling such as marred its game against Michigan, and Noble Kizer's boys will be mighty tough to beat on their home lot. Yet it looks as if Wisconsin is gathering momentum for a big year.

Indiana plays Southern Methodist at Dallas, and I am afraid the Hoosiers will find the S. M. U. passing attack too much in the semi-tropical sun of Texas. If a "norther" were to blow up, Pat's boys might have a chance, but, if it is as hot as normally, they will have wilted long before the second half is well under way.

In the Missouri Valley, I look for Washington to take the Oklahoma Aggies, and Haskell should beat Creighton, but only after a nip-and-tuck encounter.

KANSAS TEAM STRONG

In the Big Six, Kansas, which apparently has the best team the Jayhawkers have had in goodness knows how long, has too much power for the scrappy Iowa State boys. Oklahoma should have a slight edge on the Kansas Aggies and Nebraska should not have much trouble with Montana State. If it were basketball, I would say Montana State, but in football, no—that's another story. Drake has the edge on Missouri. The "show-me" boys apparently are having an off-season.

Michigan State, which certainly is making some football history up at East Lansing by virtue of its tie with Michigan and victory over Colgate, has an easy one against Case.

North Dakota is one of the strongest teams in the Mid-West

MY FIFTY YEARS IN BASEBALL

By CONNIE MACK,
Manager, World Champion Philadelphia Athletics

INSTALLMENT NO. 41.

We also had to go deep in the billfold to get Gordon Cochrane, who almost instantly became the outstanding catcher of baseball. This marvelous young maskman was born in Bridgewater, Mass., and was graduated at Boston University.

Connie Mack

In college, he won fame both as a baseball and a football player. He went to the Dover (Del.) team, of the Eastern Shore League, in 1923, and caught the eye of the enterprising and alert Thomas L. Turner, president of the Portland (Ore.) team of the Pacific Coast League.

He played so brilliantly for Portland in 1924 that Turner was convinced that he was ripe for the majors. Turner was a Philadelphian and an intimate friend of mine.

I once had him for a brief time as a pitcher, but he hurt his arm and I used him as a scout. Later, he obtained control of the Portland franchise and quickly became conspicuous as a player trader.

For old time's sake, Turner gave me first choice on Cochrane and I thought he was piling it on pretty thick when he spoke of the young catcher and believed he was asking far too much for a man of such brief experience, but my scouts partly verified what he said. The upshot was that I bought Cochrane and quickly found that Turner had not exaggerated his ability one iota.

COCHRANE AN ACE

He is without doubt the greatest receiving, batting and base-running catcher of baseball and is the motor of my present baseball machine.

As I said before, Turner was once in my employ and I think it is time to tell something about his zeal for discovering ball players.

When America went into the World War, Turner was one of my scouts. He went out as a private and came back a major. That is why a certain sports writer aptly described him as "the only major in the minors."

Even with barrages of shells tearing up the soil of Northern France, Turner never forgot he was a scout. One afternoon a baseball game was played in back of the lines.

It was Clark Griffith, president of the Washington Club, who had the foresight to collect money at major league ball games, the proceeds of which were used to buy baseball equipment which was duly sent to France.

That's why the members of our expeditionary forces in France were able to play baseball. Griffith always will be remembered as the man who originated this idea and kept baseball with our soldiers as they advanced in France.

When Turner heard that a baseball game was on, he was there on the sidelines. No baseball scout wearing a soldier's uniform would be apt to pass up a chance to see a game played in France.

A SCOUT OVERSEAS

The game was one to arouse anyone who liked the sport. One of the teams used a left-handed pitcher and this young soldier succeeded in blanking his rivals in a close game.

Turner saw that the youth had a lot of stuff and was impressed. He never saw him before; didn't even know his name, for there were no scoreboards or scorecards in the French League.

After the game, he went to the youthful pitcher and asked him his name and address.

"I'm Fred Heimach and I come from Camden, N. J.," was his reply. Camden is just across the river from Philadelphia and all of Turner's scouting instincts were aroused.

"Let me tell you something, young man," Turner said, "you must know where Philadelphia is and you also must have heard of the Athletics.

"Now I'll tell you what to do. If you survive this war and get on a gangplank for Hoboken with your arms, legs and eyes intact, I want you to lose no time going to Shibe Park in Philadelphia and tell Connie Mack that Tom Turner wants him to give you a trial."

MACK GETS HEIMACH

Heimach did exactly as he was told. The war ended that fall and Heimach came over to me during the winter and introduced himself, telling me what Turner had told him to say.

I took a chance and signed him on the spot. I think he is the only ball player who ever made the majors on the strength of being scouted in France.

Heimach was with me several seasons and then I traded him. He is with the Brooklyn team this year.

You must give credit to Turner for being the most zealous scout that ever lived. A little thing like a World War and a ball game in France did not make him forget that he was a scout for the Athletics.

PITT CRIPPLED

The Irish popped in here this morning favorites to do terrible things to the Panthers. Pitt will be unable to muster full strength against Notre Dame, which is very unfortunate, for with all its warriors in shape, the Panthers would be pretty close to an even bet to take the Irish.

Such, however, is not the case. I don't go for these bear stories that weekly emanate from various football camps regarding injuries to stars, but it is only a matter of accurate reporting to write that the Pitt eleven has been badly bruised and used up in its games to date. Several of the varsity regulars, including Hood, Quatse, MacMurdo, Collins, Hirshberg and Hart Morris have various injuries that keep them from being at their best. It is unfortunate but it is true.

Long's Sport Comment

are expected to duplicate the Pitt-Notre Dame attendance of 70,000 to 75,000.

A novel feature will be a night game indoors between Wash-Jeff and Lafayette in the Atlantic City Auditorium. Indoor football is far from being brand-new, as it was tried more than 30 years ago, but this will be the first time it has been attempted on such a big scale. Other important games will be those between Harvard and Dartmouth, Princeton and Navy, Penn State and Colgate, Michigan and Illinois, Alabama and Vanderbilt, Georgia and Auburn, Stanford and Southern California, Washington State and Montana.

Lionel Conacher

SOME BASEBALL MANAGERS will not have on their teams players who have been pilots themselves. "Once a manager always a manager" is their way of explaining that they fear such a man would not be willing to take orders. But as far as Eddie Gerard is concerned, there is no such fear in hockey. Gerard is the new manager of the New York Americans. He supplanted Lionel Conacher, once a player on the Pittsburgh team. Almost every hockey fan felt sure Conacher would not be eager to serve under a new master and that Gerard would be equally averse to keep him on the roster. But the anticipated trade is not going to materialize. The news comes that Conacher is going to stay right with his old club in New York. He has expressed a desire to remain, it is said. Gerard says he will be glad to have him, and with the understanding that he will be given every chance for a regular defense berth in the lineup Connie will report at the Americans' training camp in Galt, Ont. A second former Pittsburgh player is involved in a rumor about the other New York club, the Rangers. Marty Burke is reported likely to go to the Rangers from Les Canadiens in a trade for Leo Bourgault.

THE CONSUMMATION OF the deal that restores hockey to Pittsburgh through the transfer of the Niagara Falls International League club to this city, with the combined playing strength of the Niagara Falls and Toronto teams, is gratifying to the ice fans of the district. It means the continuance here of a game that has become a popular part of local sport life.

Even though Pittsburgh's new team will be in a league of lower classification than the National, the grade of hockey furnished by young players of the up-and-coming type who are continually hustling in the interest of their own futures is likely to be more entertaining than the long losing streaks of a major-loop tailender. It ought to be possible to pick a worth-while club from among the 25 skaters available, and with the outfit in the hands of Roy Schooley and other real hockey men there is every promise that the new order of ice things here will be a success from the start.

GAMES TODAY.

Section I.
Fifth vs. Peabody at Westinghouse Field.
Allderdice vs. South at Langley Field.

Section II.
South Hills vs. Perry at Oliver Field.
Langley at Carrick.

International.
Oliver vs. Schenley at Malone Field.

Two games in each section of the City League and an intersectional fracas featuring Oliver and Schenley at Malone Field top today's high school gridiron program. Westinghouse, out in front in Section I and idle today, cannot be displaced by any of the teams chasing it, but in Section II, South Hills will risk its lead by taking on Perry. Carrick, playing its first game, by taking over Langley, may crowd into a mathematical tie for the lead.

ATTEMPTS COMEBACK

In Section I, South High will attempt a comeback after being defeated last week by Westinghouse by taking on Allderdice, in last place in the section standing. Fifth Avenue and Peabody meet at Westinghouse Field. Peabody, by turning in a victory today, can get back into the running.

South Hills has won two games and lost none in Section II. Perry and Oliver both have won once, lost none, but Oliver has been tied. A win for South Hills over Perry not only will eliminate for the time being its closest rival, but will put the Majeski eleven far out in front.

The W. P. I. A. L. card, while not as heavy as usual, never the less holds some interesting tilts. Braddock and Munhall clash at Munhall. Avalon takes on Dormont at Dormont, and Oakmont and Arnold renew their rivalry with a battle at Arnold.

Conference and should not have much trouble with North Dakota State. The Army will have to be on its toes when North Dakota invades West Point in a couple of weeks, as Jack West has a real organization.

Wittenberg is a little too strong for St. Xavier and Ohio University has an edge on Miami. Dayton University, while it will put up a great scrap, hardly can hope to beat Boston College.

Traynor, Buc Star, To Be Married Soon

Harold Joseph (Pie) Traynor, captain of the Pirates, will be married in Cincinnati in the first week of the New Year, it was learned today by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Traynor was in Cincinnati yesterday for a visit with his bride-to-be, Miss Eva Helmer. Pie, accompanied by Manager Jewel Ens, of the Pirates, reached Cincinnati on the return from Cuba, where both were engaged in exhibition play.

Pie, it is said, will come to Pittsburgh Monday.

Sport Vignettes

Hube Vagner

Notre Dame came here that fall with a crack team, including, in addition to Rockne, who little dreamed in those early days of the greater fame that was to come to him as a coach in later years, Charley Dorais at quarterback and Bergman at halfback . . . Bergman is here, as a further co-incidence, with the Catholic University team, of which he is coach, for a game with the Dukes at Forbes Field tonight. Dorais is the coach of the powerful Detroit University eleven . . . Expecting to mop up Pitt, it was quite a shock to the Irish to be held to a scoreless tie by Joe Duff's then little-known Panthers in the 1911 tilt.

Rockne, in his story, gives most of the credit for that feat to Hube Wagner, the great, but unorthodox, Pitt end, who recently was honored by being placed on James J. Long's All-Time Pitt team, with Joe Donchess, an All-America star, as his running mate at the flanks . . . Even in those early days, Rockne was a keen student of the game, for he says he learned something from the playing of Wagner, now a prominent local surgeon, that he never has forgotten . . . It had to do with the high tackling for which Hube was famous . . . It is written in the book that tackles should be made below the knees, but it was the necktie grabbing of Hube that made that scoreless tie possible . . . Time after time, Wagner stopped the fleet Dorais with his "all wrong" methods, and Rockne says he would apply the same system to end play in these modern times to stop midget runners, such as Albie Booth, for instance, who cannot be successfully tackled about the legs.

There really won't be much change in the local hockey situation during the coming season except that, instead of having a minor league team in a major league, we may have a major league team in a minor league . . . One way to get rich overnight would be to know tonight what you will know tomorrow night about the outcome of tomorrow's big football games, especially that Pitt-Notre Dame fracas.

* * *

In case no one has told you so far, Jock Sutherland, the Pitt coach, is sitting pretty with regard to that battle with the Irish . . . Pitt teams generally are the favorites, but not so in this case . . . On all hands, a Notre Dame victory is freely predicted; therefore, Pitt in this game has everything to gain and little, if anything, to lose . . . A victory will come as a pleasant surprise and no one will be yelling for the Panther mentor's scalp in the event the expected defeat develops . . . In other words, the good Dr. Sutherland has nothing to worry about — not much! — HARRY KECK.

Rain Won't Make Any Difference, Jock Declares

"I can't see that rain is going to make any difference in Saturday's game," said Coach Jock Sutherland of the Panthers as he listened to the pitter-patter of yesterday's downfall.

"In the first place, we have a very efficient tarpaulin spread over the field and no matter how steadily it rains the field is going to be dry when the canvas is lifted.

"So it may rain right up to game time and still make no difference. If it rains during the game it may hamper the plans of both teams, but will serve as no advantage to either.

"We have more of a passing attack this year than before and therefore rain would hinder our plans the same as it would Notre Dame's.

"But in the matter of weather, it looks even up to me."

Steffen Predicts Ramblers Will Beat Pitt

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—(AP.)—Pitt's Panther may expect a beating from Notre Dame tomorrow. Authority for the pick is no less than Judge Walter P. Steffen, Carnegie Tech's commuting football coach.

Not only that, but Judge Steffen believes the 1930 Irish to be stronger than the team which swept through a nine-game schedule without defeat last year, basing his judgment on the Skibos' defeat at South Bend last Saturday.

"In my opinion there is no question that Notre Dame has a stronger team than last year's," Steffen said last night. "Perhaps Notre Dame played over its head against us. Maybe it didn't, but we were no match for Notre Dame, especially in the second period.

"I expect Pitt to give Notre Dame a good battle, but its offense isn't as strong as Notre Dame's. Pitt has a good defense, but so has Notre Dame."

AMATEUR RING STARS BANNED

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Oct. 24.—A bombshell was dropped in amateur boxing circles here by William S. Haddock, president of the Allegheny Mountain Association of the A. A. U., today, when he issued an order suspending indefinitely eight local boxers, including three champions. On the blacklist went the following boxers:

Joey Spiegal, junior national lightweight champion; Charles Cravotta, junior and senior A. M. A. welterweight champion; Don Asto, junior and senior A. M. A. featherweight champion; Jimmy Giannatti, 126 pounds; Sammy Asto, 118 pounds; Al Zack, 160 pounds; Chink Rosano, 126 pounds; Johnny Giachotti, 112 pounds.

President Haddock also announced that he would suspend the license and sanction of the Republic A. C., at Republic. It was charged that the eight boys who were blacklisted for an indefinite period had been guilty of demanding and receiving money for their services. They were classed as professionals and thus barred from further participation as amateurs until further action can be taken.

SKIBOS INVADE CLEVELAND

Well fortified for what is regarded as a mild test, Carnegie Tech's entire gridiron squad, in charge of Coach Bob Waddell, left this afternoon for Cleveland, where they will meet Western Reserve's downtrodden eleven tomorrow.

Waddell said that the full squad was making the trip because he was counting upon the Tartan reserves to do much of the battling. No effort is to be made to run up a big score and the Skibo first-stringers will be saved for the New York University and Pitt games which are to follow.

BUFF OUT OF HOSPITAL

OPEN FOR GAME

The Highland Grove football team of McKeesport is open for a game abroad tomorrow or Sunday. Call McKeesport 3948.

SHOOT TOMORROW

The Chartiers Heights Country Club will stage a 50-target trophy shoot tomorrow.

Fight Results

At Milwaukee—Tommy Loughran defeated Davie Maier, 10 rounds.

At Egg Harbor, N. J.—Mike Marshall defeated Eddie Sik, 8 rounds.

GRIDDERS ASK PAY, FIRED: BIG SIX WAR ON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—(AP.)—George Washington University today was minus six of its best freshmen football players, who were left out yesterday for demanding free room and board so the earnings from their jobs could be kept as spending money. Six more are under investigation.

The boys were dismissed from the squad by James W. Pixlee, director of athletics. Later, after failing to obtain honorable dismissal from President Cloyd H. Marvin, they announced they had withdrawn from the university.

The six are Frank Walsh, Duluth, Minn.; John Hofaess, Mexico, Mo.; August Newcamp, Erie, Pa.; Charles Robinson, Newark, N. J.; Vance Jovick, Butte, Mont.; and George Venerosa, Pittsburgh. The other half dozen, believed to be in sympathy with the students who demanded money, were not named by the schol authorities.

A game which was to have been played tonight with the Georgetown freshmen—the high spot of the first-year team's season—was cancelled. Pixlee said the boys had intended presenting their demands just before this game, but had been forewarned and had brought matters to an earlier climax.

WAR ON IN BIG SIX

COLUMBIA, Mo., Oct. 24.—(AP.)—Fresh accusations of unethical practices and fresh recriminations were hurled as faculty representatives of the Big Six met here today to weigh charges of proselyting and recruiting of athletes which have reverberated throughout the conference.

Affidavits by three University of Kansas freshmen last night charging that representatives of the University of Missouri had "approached" them stole some of the interest which had centered about Missouri's question as to the eligibility of Big Jim Bausch, Jayhawker halfback, which precipitated the investigation today.

The statements were filed at the University of Kansas athletic office after Prof. W. A. Tarr, Missouri's faculty representative, said he had been conducting a personal investigation to obtain evidence for test cases and named Bausch, an outstanding Conference star, and Phil Borello, a Kansas freshman, as the principals.

Formal charges against Bausch and his coach, H. W. (Bill) Hargiss, were filed by Prof. Tarr with George Shadd K. U.'s faculty representative and president of the faculty group. While the nature of the charges was not revealed by Shadd, it was understood that Bausch is charged with professionalism and Hargiss with recruiting an athlete in violation of conference rules.

W. & J. DEPARTS FOR SEASHORE

WASHINGTON, Pa., Oct. 24.—Staging their final light practice yesterday afternoon on a muddy gridiron, Wash-Jeff departed last night for Atlantic City, where tomorrow night they engage Lafayette in the annual football combat. A squad of close to 30 players comprised the Red and Black personnel that will endeavor to make up for unsatisfactory performances the past two Saturdays in a night game in the big Atlantic City auditorium.

TWO FOR HOLLYWOOD

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 24.—(INS.)—Another free-hitting, woolly ball game yesterday gave Hollywood a two-game lead over Los Angeles in the Coast pennant series being played off here. The score was 11 to 12. The score by innings:

		R.	H.	E.

Batteries—Los Angeles, Shellenback, Hollerson and Bassler, Severeid; Hollywood, Ballou, Yerkes, Walsh, Gabler and Hannah.

CLEMSON TIGERS WIN

COLUMBIA, S. C., Oct. 24.—(AP.)—The undefeated Tigers, of Clemson College, kept their season's record intact by coming from behind and trouncing their ancient foes, the South Carolina Gamecocks, 20 to 7, in the annual State Fair football feature here yesterday.

SMITH BEATS JONES

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Harry Smith, 160, retained his so-called world's Negro middleweight title last night by defeating Gorilla Jones, of Akron, 156, in the 10-round main bout at Olympia A. C. here. The decision was unpopular.

Wires Singin' in Vain As Pals Seek Ducats

"Well, Old Pal!"

How often that phrase has resounded in my ear, and the ears of anyone else who may have been remotely suspected to have a speaking acquaintance with a ticket for the Pitt-Notre Dame game, during the past few days. Old Pal . . . just a pal, that's all.

The ticket situation has never been so acute in the history of Pittsburgh. And never have office phones, home phones and telegraph wires been so busy. You've heard of wires humming? Say, this week they have been singing . . . and not singing in the rain, either, but singing in vain.

Just to show how tough it has been, I kept a record of messages received yesterday pleading for tickets. Here they are:

Twenty-eight telephone calls, local, asking for from two to 10.

Nine telegrams, three from New York, two from Cleveland and four from Chicago, all requesting five.

At least 10 calls from home, where the maid is threatening to quit. Claims she can't get the dusting done for telling guys Mr. Carver is out of town.

One thing, its nice to know you have so many nice pals in the world.

The Tipoff

One thing Pitt may boast this year is an improved defense against passes. No team has been able to toss 'em through the Panther secondary with any degree of sucess. The varsity has had just four completed against it out of some 20 attempted.

Six good fullbacks, some of them close to great, will show off tomorrow. Pitt offers Hood, Clark and Luch. Notre Dame, Savoldi, Mullins and Howard.

It is tough to get a good line on the betting. One place you hear the boys chirping 10 to 7. Across the street, any street, they are yelping for points, and in still another you hear that Notre Dame will outscore Pitt two to one.

Students seeking to gain admittance to the ball game tomorrow will have to prove they are students (fur coats or not) by presenting college credentials of some sort in addition to student athletic admission books.

Christy Walsh, who "fixed" Warren Brown and myself up swell at Santa Monica's leading Beach Club last winter, will be with us. He's Rockne's syndicate manager, and it will give Mr. Brown and self great pleasure to do Christy a good turn.

Three cheers for the Irish—Carideo, Savoldi, Schwartz, Kaplan, Kassis, Kosky, Koken and Kerjes.—JESS CARVER.

AMOS 'N' ANDY, ROCKNE ON AIR CARD

The LOUDSPEAKER

$18 Per Half Hour.
Mitey Ann Leaf.
Good Old Rossini!
McNamee Again!

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—It is musicians, of all artists, who find in radio the promised land of regular and well paid employment.

Louis Reid

They receive, in case you're inquisitive, $18 apiece for a half hour concert and an hour's rehearsal. Many of them play several hours a day. Money not only talks, it fiddles.

A new and formidable parade — musicians lugging their instruments to broadcasting studios—is in vogue throughout America. So impressive has it become that racketeers, our spies report, have seized upon it for their nefarious activities. They are using violin cases to tote machine guns.

Rudolph Ganz, the pianist, can play the "Liebestraum" of Liszt with a wistfulness that will halt any bridge game in the land. The Philharmonic fiddlers can play the "Beautiful Danube" with a charm that will halt even a discussion of prohibition. Lew White, the organist, can play the Andante Contabile of Tschaikowsky to bring a pause to the reading of a murder mystery.

Organ Music Puts Network to Bed

White is one of the four best known organists on the air, the other three being Jesse Crawford, Emil Velazco and Ann Leaf. It is the music of Miss Leaf—Mitey Ann Leaf, they call her at the studios—which puts the Columbia system to bed at night. Not quite 5 feet tall, she can do as many tricks with the console as Phil Baker can with an accordion. She has a bowing acquaintance with both Gounod and Gershwin.

It took 18 months in a Los Angeles movie house to make Miss Leaf see an organ as anything but a big box of whistles. She left determined to find work that was really difficult. She found it. For six months she played accompaniments in a preview picture house. She had to play appropriate music from memory. From that point her career ceased to be a problem. Contacts were made. And contracts, my comrades, grew out of contacts.

* * *

Detective fiction has not yet caught up with those sleuths who patrol the air waves. An idea of Mr. Oppenheim and Mr. Wallace, to say nothing of S. S. Van Dine—a government radio sleuth tracking down a broadcasting bootlegger.

Among the most ingratiating names on the microphones are those given to Russian programs—"Around the Samovar," "Troika Bells," "In a Russian Village," "Russian Cathedral Choir," "Kremlin Art Quintet." All are suggestive of the old Russia. Such labels as "Trotzky Troubadours" or "Stahlin's Serenaders" are conspicuously absent.

Old Band Favorites Are Seldom Aired

The old concert band favorites of a thousand village greens—"The Poet and the Peasant Overture" and the overture to "Lustspiel" are seldom heard on the air. But how "William Tell" assails the ears. Good old Rossini! His spirit hovers benevolently over every band from Canada to the Gulf. The "William Tell Overture" is the backbone of every bandmaster's repertory. It has been blared forth more than any other tune. Nothing seems to dim its glory.

Comes a wintry blast from Jay Halprin, Staten Island:

"The Scranton Republican, in its issue of October 17, says: 'A newspaper would not send its police reporter to cover the opening of a new play, no matter how good he might me at covering his own field. Why cannot the broadcasting companies be equally sensible?'

"This brings up the question of why McNamee is permitted to attempt to broadcast any event outside a church social or choir rehearsal. I understand he was once a good singer."

Perhaps because he can convey excitement where none or little exists. Even synthetic excitement, Mr. Halprin, is better than none at all—to the armchair arena.

Tomorrow?

Here's a way to be rid of constipation and its ills—often overnight! A candy Cascaret at bedtime—tomorrow morning you're feeling fine. Breath is sweetened; tongue cleared; biliousness, headaches, dizziness, vanish. Repeat the treatment two or three nights to get every particle of the souring waste out of your system. See how appetite and energy return; how digestion improves. The action of Cascarets is sure, complete, helpful to everyone. HUSING PICKS IRISH

Ted Husing, Columbia's human jumping jack, arrived in Pittsburgh last midnight primed to describe the game of his life at Pitt Stadium tomorrow.

Ted picks Notre Dame to win, 14 to 7, but says anything may happen—and hopes it does!

In the William Penn Hotel at 1 a. m. today this 28-year-old whiz beat us down with a rapid fire pre-game description, dragged from his trunk a pair of binoculars powerful enough for us to distinguish the exact time on the clock at Pennsylvania Station 16 blocks away—farther than any football player will ever be—and showed us the unique electric signal system he and his buddy use in keeping the reports of football games straight.

Ted promises us an accurate play-by-play tomorrow. He has all the Notre Dame plays memorised and will attend a Pitt practice today to study the Panther style.

Ted is hale as ever, the same effervescent boy who appeared here with Paul Whiteman some months ago at the Mosque. He is forever drawing mental pictures and waving his arms. A pleasant fellow and sports announcer who surely knows his stuff!

Ted presented us with a pre-game statement as follows:

Greetings, my brethren!

We—myself and crew of three—are so enthused over the Pitt-Notre Dame game that we hope we will please you whichever team wins. We hope and feel that our game description will readily check with the press reports and be thoroughly impartial.

The Notre Dame team is a whirlwind squad, thoroughly grounded in the Vaunted Viking's noted football lore while Jock Sutherland's crashing powerhouse wingback offense will test Rockne's untested line defensive.

We have seen the Irish in action and are not familiar with the Panther system, but our scouts—oh, yes! I employ two of them to scout for me—have given me plenty of dope.

I expect Notre Dame to win, 14 to 7—but, and please note that but—if Pittsburgh has a deceptive offensive style unseen as yet I can safely say that Rockne will do well to even win.

The dope on the game is the usual type. I am an out of towner who will probably be taken "on the chin" for being truthful—but I'm only as human as any press man would be and the psychology is that Notre Dame is nigh unbeatable. Yet if Pitt would, could or should WIN—Gee! what my audience would get. You see I'm praying for Pitt to win for the radio listeners' sake—thrilling game—plenty of action—vital moments, etc., but good old man dope says Notre Dame.

Les Quailey, my professional observer, former Alfred University quarterback, is a football strategist and student, and is the "backstage" man whose keen eye and analysis of play make the Columbia broadcasts accurate, colorful and checkable with the papers.

We use a new announcing system, new mike layouts, and we scout each team. See them in advance and write, worry, live, talk and sleep the teams.

To prove this we give you a few predictions for tomorrow. Check on them in the Sunday Sun-Telegraph:

Pitt, 7; Notre Dame, 14.
Army, 14; Yale, 6.
N. Y. U., 6; Fordham, 13.
Navy, 7; Princeton, 7.
Penn State, 0; Syracuse, 35.
Lehigh, 6; Penn, 21.
Wisconsin, 30; Purdue, 0.
S. Calif., 14; Stanford, 12.

Well, that's all until tomorrow. Talk to you at 1:45 from Pitt Stadium.

Ted Husing

ALL SET FOR BIG GAME

TED HUSING

The whirlwind, mile a minute ace of the Columbia Broadcasting System—Ted Husing—arrived in Pittsburgh last night to make ready for his description of the Pitt-Notre Dame game over WJAS and CBS tomorrow afternoon at 1:45. His system of checking plays and players is said to be the most accurate in radio.

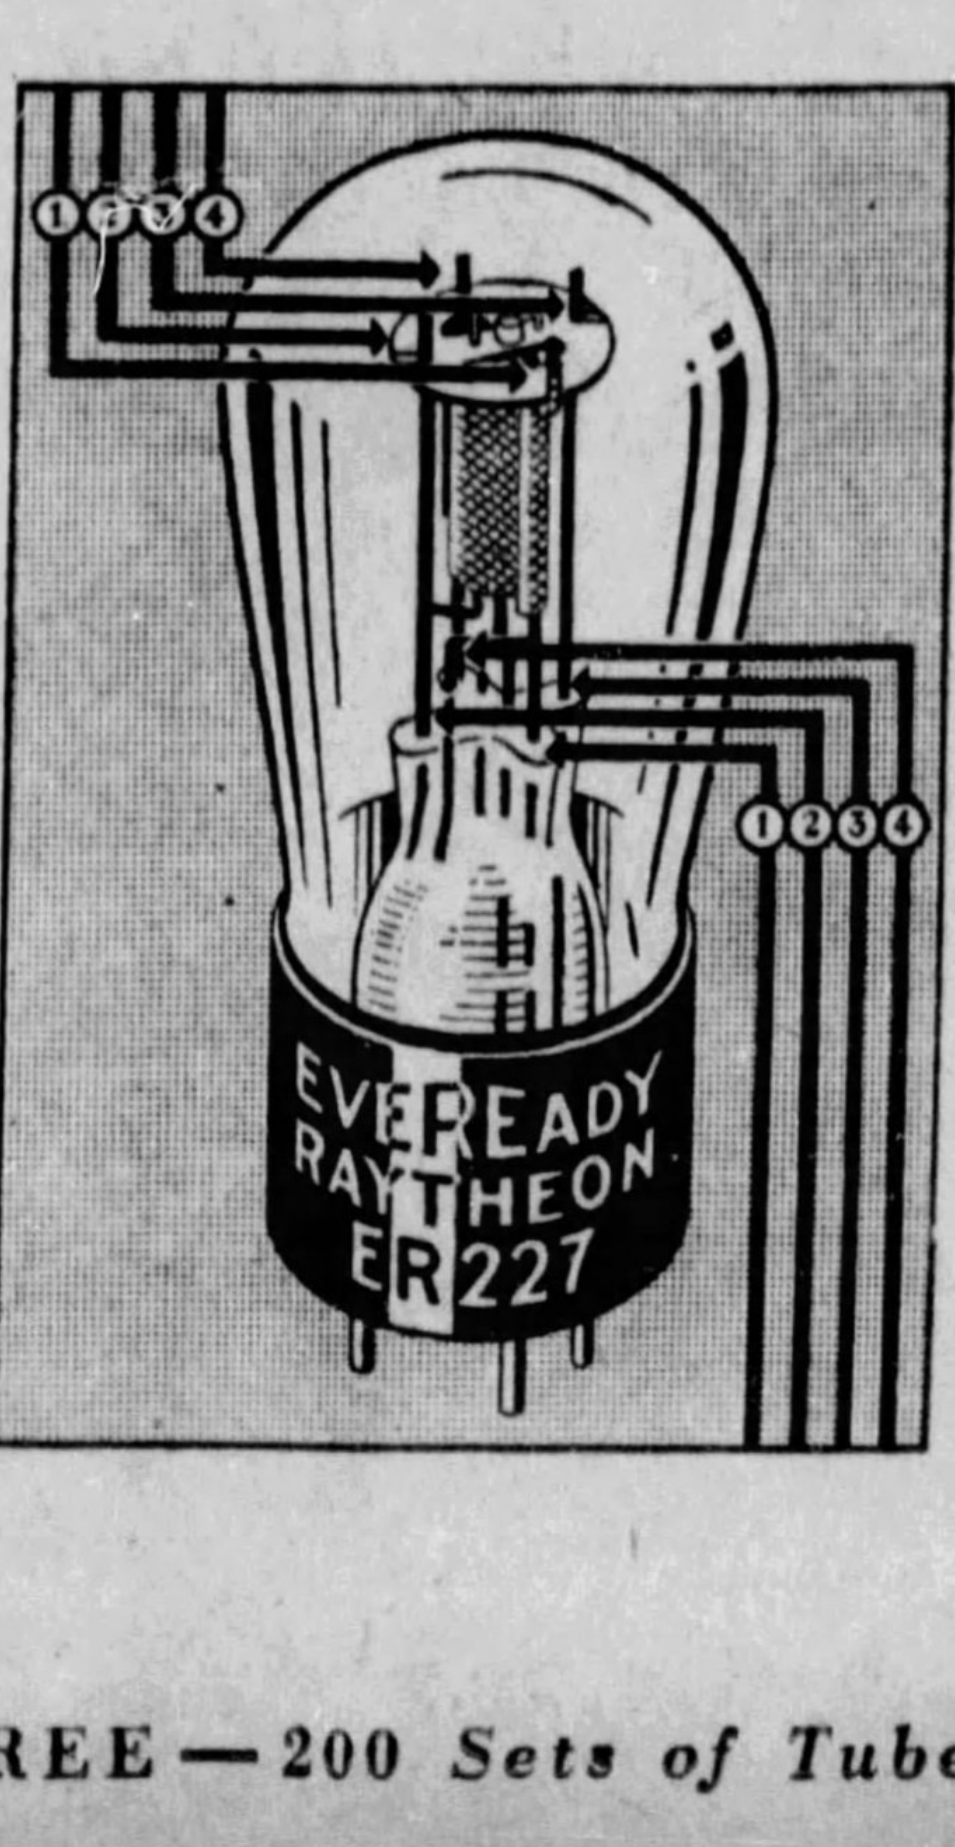
When your Radio "goes haywire"

EVEN the best radio will "let you down" sometimes—usually just when you'd give a lot to have it perform to advantage. But don't jump to conclusions . . . ten to one the trouble's with your tubes. Put in a set of Eveready Raytheon 4-Pillar Tubes. They bring out all the beauty of tone that's in your radio!

The reason for this startling difference lies in a new patented principle—the Eveready Raytheon 4-Pillar construction. Like the piers of a suspension-bridge, or a water-tower on top of a building, the elements in an Eveready Raytheon Tube are anchored at four points. Protected, against bumps and vibration. This 4-Pillar construction is exclusive with Eveready Raytheon . . . no other tube can use it.



Free Tube Demonstration

We know these tubes will improve your radio, and we want you to have a free demonstration with them at home. Just call your radio dealer, and arrange a convenient time. Now is the time to make a fair comparison . . . don't wait for your set to "go haywire."

* * *

The Eveready Hour, radio's oldest commercial feature, is broadcast every Tuesday evening at nine (Eastern standard time) from WEAF over a nationwide N. B. C. network of 27 stations.

NATIONAL CARBON CO., INC.
General Offices: New York, N. Y.
Unit of Union Carbide UCC and Carbon Corporation

The free Eveready Raytheon demonstration, in your own radio, at home, is more conclusive, convenient and complete than testing your tubes with a meter in a radio-store. Don't miss this opportunity to learn how 4-Pillar Tubes will improve your radio . . . especially if your present tubes are a year or more old.

11 SOUND ADVANTAGES

1. Patented 4-Pillar construction.
2. Built four-square like the Pyramids.
3. Unaffected by vibration from dynamic speakers.
4. Immune to bumps of shipment and handling.
5. Uniform—in quality and performance.
6. Long-life—better reception for a longer time.
7. Quick-acting—heat-up without delay.
8. Fit all standard radio-sets.
9. Made by makers of Eveready Layer-bilt Batteries.
10. Cost no more than old-fashioned tubes.
11. Make new radios out of old.

LUCKY GIRL

By HAZEL LIVINGSTON

CHAPTER LIII.

A woman cried all night. Her wailing tore at Cathie's heart. The happiness that had seemed hers for a few minutes blew away in the still, dark watches. . . . She must have been crazy to feel happy . . . . to feel happy on the day she was found guilty of murder. . . .

Mr. Allan thought there would be another trial. He said he was sure of it. But he had been sure she'd be acquitted in the first trial . . . and she wasn't . . . You have to learn not to depend on anybody but Gordon and Ma . . .

And Ma was sick. Sick in bed, with a trained nurse . . . broken down by the work and the shock of the verdict . . . Gordon . . . Gordon was more than half sick. He looked so tired . . . so tired . . .

She'd have to stop dragging them down with her . . . Ma . . . Ma would keep on, nothing could stop her. She was lost. Lost because Cathie was her child, and she was an old-fashioned, loving mother . . . But there might be some way of saving Gordon . . .

Maybe the blind aunt could think of a way . . . She could ask her to call at the jail . . . The blind aunt was so wise . . . She'd know some way to persuade Gordon to forget . . . get another girl . . . You shouldn't let a man ruin his life for you, even if he does love you . . . and you love him . . .

Maybe if he'd get interested in another girl . . . that Mrs. Willoughby . . . No, not Mrs. Willoughby . . . she's too cold and calculating. She'd never really make him happy . . . And not a girl like Marsha Darrow, either . . . she has such a mean, hard streak . . . it would have to be someone else . . . someone who would really understand and appreciate him . . . The blind aunt would think of someone, probably . . .

Strange Noises

And at the thought of the nice girl Miss Maude Moore would find for him, Cathie pressed her face into the pillow and cried quietly, so that no one would hear. She didn't want to disturb the other women in the jail.

Towards morning she awoke. Lay awake, listening . . . straining every nerve to hear the strange night noises. . . . Nothing to be afraid of, of course. You're surely safe in a jail! . . . Funny . . . footsteps sounding way off somewhere . . . feet ringing on cement floors . . . ghostly sounding, those footsteps. . . . Was somebody coming? No, only some jailer making the rounds. . . . Nothing to be afraid of . . . locked in a cell! A cell that how many wretched women have been locked in? Maybe they lay awake nights, afraid, too . . . all those other women who were once in this cell. . . .

That's a queer noise . . . scratchy. . . . Mice? What are those other things . . . cockroaches! Maybe they have them in San Quentin . . . it's too clean and modern here to have anything like that . . . it's just imagination, thinking you hear scratching noises . . . no, it isn't . . . something IS scratching . . oh, it is, it is!

No, it's nothing . . . but that wailing down the corridor is awful . . . wonder what's the matter? Why don't they do something for that woman? Maybe she's sick. . . . That's the elevator stopping . . . no, it went on. . . .

Farnsworth House

This is like the nights in the Farnsworth house . . . hideous, nights they were. . . . Queer about houses . . . some make you feel all peaceful and safe and others . . . others don't. . . .

In the house on Clara street the night noises were all nice ones . . . comforting, human-sounding ones. Through the partition you could hear the springs squeak as Ma turned over in bed . . . you could listen and hear little Jean's soft, regular breathing. And if there was a scratching at your window you could call, very, very softly, "Here, kitty, come puss!" and the Hennessys' black Genevieve would leap on the sill and sit there, purring loudly, waiting to be invited to come in and curl up on the quilt beside you. . . .

Even jail is better than the house on Presidio Terrace . . . Mr. Farnsworth's house. . . .

You never heard any comforting, human noises there. Sometimes it was silent as a tomb . . . not even a sound from the street. . . Never a frog or a cricket in the garden . . never a familiar, comfortable sound . . . just silence and the creaking, sighing noises there were the voices of the house, that came out of the wood . . and sometimes the stealthy patter of footsteps in the halls . . footsteps that stopped when you listened, and melted away into nothing . . and towards dawn the rain sometimes, pelting down drearily . . . a gray accompaniment to the distant squeaky melody of a Chinese flute. . . .

No wonder Mr. Farnsworth was killed in the night . . . a lot went on in that house in the dark, if you only knew what it was . . . those footsteps belonged to somebody . . . somebody who knew secret hiding places. . . .

Cathie's teeth began to chatter, her heart to thud . . . wonder she wasn't killed, too . . . wonder they weren't all found dead. . . .

There she was, thinking about herself again . . . when poor Mr. Farnsworth was dead and buried, and Gordon's heart was just about broken, and Ma . . . Ma . . .

But when she thought about Ma, sinking down into a heap on that courtroom floor, what was left of her self-control snapped . . . She bit into the pillow to stifle the sobs she couldn't keep back, and it didn't do any good, she could hear herself crying . . . crying out loud, crying uncontrollably . . . Just one more woman weeping in the night, in a cell.

Cheong Visits

She was too sick to see Gordon when he came, early in the morning. But the matron helped her make herself presentable about noon, and she went in to the visitors' room to talk to him for a few moments, a washed-out wraith of a girl with black-circled eyes, and mourning that hung on her dejectedly.

"Well, another day and we ought to have something," he said with false heartiness.

She laid her pale cheek next to his. "Don't mind too much, dear . . . I don't . . ."

And unexpectedly, she broke down, and wept again.

She was thinking of Friday . . . day after tomorrow . . . the day they were going to sentence her . . . and the court . . . and Ma too sick to come and sit beside her . . .

Mrs. Evans motioned for him to go.

Towards evening Cheong came.

He wore his black coat, and the old, flat derby hat, and his bland, Oriental face was as expressionless as ever.

From an inner pocket he brought out a screw of brown paper, unwound it carefully, and presented her with half a dozen stalks of pungent China lilies.

"Mr. Moore thinks they'll have Marguerite by tomorrow," she told him. It was suddenly easy to talk. Cheong was somebody you could talk to . . . too bad she hadn't known it before . . . in the lonely days, in the house . . . he could have helped . . . She knew that now.

"Mr. Moore is very wise," the old Chinaman said softly.

"You think they'll find her, Cheong?"

"Of a certainty."

"But Cheong, why did she go away like that? She was always so kind, and I needed her so—"

"These are things past human understanding."

"I know, but if I could just believe—"

New Born Hope

"You will believe. You who are young, in the springtime of life. You will be happy again. Before the green hills turn brown under the summer sun you will have forgotten—" he swept the small room with a yellow hand—"much!"

"Not if I'm still here—" Cathie said tremulously. The tears of weakness stood in her eyes, but she managed to smile as she said it. . . . Hope . . . Hope, newborn and weak, but Hope was in her again. . . .

The old Chinaman was talking. . . . "Things are neither good nor evil, it is only their uses that have these properties. Good things may be the cause of evil. The child becomes ill of eating sweets, the old man who stays watching the full moon through the pine branches contracts rheumatism. The beautiful fountain attracts mosquitoes.

"Evil things may do good, foul poisons kill fouler vermin, carion birds and maggots keep the world clean of offal. Death may pevent misery. Fate puts things to strange uses. In an humble way the wise man may emulate fate.

"The physician uses the dried blood of spiders to cure fevers. He uses opium and morphine to prevent pain and shorten misery. The wise man may utilize the malice of fools in order that good may come."

The voice of the old Chinaman died away. Cathie had the feeling that he had forgotten her, that he was talking to himself.

"Goodbye, Catherine Farnsworth," he said suddenly, bowing himself away.

"Goodbye, Cheong."

"Before the green hills turn brown under the summer sun." . . . Maybe it was silly to believe it . . . but she did . . .

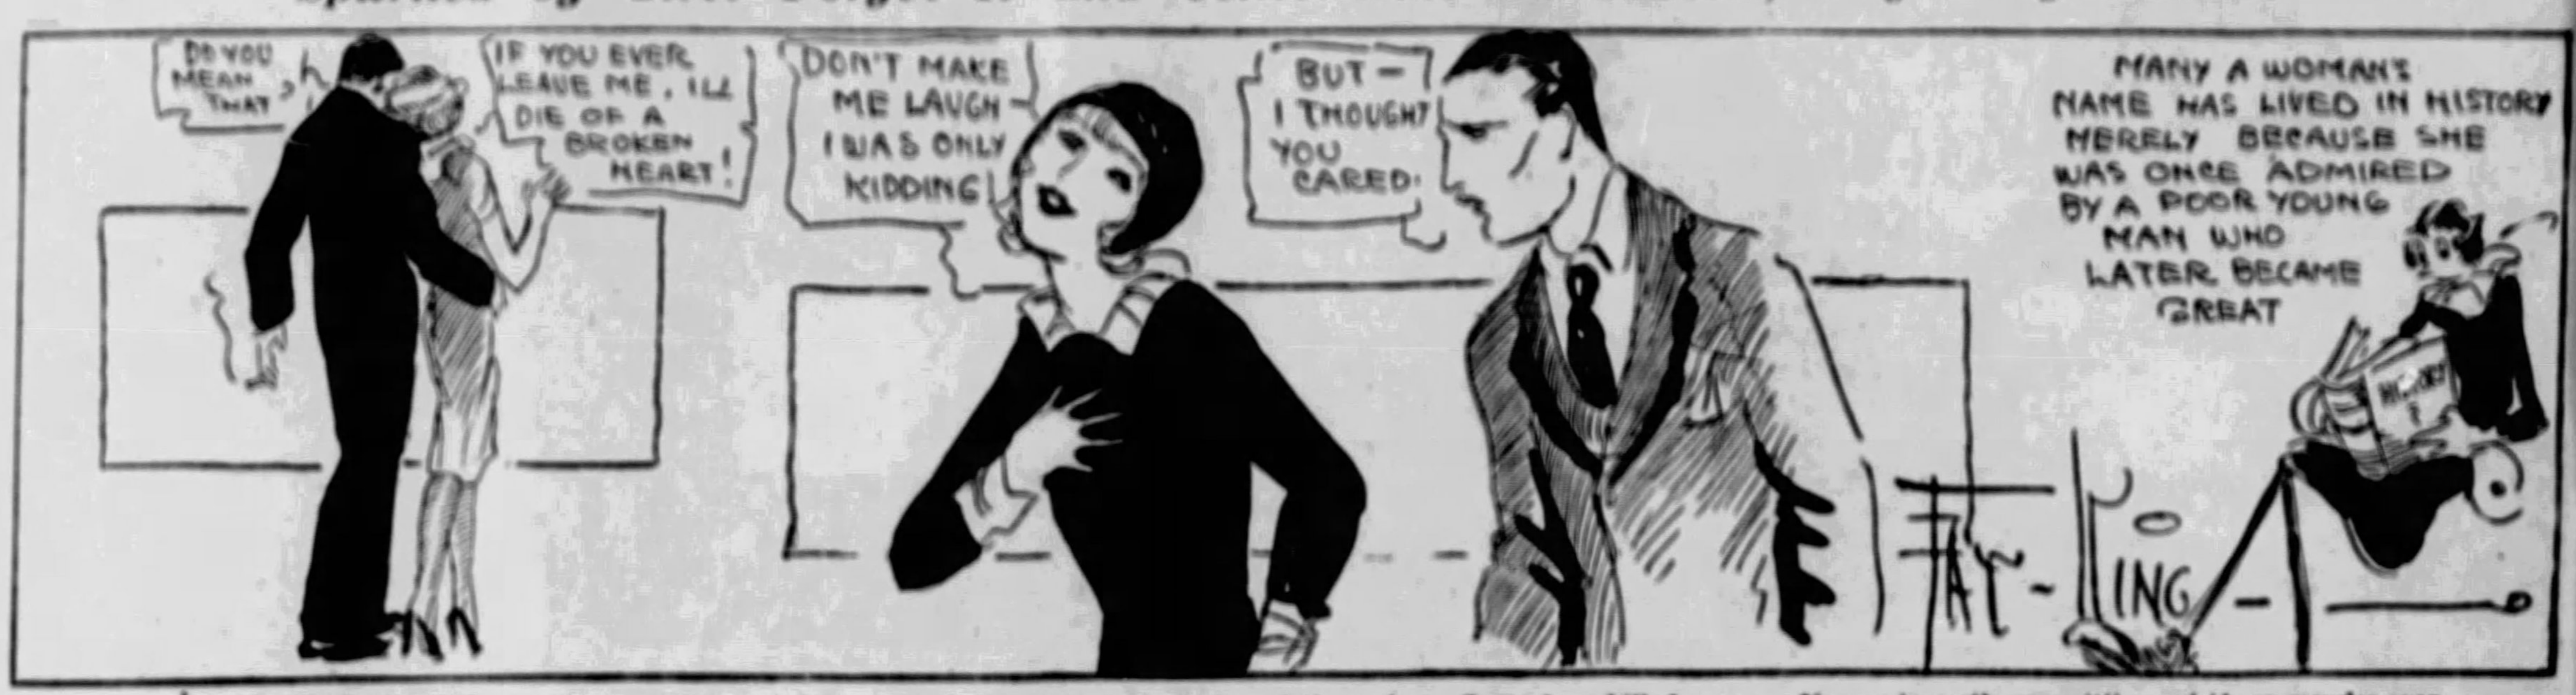
Spurned by Girl? Forget It and Concentrate on Success, Fay King Advises



DO YOU MEAN THAT?
IF YOU EVER LEAVE ME, I'LL DIE OF A BROKEN HEART!
DON'T MAKE ME LAUGH—I WAS ONLY KIDDING!
BUT—I THOUGHT YOU CARED.
MANY A WOMAN'S NAME HAS LIVED IN HISTORY MERELY BECAUSE SHE WAS ONCE ADMIRED BY A POOR YOUNG MAN WHO LATER BECAME GREAT FAY-KING

By FAY KING

Sometimes a girl delights in encouraging a young man who admires her. When he has fallen in love and declared himself, she laughs at him.

Some of these young men, their pride more deeply wounded than their hearts, have destroyed themselves. Some have killed the girl.

This is foolish and accomplishes nothing.

The thing to do in such a case is to walk away. Go on living. Succeed. Amount to so much that the young man she once laughed at will be the one she remembers longest with regret.

Tell It to Sally

By SALLY MARTIN

Husbands Are No Different Than Lovers—They Need a Little Soft Soap Once in a While

Does it pay to Make Love after marriage?

Marion said it didn't.

"Act silly" with her husband? Not she! And she'd Teach him Plenty if she caught him turning a yearning eye toward any girl who would. For marriage—said Marion—was Serious Business. No time for all that tommy rot.

Dorothy's husband has the same notion. For three years Dorothy has hung onto her job so he can go to medical school. She types his reports, buys him surprise neckties, does him a thousand little favors . . . and is rewarded with a cold and glassy stare.

Yet some day, if Dorothy marches off with a more enthusiastic gent, what a riot that boy will raise!

"Dear Sally:

"I can't help saying something about Marion, who thinks it's 'silly' to appreciate your husband. I married a man who evidently thinks it is silly to appreciate me.

"We have been married for three years now, and we both are working so that he can go to medical school evenings. This, of course, means sacrifice, but I haven't minded that, because I've felt that it would all be worth while in the years to come.

"Norman is very pleasant to me. Takes me everywhere with him, and I do appreciate his good qualities, and he has lots of them, but, Sally—I help him considerably with his work. I take dictation and type the reports he needs, to save him time and expense. If I see a beautiful tie, or something else that I think would make him happy, I get it for him. But he seldom even thanks me for all these things, or tells me that he loves me.

"Gee! It would make me so happy, if he'd say, just once, 'That was sweet of you!' Or 'You're a peach to think of that!' Such things cost nothing, and they would make life beautiful for me . . . and for him, too, if he just could realize it. Honestly, I think he and Marion ought to be tied together, and see how they like it!

"He just seems to take everything for granted, and claims he 'isn't the type' that enthuses over things. Don't you think we'd both be happier if he were? I know we would.

"The other evening I asked him if he loved me as much as ever, and he got sore. He said 'Don't be ridiculous. I am with you six nights out of seven, when I'm not going to school, and if my actions don't show you that I love you, my telling you so wouldn't help any, would it?'

"Well! I'll say it would! And I'm sure I don't know what he means by his 'actions.' He never brings me flowers, or candy, or anything else. He seldom even puts him arm around me. Now don't think I expect to be made love to constantly. I'm not a kid with romantic notions. But I would like to be told how nice I am once in a while. I like to tell him how nice he is. Why doesn't he feel the same way?

"I wonder if Marion ever stopped to wonder how hungry her husband might be for praise and appreciation. And I wonder . . . . I'll bet she's a glutton for praise herself! As for me, I'm strong for both giving and getting it! It makes life a lot happier and it takes so little effort to give.

"DOROTHY."

An' then, just when you've given up all hopes for the human race, here comes this—and hangs the sunshine in the sky again!

"Dear Sally Martin:

"I've just read Marion's letter, and all I can say is that she is all wet. She just doesn't know what it's all about, at all.

"I have been married 10 years, and I can truthfully say that it has been just one long honeymoon, with all the delicious sweetness and consideration for each other's feelings that we had when we first started out. We are just as much in love with each other as we were in our courtship days. And I suppose Marion would just shudder if she knew that I'm still 'Sweetheart' this and 'Darling' that, and he is 'Honey' or 'Dearest,' and all those other names of endearment that we all like so well.

"And what would Marion say if she knew that we still surprise each other with 'silly, stupid' love letters? I was tired this morning, and slept late, and what greeted me when I arose but a little note, expressing love and a hope that I felt better? And an adorable ending, 'I'll see you later, Sweetheart. Here's a kiss and all my love,' and signed 'Jack.'

"He is the most considerate and thoughtful man I have ever known. He does the same little things to make me happy as when we were engaged, and I try always to be the same with him.

"Please don't get the mistaken idea that we just sit and talk love all day. We live love every day. We are busy people, and we work hard, and by co-operation we are able to have happiness and nice things.

"We have three children, and I believe you can really call ours a genuinely happy home. We treat the children like human beings, instead of like nuisances, and they get along fine with each other. I have never given a thought to Marion's queer ideas of 'holding a husband.'

"I always try to be just as sweet and kind and understanding as I can be, and he is as much the lover as in courtship days. I suppose Marion would think I'm a little 'soft' to speak of love as I do, but when 'sweetheart love' endures for 10 years, I should know whereof I speak. Don't you think so?

"Now, in conclusion, let me say that I've always found that a word of appreciation and deserved flattery goes a long way toward making people happy, especially husbands. Why not try it? You'll get it back a thousand fold. EMMA."

Well, how about it? Which marriage would you prefer?

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Sailorettes and Scrubwomen

One of the loveliest qualities of man is his ability to attend to his own business.

One of greatest weaknesses of women is her inability to keep her hand out of other people's business.

The latest revelation of this is a flood of letters from ambitious damsels to an Eastern newspapers demanding a woman navy, made up of feminine gunners and deck-swabbers, coal heavers and gobs.

Suffering sailorettes! Did you ever hear of men writing to a newspaper demanding the right to be scrubwomen? Or housemaids? Or telephone operators? Or models for women's wear?

Of course not! A man is willing to stick to his own role and his own job, in life—and he doesn't envy woman HERS. He'd rather heave coal or roll logs or carry hods or sweep streets, than polish finger nails or crochet booties.

It's all right for woman to insist that she is man's equal. Woman has always been man's equal in some things, and his superior in many things—particularly the finer things, such as fidelity, grace, and moral courage in a crisis.

But, why try to be his COUNTERPART?

Why should a bird of Paradise want to resemble an eagle?

But, stoking engines and swabbing decks, and living on canned corned beef and beans for days on end, to say nothing of being sworn at by ship's officers and sleeping in the hold, are not SO romantic.

Yet, if there are to be sailorettes, then why not scrubmen? Many a poor old woman drags herself from office to office, carrying her pail and mop and dust-brush, night after night, year after year, because her man "can't work." While her big, brave he-man sits at home complacently smoking his pipe and waiting for her to return and get his meals and wash the dishes. No "woman's work" for HIM! That's the masculine viewpoint.

If God did not intend man and woman to be different, why did He make them different—physically, mentally, and in all their emotions, ways, and processes of thought? I shall never believe that they were put here for the same purpose until I hear a hawk singing like a nightingale or a robin crowing like a rooster! Or until I see a lady-gunner kissing her scrubman husband good bye!

CORRECT MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

An Unfortunate Table Accident

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you kindly tell me the correct manner, when eating fish, of removing bones from the mouth? Should they be removed from the mouth with a fork or with the fingers?

Mrs. B.

When we have the bad fortune to get a fish bone in our mouth, we should remove it in our fingers, the thumb and first finger, or the thumb and second finger. It should be as unobtrusive a process as possible—and we should not drape the process with our napkin!

The Name on the Mail Box

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

There has been some argument in our office that we would like settled, namely:

A says that the name of a married couple on a mail box should read: First name of the husband and the last name of the husband. Example, John Doe.

B says the plate should read—Mr. and Mrs. John Doe.

A mail box usually carries the name of the "man of the house"—John Doe. Or, if it is not necessary to have the first name, it may carry only the last name.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Saturday, October 25

The dominating planetary influence for this day accents the sudden possibility of a radical change of far-reaching importance, reacting on the general affairs as well as the environment. This may have some rather undesirable effect on relations with employers, but in the main the auguries are for unexpected benefits and unusual experiences.

Those whose birthday it is stand at the threshold of a sudden and quite unforeseen change, affecting the employment, the general trend of events and the residence.

A child born on this day should be clever, ingenious and have unusual talents for scientific research and original investigation and accomplishment. It may reach a place in the public eye.

Spectre of White Lie Returns to Harass Lillian

There was something menacing in Harry Underwood's voice as he commented upon my suggestion that Philip Veritzen might have some sinister motive for proposing that Mary be left at the hotel instead of joining us at dinner.

"Of course that's only my own opinion," I said. "He may have no such idea in mind, and even if he has, I'm sure it is the result of something very like insanity. If he weren't obsessed with this idea of breaking up the engagement between Noel and Mary, he wouldn't be acting this way."

"Madge is right," she said. "Phil's really not responsible, and there's no use treating him as if he were."

"You don't stop to argue how much a dog is responsible when it goes mad and starts a biting," her husband said, but his tone was a trifle less truculent, and Lillian sent a relieved glance to me.

"I suppose the next step is to break the news to Mary that she is to be Philip Veritzen's guest at dinner," she said.

"Yes," I groaned.

"Would you like me to—" Lillian began hesitatingly.

"I'd love it," I owned, "but it wouldn't do, I'm afraid. She's used to me, and it's my job. But I do thank you."

But I told Mary nothing for several hours. When I closed the door behind me and crossed to the bed where she lay I saw that she was sound asleep, her slender, graceful body curled up like a child's, her face half buried in the pillow the blanket and spread drawn to her chin. With a shivering look at the open window, I realized that she was unconsciously huddled in her queer posture because of the cold, and I brought a heavy blanket from the closet and spread it over her before returning to the other room.

"That was a quick trip," Mr. Underwood commented. "Did she throw you out on your ear or was she unexpectedly docile?"

"Neither. She was asleep and I couldn't bear to disturb her."

"I believe you," Mr. Underwood said with mischievous emphasis. "But there's no need, at that. It will be several hours before dinner. Why don't you and Lil follow her example? I've got a million—or less—things to look after between now and the dinner gong, so you can have the place to yourselves."

"I'd like to get some of Mother Graham's shopping out of the way, if you thought—" I began.

"No reason why," Mr. Underwood said heartily. "Lil will be here with Mary—there's no necessity of your keeping awake, old dear, there's no physical danger threatening the child—so you can do whatever you like, Lady Fair."

But there was something in Lillian's eyes which made me delay my departure until after her husband had taken his.

"Tell me honestly," I said as soon as he had closed the door, "do you agree with Harry that it is perfectly all right for me to go, or would you rather that I remained here?"

"If you can give me 15 minutes," she said promptly, "I shall speed you on your way with my approval and blessing."

But when I had taken a seat opposite her, she did not speak, and a furtive glance at her told me that she had not yet banished—only conquered temporarily—the emotional strain which had taken such toll of her in the past 36 hours.

"Do—you—remember what I asked you last night, Madge?" she said at last, "about—telling a—lie to a dying man?"

Forbes

Hope Begins to Displace Gloominess

By B. C. FORBES

EVEN IN gloomy New York the feeling is spreading that the number of bright spots is increasing.

HARD-HEADED Wall Street brokers are beginning publicly to recommend the purchase of stocks at present levels. A month ago bearishness reigned. The market's recent action is interpreted as indicating that the opportunity for making fortunes by selling short has passed and that the market's next sustained movement will be upward. The drastic decrease in brokers' loans is regarded as proving that a great many shares have lately been purchased, not on margin, but outright by investors, small and large, who intend to put them away.

Mr. Forbes

AN INCREASE in commercial borrowing suggests that business demands are broadening at least a little. So many corporations and firms, however, now have ample cash resources that volume of business could expand considerably without any corresponding expansion in commercial loans resulting.

ENCOURAGING FACTS are being supplied this column from many directions. Suppose we consider a few:

William C. Van Antwerp, resident partner of E. F. Hutton & Co. in San Francisco, wires:

"Leaders in trade and industry on the Pacific Coast all tell me that, so far as this section goes, there is a distinct change for the better. It is most pronounced in building materials, new construction, and in retail trade. As we have no winter weather here, there will be no interruption of the program already under way for road building, railway construction, bridges, dams, home building and pipe lines, and many of these are of very large proportions."

LEO T. DONOHUE writes:

"You should tell the pessimists that the Stearns & Foster Company, of Cincinnati, manufacturers of mattresses, have increased their working force 50 per cent and are working until 9 o'clock six nights a week."

PRESIDENT M. H. BAKER, of the National Gypsum Company, Buffalo, in a letter to his organization, states:

"We have continued to advance both in the specific matter of sales and the more far-reaching matter of enlarged dealer distribution."

PRESIDENT THOMAS J. WATSON, of the International Business Machines Corporation:

"Our earnings are running ahead of 1929. Our cash position is stronger than a year ago and inventories are approximately the same. The increase in our business recently made it necessary to substantially enlarge our factory at Endicott, N. Y."

THE WEST COAST Lumbermen's Association reports:

"New business continues ahead of production. For the last five weeks production has averaged 6.14 per cent under orders. The industry is now carrying less lumber than on January 1. Unfilled orders since September 1 have made slight gains."

PRESIDENT WILLIAM Whitfield Woods of the Institute of American Meat Packers:

"Following a decided improvement in demand, which became apparent about two months ago, the wholesale prices of most meats, especially beef and veal, have strengthened somewhat from the relatively low levels reached during the summer."

CANADIAN HYDRO-ELECTRIC Corporation, Ltd., a division of International Paper and Power Company, last month produced fully 211,000,000 kilowatt hours, a new September record, and 21 per cent over last year. New England Power Association, another subsidiary of International, reports a gain of 12½ per cent in sales of domestic appliances last month over August.

PRESIDENT HIRAM S. RIVITZ, of Industrial Rayon Corporation, tells me that both the company's plants are operating at full capacity, that September was the largest shipping month in the company's history, and that orders on hand will keep the plants running for months. Mr. Rivitz estimates earnings of $9 a share for the year, with the ratio of quick assets to current liabilities over 17 to 1, and no borrowings.

COMPLAINTS CONTINUE to pour in that merchants' stocks are ridiculously meager.

ARE WE SOON going to have a convincing demonstration that pessimism has been overdone?

HOOVER HINTS REFORMS TO AID TRADE

Revision of Anti-Trust Rail and Capital Gains Tax Laws Considered

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—President Hoover has foreshadowed that he may urge upon Congress when it meets in December a variety of economic reforms which, if adopted should, over the longer pull, prove distinctly helpful to business.

Mr. Hoover has hinted at his program, but the business community has not yet grasped the cumulative effect of the recommendations which are germinating in the Chief Executive's mind. Of course, with the uncertainties of politics, recommendations of the President may not quickly be translated into laws, but espousal by the Chief Executive will at least mark a step toward bringing these matters nearer to realization.

Mr. Rukeyser.

In connection with the new attitude of government toward business, Mr. Hoover has given especial consideration to possible modernization and liberalization of the anti-trust laws, revision of taxes on capital gains, less hampering of the railroads by public agencies, meeting the long term question of technological unemployment, and the general issue of controlling the business cycle and prevention of interruption of prosperity in the future.

SUGGESTS CHANGE

In dealing with competition in his Boston speech before the American Federation of Labor, Mr. Hoover significantly remarked:

"If our regulatory laws be at fault they should be revised."

This cryptic reference took cognizance of the insistence by numerous captains of industry that they are hampered in their efforts to stabilize prosperity and to rationalize production and distribution by "obsolete" anti-trust laws.

In seeking to trace the remote causes of the depression, Mr. Hoover, in his Cleveland address, qualifiedly accepted the doctrine long enunciated by Secretary Mellon to the effect that taxing capital gains as income is fallacious. In this connection, it should be recalled that the British tax authorities do not tax capital gains as income. The present American system is proving embarrassing currently to those who reported large profits in 1929, which have subsequently been lost. Such taxes fall due in 1930.

Insisting that the fiscal policies of the government have an important bearing on the business cycle, Mr. Hoover said:

"I believe an inquiry might develop that our system of taxes upon capital gains directly encourages inflation by strangling the free movement of land and securities."

Incidentally, before the Wall Street panic, the National City Bank, of New York, in a special bulletin, warned that the tax on capital gains, in discouraging normal profit taking, was proving a dangerous inflationary factor.

RAILROADS HAMPERED

President Hoover has also indicated his belief that railroad progress has been hampered by governmental policies. This was interpreted to refer to the delay of Congress in enacting railroad consolidation legislation and also possibly to the character of regulation. The nonpartisan Standard Statistics Company, in a report from Washington, reveals:

"There are plenty of grounds for assuming that the administration will make a major issue of railroad legislation during the next two years, the purpose being in the direction of freeing rather than restricting railroad development."

OPTIMISM NEEDED

John Hancock, capable partner of Lehman Brothers, remarked to me earlier in the season that the depression would be over when executives tired of being pessimistic.

"When we are fed up with inactivity, we'll move out of the valley in the same fashion that we went into it. Some bright morning a number of individuals will get out of bed on the right side. They will hear the birds singing and will see the eastern sky aglow. They will say to themselves that life is too short to waste any more of it like this. They will swing into action with old-time vigor, accept hazards as in other days, snap their fingers at wiseacres and curves and carloadings and head-shakers.

"Then all of us will scramble and jostle to get into the van.

STAY GRANTED IN 'MOP' DEAL

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—(AP.)—A temporary stay of proceedings by which the Missouri Pacific Railroad proposes to unify a number of its subsidiary corporations was allowed today by the Interstate Commerce Commission, in view of protests by competitive railroads and some Texas communities.

The Missouri Pacific holds authority from the commission to proceed with the consolidation of its score or more of subsidiaries, but the Kansas City Southern and the Burlington railroads asked a reconsideration.

The commission did not fully grant the demands of the petitioners, but it did allow the unification proposal to be opened only for oral argument of counsel, and not for the taking of new evidence.

WOODS AGENCY CELEBRATING

Celebration of the golden jubilee of the Edward A. Woods Company is marked by the particularly keen satisfaction of the agency having achieved the goal of $100,000,000 of paid in life insurance in 1930. Officials of the company, many prominent guests and 1,000 or more employes from the tri-state district will hail the fiftieth anniversary of the company at a banquet in the William Penn Hotel October 31.

The speakers will be Thomas I. Parkinson, president of the Equitable Life Assurance Society; United States Senator David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania, and Col. Henry J. Powell, manager of Cincinnati-Louisville agency. In the previous report of the $100,000,000 achievement for 1930 the amount was erroneously given as $1,000,000.

HISTORY IN THE MAKING

At eight o'clock Saturday morning, a great tri-motored airplane laden with mail and passengers will rise from its runway at New York, point its nose westward, and begin a flight which has as its destination the western coast of the United States. Less than four hours after its departure from New York, it is scheduled to land at Pittsburgh, establishing this city as an air transportation center on the new transcontinental route.

History-making events ordinarily are not recognized as such at the time of their occurrence. Usually it is only after a long lapse of time that their true significance can be appraised. But the placing of Pittsburgh on the transcontinental air map is obviously an event of far-reaching importance to the city's future.

The Pittsburgh Aviation Industries Corporation is to be congratulated, together with Transcontinental and Western Air Express, Inc., for insuring for Pittsburgh an important place on the new transcontinental line.

STOCK MARKET LIST BOUNDS UPWARD

Even Rails Join Upswing As Weight of Selling Is Lifted; 4 to 5 Gains Made

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—(AP.)—Share prices bounded upward in today's stock market with the familiar resilience that appears when the weight of liquidation is completely lifted.

Even the rails, a contrary group yesterday, joined the recovery, as it carried into its second day. The market appeared to be governed primarily by technical conditions, and trading was light. The remarks of leaders of the steel industry at the semi-annual meeting of the American Iron and Steel Institute, however, and ending of hostilities in Brazil, were stimulating to speculative sentiment. Furthermore, the fact that it was the anniversary of the critical black Thursday of the selling panic a year ago, brought out in clear relief the extent the salutory readjustments which have which have been accomplished.

In the rails, recovery of the Van Sweringen issues was conspicuous. Missouri Pacific, Erie and Chesapeake and Ohio gained 8 points or more. Other shares making similar gains included U. S. Steel, National Biscuit, Westinghouse, Goodyear and Macy, while such shares as American Can, Byers and Eastman rose 4 to 5 and Allied Chemical more than 7. Montgomery Ward sagged moderately.

LEADERS OPTIMISTIC

Leaders of the steel industry, at the institute meeting a year ago, were inclined to minimize the probable effects of the decline in the stock market, and in steel mill operations, then apparent, but today's speakers demonstrated that faith in the future of the industry had not been impaired by the trying 12 months that have intervened.

They found the basic structure still sound, and stated that by refraining from uneconomical price cutting, and over-expansion, the industry might struggle back to normalcy in a reasonably short time. James A. Farrell, president of U. S. Steel, asserted that through co-operation, the industry could get business back "where it belongs" in 60 days.

News from Brazil indicating that the revolution had been concluded with little bloodshed or property damage caused a fresh decline in coffee, as a reaction from the upturn which had been based on expectations of delayed shipments, but Brazilian securities rallied sharply, tending further to bolster speculative confidence.

DIVIDEND OMITTED

The day's news was not wholly cheerful. Directors of Montgomery Ward omitted the quarterly dividend, a development not unexpected. Wall Street has looked for a reduction, at least. Furthermore, copper prices were reduced fairly generally to 96 cents a pound, a new low for more than 30 years.

A constructive development rumored in copper trade circles, however, was an early conference with African producers seeking curtailment of production.

The large red metal resources of that continent, mostly undeveloped, have caused some uneasiness. Reports of the conference of statisticians in industry, meeting under the auspices of the Industrial Conference Board, pointed to signs of recovery, but added "the first half of October gives little evidence that the convalescent stage in the business cycle is at hand."

NEW OFFERINGS

New securities offered today include:

Province of Alberta, Canada, $5,935,000 3½ per cent, six-months treasury bills priced to yield 3 per cent, by a syndicate headed by the First National Bank.

City of Vancouver, B. C., $2,-544,588 5 per cent bonds maturing from September 22, 1940, to January 15, 1970, and priced to yield from 4.65 to 4.75 per cent, by a syndicate headed by the Chase Securities Corporation.

Western New York Water Corporation, $1,050,000 first mortgage 5 per cent bonds, series of 1951, priced at 93 and interest to yield 5.57 per cent, by a syndicate headed by G. L. Ohrstrom & Co.

Brazilian Stocks Take Sharp Rise

LONDON, Oct. 24.—News of the success of the Brazilian revolution was the signal for a sharp rise in values of Brazilian securities of all kinds on the stock exchange. Government stocks were up 2 to 3 points.

Factory Output Shows Gain in September

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—There were some encouraging features of the Federal Reserve Board's monthly summary of business conditions which indicate there was a seasonal increase in the output of manufacturing establishments in September.

Factory employment, however, increased somewhat less than in other recent years, while the general level of prices, which had advanced during August, declined in September and the first half of October. The board said there was a liquidation of security loans at member banks in leading cities, and a reported growth in commercial loans and investments.

MORE RESERVE CREDIT OUT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—(AP.)—The daily average volume of Federal Reserve Bank credit outstanding during the week ending October 22, as reported by the Federal Reserve Bank, was $1,-028,000,000, an increase of $2,000,-000 compared with the preceding week, and a decrease of $369,000,-000, compared with the corresponding week in 1929.

The weekly Federal Reserve Board report said the total reserve bank credit yesterday amounted to $992,000,000, a decrease of $52,-000,000 for the week.

Combined resources and liabilities of the 12 Federal Reserve banks at the close of business yesterday were reported tonight by the board as follows:

GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Oct. 24. — With Southern Hemisphere crop reports showing improvement, and with Argentine wheat acreage officially announced as larger, wheat prices here averaged lower early today. Upturns in security quotations, however, tended to check grain market declines, and so likewise did predictions of increased European demand for wheat as the season advances. Opening ⅛-⅝c off, Chicago wheat future deliveries held near afterward to the initial range. Corn also started ⅛-⅝c lower, and paralleled the action of wheat.

Speculative Community Watches Market for 'False Starts.'

Inasmuch as the market had recently made several false starts toward higher levels, the speculative community is disposed to keep close watch on the situation when prices turn upward just now. Several times this week the market has staged attempts at a rally, only to run into a renewal of liquidation when the rise had not gotten very far along. Most experienced observers still contend that a substantial rally, if only on technical conditions, is overdue. But in view of the fact that several recent starts have encountered renewed liquidation of quite persistent character, the majority are more or less inclined to let the market provide its own signal that such selling is over.

The forthcoming quarterly report of the steel corporation covering the period ended September 30, last, is being awaited with considerable interest. The figures will be made available after the close of the market next Tuesday. It is estimated currently that the corporation will show dividend requirements of the period covered by a narrow margin, with net probably running around $2 a share against $3.02 in the June quarter and the equivalent of $4.14 a share in the third quarter last year. On the total of common stock outstanding as of the end of August, net after charges, but before preferred dividends should, it is estimated, run around $23,-500,000, compared with $32,-126,717 in June quarter and $51,57,350 in the September quarter of 1929.

Despite the fact that net of Allis Chalmers for the third quarter amounting to 55 cents a share on the stock made poor comparison with the same period last year, the showing of results for the nine months were quite encouraging. For the latter period net equal to $2.41 a share was reported, or only 10 per cent less than the $2.68 a share reported for the first nine months of 1929. Unfilled orders on the books at the beginning of the current quarter totaled $15,545,565, against $12,872,676 on January 1 and $13,-390,832 at the end of the third quarter a year ago. New bookings for the nine months showed a falling off of only 4½ per cent from a year ago totaling $36,348,-300 in the period ended September 30 last.

Although earnings of Westinghouse Electric, published earlier this week, were no worse than the predictions of some of the pessimists who had been pressing the stock, publication of the report was a signal for new selling. Part of the supply was credited to the bear traders, but reports indicated that liquidation also was in progress again. Naturally, Westinghouse has been feeling the influence of the general business depression.

The percentage of decline in the stock market in the current bear market has exceeded similar downward movements in the last 25 years. Industrial averages on October 18 recorded a drop of 52 per cent from September 3, last year. That compares with 47 per cent from November, 1919, to August, 1921; 40 per cent from November, 1916, to December, 1917, and 45 per cent from January to November, 1907. It is significant that in each of the bear markets of the past referred to, the talk was similar to that heard in recent weeks. Every movement was said to be due to special conditions and different circumstances, but each time the market emerged finally from its declining trend and moved ahead substantially when the real bull market began.

Nimble floor traders have been rather active in Woolworth, which has been moving within a sufficient range to make quick profits possible. At the same time, the risk involved is smaller than in most other stocks. Because of prospects for increased business between now and Christmas, it is considered likely that the issue will become more popular in nearby months. Talk has been heard of the possibility of an increase from the present $2.40 a share dividend to a $3 rate.

Weston Electrical To Redeem Stock

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Weston Electrical Instrument Corporation directors have decided to call for redemption on January 1 next 12,600 shares of Class "A" stock at $37.50 a share and accrued dividend. They will be chosen by lot as of the close of business on November 15.

LONE STAR GAS STAGES BIG RALLY

Fuel Leader Spurts on Report That Earnings Show Substantial Gain

Lone Star Gas staged a sharp rally on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange as prices soared in the New York market and trading sentiment underwent a change as a result of the sustained improvement.

Several thousand shares of Lone Star were handled on an upturn which carried the price well above the top level of the previous session and established the quotation at near the price prevailing at the end of last week.

Professional traders rushed in to the market with buying orders for "the turn," while investment holdings were increased and those sellers who lightened their lines during the sharp break earlier in the week re-purchased some of the stock dumped overboard. The rise was further stimulated by a statement from L. B. Denning, president, that earnings in the fourth quarter would show a substantial improvement and that agitation for municipal operation of gas lines in the Southeast had about petered out.

Local industrials showed a much firmer tone as did the other gas stocks, but there were no conspicuous moves such as took place in Lone Star.

Sugar Market.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—The unsettled state of the futures market checked business in the raw sugar market early today and as no sales were reported prices were nominally unchanged at 3.45c for spots, duty paid.

In refined it was announced by m[illegible] of the refiners that their price would [illegible]advanced to 4.75c at the close today, [illegible]inst the prevailing level of 4.65c. The a[illegible]cement led to a little more new buy[illegible] and it was believed that the trade had taken on enough sugar to take care of their requirements for the next 30 days.

Steel Prices.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Steel unchanged.

Meeting Notices

INDEPENDENT BREWING COMPANY OF PITTSBURGH.

NOTICE OF MEETING.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 16, 1930.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Independent Brewing Company of Pittsburgh will be held at the general office of the company, Duquesne Brewery, Twenty-second and Mary streets, South Side, Pittsburgh, Pa., on Thursday, November 6, 1930, at 10 o'clock a. m., for the election of a board of directors to serve for the ensuing year and for the transaction of such other business as may be properly presented, including the acceptance of the favorable action by the bondholders to relieve the company of the payment of interest on the bonds in its sinking fund for a period of five years commencing January 1, 1931, taken at their meeting of October 9, 1930.

L. F. KOENIG,
Secretary-Treasurer.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

DEPRESSION END SEEN

That the downward trend in business activity may be nearing the end is suggested by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics of the Department of Agriculture in a review of business conditions. "The present business recessions," the bureau states, "has now been in progress about 15 months and such recessions usually continue 12 to 18 months. This, together with low prices of raw materials, easy money, and decreased inventories on the part of retail stores, suggest that the downward trend in business activity may be nearing the end. Some positive indications of improvement are noted in machine-tool orders, in the textile and shoe trades and in residential construction."

BUYING OPPORTUNITIES

When extreme pessimism and apparent hopelessness exist, the conservative begins looking closely into buying opportunities. Recently there have been periods when hardly a good word could be heard concerning the future of business or the stock market. It is at such times that the investor with ample funds begins picking up stocks which he intends to hold for a long time and for substantial profits. Such investors do not give much attention to the nearby fluctuations, and if stocks continue to move downward, they usually continue their scale accumulation. Thus, when the turn finally comes, they are carrying standard stocks which have been obtained at a fair average.

EGYPT'S NEW COTTON PLAN

A permanent cotton policy, sponsored by Sidky Pasha, prime minister, has been adopted by the Egyptian government. Adoption of this policy is the result of numerous conferences held by the prime minister with bankers, growers and shippers as to the best measures to help the deplorable cotton situation caused by overproduction. The purpose of the plan, which is hailed as one that provides sound economic support to cotton growers, is to keep cotton in the interior of Egypt until later in the season, rather than let it come down to Alexandria, where the market is already almost overstocked and where heavy receipts would tend to depress prices further.

MALLEABLE CASTING OUTPUT

Output of malleable castings in September amounted to 26,510 tons, against 25,614 tons in July and 59,087 tons in September, 1929, according to the Department of Commerce. Shipments during September totaled 28,874 tons, against 31,845 tons in August and 62,571 tons in September, 1929. New orders totaled 25,753 tons, 25,409 tons and 52,647 tons, respectively.

RUSTLESS IRON TYPE

The Republic Steel Corporation has received an order from the Biggs Boiler Works Company, Akron, O., for toncan iron to provide one mile of water pipe for the city of Detroit. The pipe will be produced by the Biggs Company by the electric welded process. This is the first pipe made of Republic toncan iron, a rust resisting material, to be used in Detroit.

LONE STAR GAS EARNINGS UP

L. B. Denning, president of Lone Star Gas Corporation, expects earnings of the corporation to show a big increase for the fourth quarter. Mr. Denning said:

"The last three months will show a substantial increase in profits due to increased business and lessened operating expenses."

Mr. Denning stated that at an election in Council Bluffs, Ia., more than a majority of the citizens voted in favor of natural gas, and the rate schedule, which is the same as Denver, was approved. It is expected that natural gas will be delivered in Council Bluffs in 15 days.

Denning declared that rumors prevalent in Pittsburgh to the effect that Fort Worth Gas Company, subsidiary of Lone Star, would lose its franchise as well as in Dallas, are wholly without foundation. He said:

"There is no agitation at any point on the Lone Star system concerning either franchise or rates. The recent attempt on the part of Fort Worth to adopt municipal ownership has died out, and about two weeks ago the City Commission definitely postponed all action regarding gas matters until after the next city election in April, 1931."

REFINED SUGAR RAISED AGAIN

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Principal sugar refiners announced another advance of 10 points in the price of the commodity today, following a similar rise yesterday. The new quotation of 4.75 cents a pound is effective at the close of business tonight.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 24.—California and Hawaiian Sugar Refining Company will advance sugar to 4.75 cents at the close today.

COPPER ACCORD IS SOUGHT

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—(AP.)—All but one producer and all of the custom smelters today were offering copper in the domestic market at 9½ cents a pound, delivered, to the end of February.

The price is the lowest for the metal in more than 30 years, and compared with an 18-cent price a year ago.

Conversations looking toward the curtailment of production in Africa to coincide with the action taken by domestic producers was reported in the industry to be in prospect. M. Pisart, managing director of the Societe Generale des Minerales, which markets much of the copper produced in the Belgian Congo, is expected to make an early visit to the United States.

It was reported that the subject would be discussed with him and representatives of British companies in reducing the world copper stocks.

ACTUAL FACTS ON CONDITIONS TODAY

By FRELING FOSTER

1930 Livestock Receipts Equal 1929

The number of cattle, calves, hogs, sheep and lambs received at 65 primary livestock markets of the United States during the first eight months of 1930 are compared with the receipts in the same periods of the past four years.

Source: U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

CATTLE AND CALVES

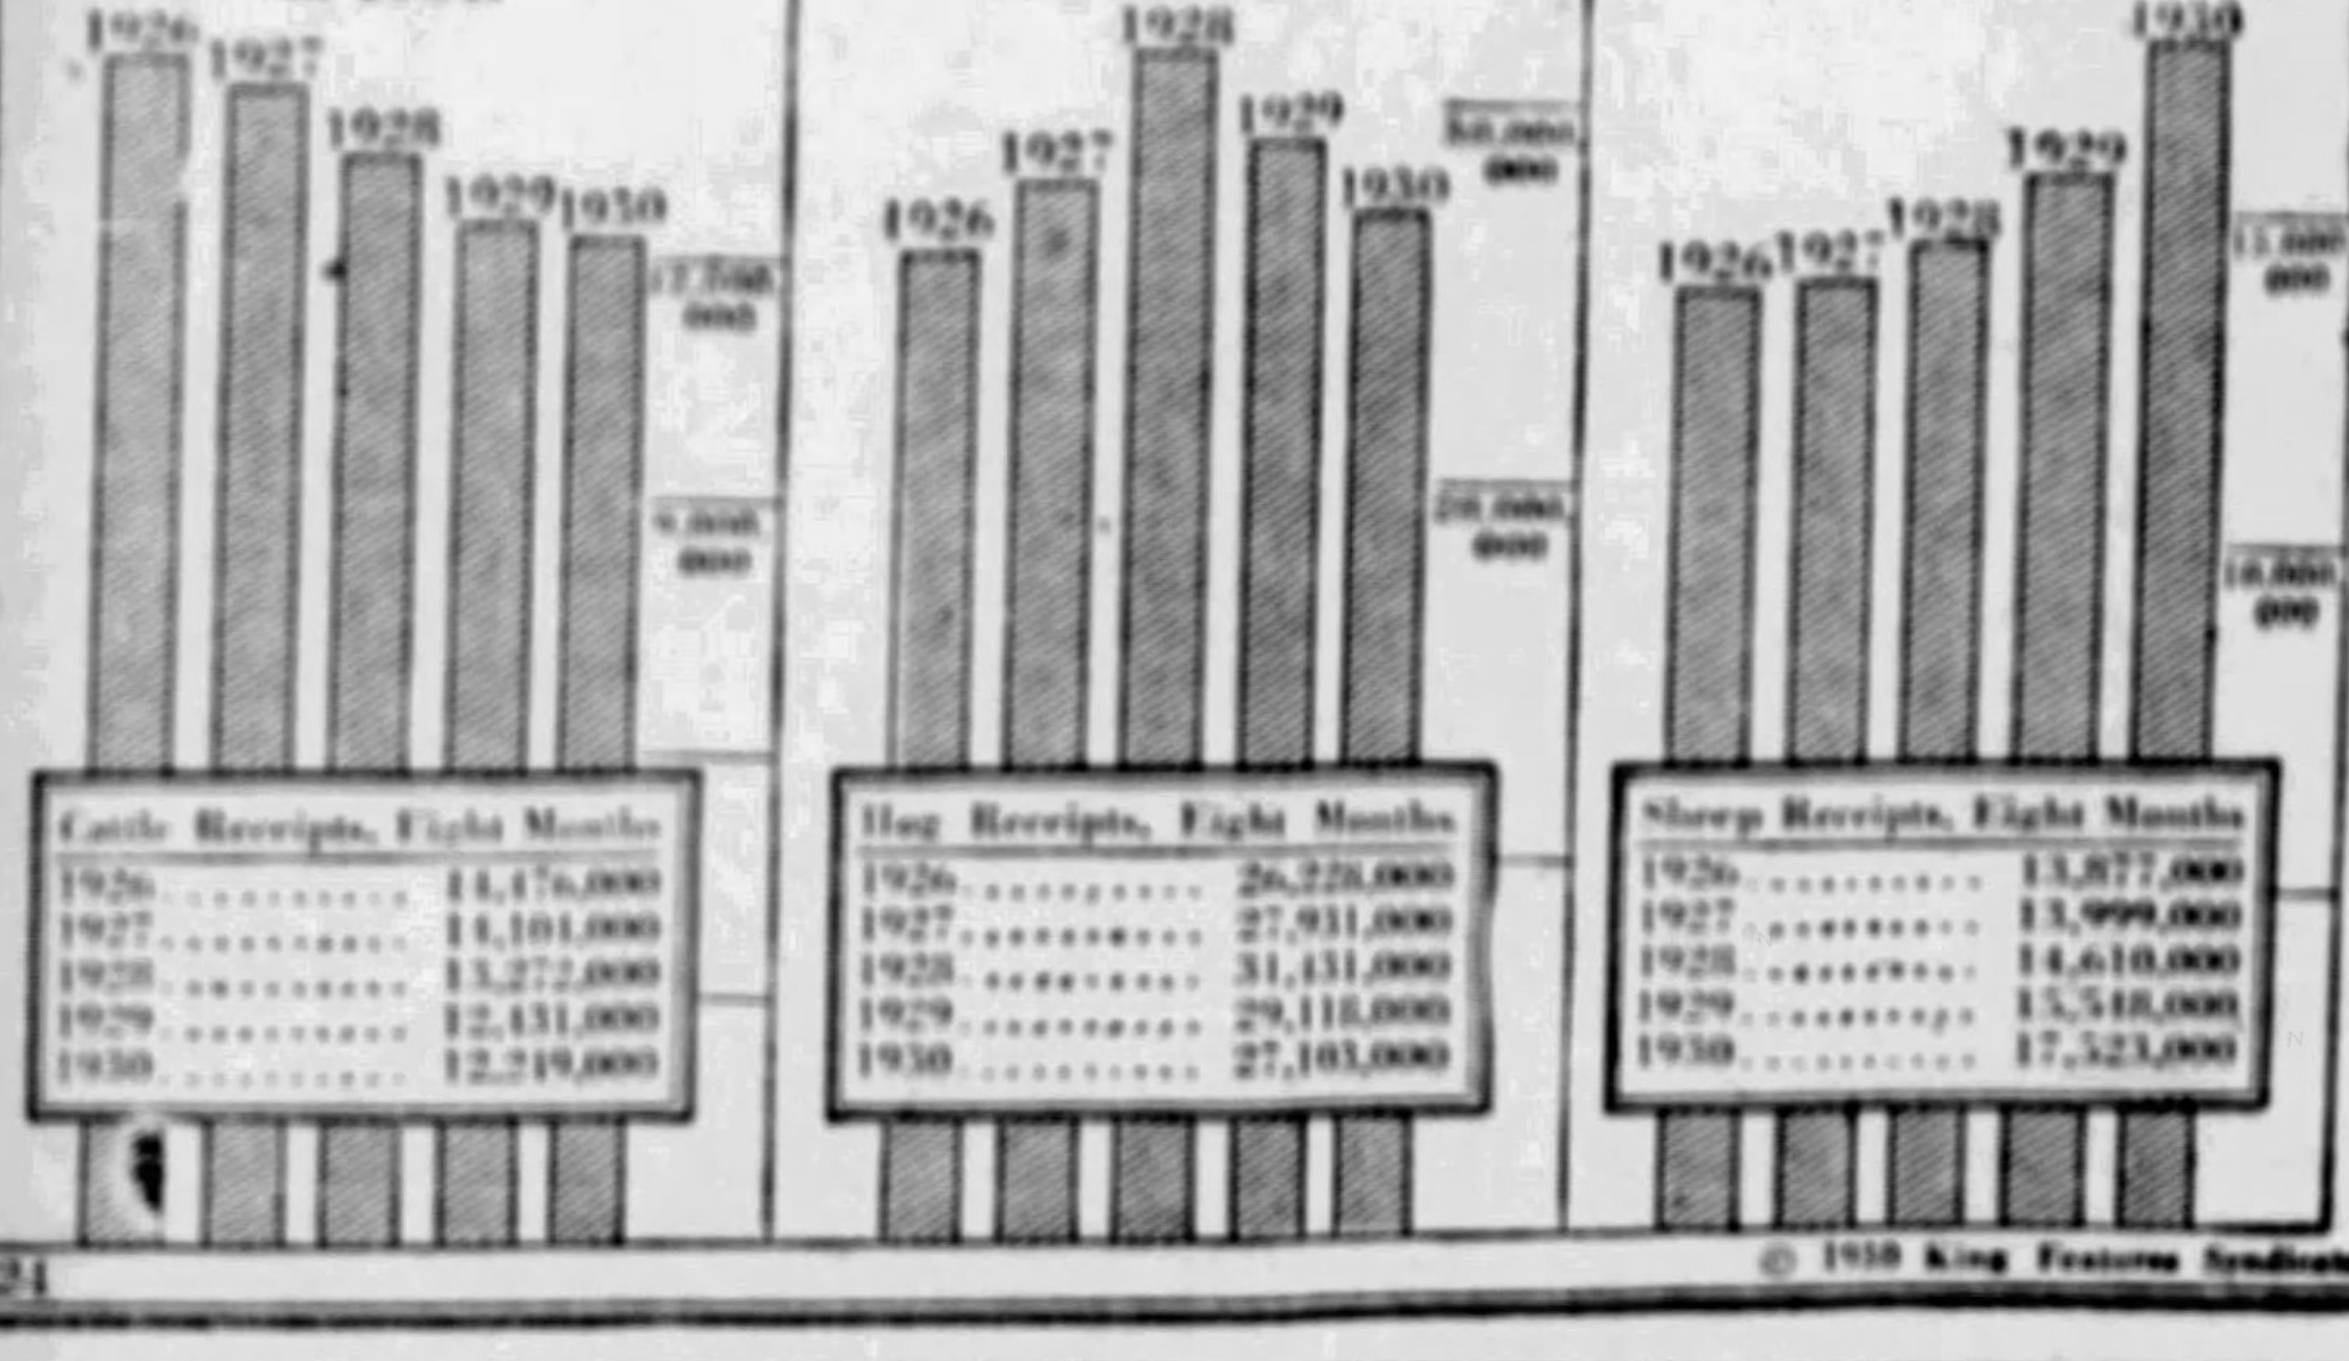
The production of cattle and calves has declined gradually since 1925, the peak year of this decade. This has been due primarily to the long-swing producing cycles which are governed chiefly by prices and other economic conditions. Increased cattle production is looked for in 1931.

HOGS

During the five-year period shown here, hog production reached a peak in 1928, but was reduced last year and this year because of the unfavorable relationship between corn and hog prices. The decreased supply of corn this year will undoubtedly effect hog production in 1931.

SHEEP AND LAMBS

The production of sheep and lambs has increased steadily since 1926. This year it is 12.7% over 1929, 19.9% over 1928, 25.2% over 1927 and 26.3% over 1926. The total production of cattle, calves, hogs, sheep and lambs in 1930 is only 4-10ths of 1% under 1929, or virtually equal.



Cattle Receipts, Eight Months

WARD PASSES DIVIDEND

CHICAGO, Oct. 24. — Montgomery Ward & Co. has omitted the quarterly dividend of 75 cents on the common stock due at this time.

It was stated that while the company is in a strong financial position, with ratio of current liabilities in excess of 12 to 1, directors considered it prudent to conserve the company's resources so that ample funds will be available for future development of the business.

Loss on operations for nine months to September 30 was $2,848,000. Loss in the quarter ended March 31 was $2,318,000. In the quarter ended June 30 loss was $185,000 and for the quarter ended September 30 loss was $345,000.

George B. Everett, president, said:

"As with most merchandising business, the fourth quarter has always been our best and may be sufficient to wipe out the loss to September 30."

Rail Competition to Show Increase

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

RAILROAD STOCKS HAVE slumped to a more pronounced extent during the current break in the market than most of the industrial issues. This has been responsible for widespread inquiry in investment circles as to the future of the carriers.

While the railroads have suffered sharp declines in gross revenue and net income, this has been in line with the trend of general business and has paralleled the results reported by industrial companies. The opinion is becoming more prevalent that the railroads have a serious long range problem to face in addition to the transitory difficulty arising from the industrial depression.

If the railroads were being troubled only by the slump in business, their positions as investments would be no more affected than that of the industrials since there is no doubt that sooner or later business will be restored to prosperity. But many of those who make a business of studying investments see the possibility of other difficulties for the railroads. This opinion is by no means general but it is becoming increasingly widespread. Many railroad officials have privately admitted the importance of some of the problems which the carriers must face.

Increasing Competition

SINCE 1920 THE railroads have made great strides in increasing the efficiency of their operations. Together with growth in many forms of traffic, this more than compensated for the growing competition of motor trucks and buses.

But competition in many forms is increasing and the question now being raised about the railroads is:

"Will traffic grow enough in the future and will further increases in efficiency be great enough to balance the effect of the new forms of competition which have appeared?"

Restrictions On Revenue

MANY FACTORS are combining to check the decline in railroad revenues. There is no question of the carriers being replaced as the backbone of all transportation but there may be developments which will restrict profits. The continual adjustments of freight rates are constantly tending to reduce the general return of the railroads for moving traffic. Improved highways are increasing the competition on short hauls of freight and on nearly all passenger business. Extensions of pipe line systems are depriving the railroads of hauls of crude oil and gasoline. Gas pipe lines will take a portion of the traffic away from the roads heavily dependent on coal traffic. Inland waterways also are taking a share of rail business. The development of air transportation is at a slow pace and does not appear to offer serious cause for alarm at present.

There is much disagreement as to the effect of these new forms of competition. Many competent investment experts declare that the individual effects of these influences will be small and that they will not cause any great difficulties for the rail system.

It seems certain that many strong railroads will not be seriously hurt. Care in selecting railroad investments over the coming year may be expected to yield good results but the potentialities of the problems now facing the transportation should be carefully considered in every case.

Investment Banking Report

THAT CHANGES IN transportation already have cast some shadows over the carriers may be seen in the report of the committee on railroad securities made at the recent convention of the Investment Bankers Association at New Orleans.

The committee stated that in the five years ended with 1929, a period marked by unusual prosperity, operating revenue and net railway operating income remained practically unchanged. Capital expenditures of nearly four billion dollars during that period resulted in no increase in earnings. The committee declared that the drains on railroad revenues must be checked if the carriers are to continue attractive to investors.

FREE WANT ADS AID JOBLESS

Seeking to relieve the present unemployment situation, the Sun-Telegraph has thrown open its want ad columns to the home-owners of Pittsburgh and other more fortunate individuals who will be given an opportunity to aid those out of work and at the same time see many odd tasks accomplished.

If Sun-Telegraph readers need their walks repaired, roofs, spoutings or porches fixed, plumbing renovated or repaired, coal put in or gardens and flower-beds made ready for the winter, wall paper cleaned, windows washed, or wish their car washed and polished at home, they can give aid to the unemployed by notifying this newspaper.

If you can offer work of any kind to any one, whether for a day, week or indefinitely, and the job pays a salary or wage, call Grant 5400 or stop at Want Ad Corner, Fifth Avenue and Market Street, and the Sun-Telegraph will run a "Help Wanted" ad free of charge.

Any job which you thought you might do for yourself, but for which you never found time, will give a less fortunate individual a chance of employment.

DAILY TRUE STORY

'Wrapped Up to Sell'

No one, to see Mrs. Duane, would suspect she was not "to the manner born."

She seemed to be a born aristocrat. As a matter of fact Mrs. Duane had known dire poverty in her younger days and, after becoming the second wife of John Duane, she very naturally never wanted to go back to counting pennies again.

Mr. Duane had left her a livable income. He had every confidence that she would use it judiciously and care for his daughter, Wanda, by his first wife, in a satisfactory manner.

To do Mrs. Duane full justice, she did her best, but her best wasn't so very good because she was under the impression she had to keep up with all of her neighbors in the rather exclusive suburban colony.

The result of this was that she dug into the principle more deeply than judiciously.

And so when Wanda was 18, Mrs. Duane was very much troubled over financial matters. No one suspected this—except her lawyer. Wanda knew, of course, that they couldn't squander money, and then she wondered why her stepmother would spend so much on a party, buy such costly prizes for her bridges, and turn in perfectly good cars for more expensive and later models.

Charming Mechanic

"One has to do it, dear," she said when Wanda asked if it were necessary. "One cannot ever be suspected of poverty because, after all, they do drop you if they think you aren't prosperious. There is nothing to worry about, Wanda. You are 18, you are really beautiful, and you will make a splendid match before long."

"Match?"

"You will surely marry some nice chap with no end of money—and then everything will be lovely."

"If I happen to love him."

Wanda would say, "Don't be silly."

This was about the time Wanda met Peter Wade. She didn't tell her stepmother because Peter was a mechanic. He worked over motors in speed boats. He wore overalls and got his hands oily and smudges on his face. This, in Mrs. Duane's eyes, prevented him from being a "gentleman."

Wanda owned a canoe, and her chief delight was to paddle up into a long arm of the big lake that she called her "sanctuary."

At the upper end were the shops of a famous company of pleasure boat builders. Wanda's canoe had become bogged one day as she was trying to get it off. Peter, trying out a tiny "seasled," saw her difficulty. He came to her rescue.

After that Wanda met him quite frequently.

She was interested in the way he worked about the mysterious engines in the speed boats. His name he told her readily when she inquired, after he had asked for hers.

Falls in Love

The more Wanda saw of Peter the more she liked him. Most of the time he was in greasy overalls and his hands and face were dirty, but his eyes were wonderful and his smile was most charming.

Wanda began to fall in love, and it rather frightened her. It also made her unhappy. Young mechanics who repair speed boats cannot have very much money, she knew well enough.

Peter Wade was just about the nicest boy Wanda had ever met. He wasn't dumb; he paid pretty compliments. When he carried her over the marsh to the shore for a little basket picnic they planned, he took his proper toll—a kiss. But he didn't pet in the too intimate way of modern boys.

The season was rapidly drawing to a close and Wanda was happy some days and miserable on others—happy when out with Peter and miserable when away from him, realizing her stepmother would never consent to her marrying a mechanic like Peter. Moreover, Peter had never mentioned marriage to her.

To add to her troubles, finances were getting too low for comfort at home.

One day Mrs. Duane was all excitement. Mr. Perkins was coming back from abroad to open his estate.

"And Mrs. Oliphant told me Mr. Perkins, who has been around several times, has seen you, Wanda, and he told Mrs. Oliphant herself that he thought you were simply adorable."

"But he has seen you several times, Wanda. When he opens that big place on Sunset Hill—it's a real palace—he is going to give a reception. He is going to invite us, through Mrs. Oliphant, solely to meet you."

"What does he look like?" Wanda asked, suspiciously.

"I never saw him—but rest assured, a man with the millions Mr. Perkins has will look good to every marriageable girl, and you already have the inside track."

Wanda said no more. She was going swimming with Peter that afternoon. The water would be cold, and it would probably be the last swim of the season, but Peter would borrow the big launch he had been working on and they could dive from the bow and then get warm in the wonderful electrically heated cabin.

Peter was adorable. Wanda was as sweet to him as she could be, but Peter did not include in his love-making any suggestion of matrimony.

Mrs. Duane showed Wanda a lay-out of wonderful clothes that night—from the most beautiful little intimate garments straight through to a beautiful white ermine cape.

"But we can't afford it!" Wanda gasped.

Wanda Cries

"Yes we can—because at Mr. Perkins' reception next Thursday he will see you in these things and if I know anything at all you'll be engaged to him within a week!"

"But I——"

"This time, Wanda, I am to be obeyed."

And so they started for the reception at the great Perkins' mansion. Mrs. Duane drove. Long ago they had to give up their chaffeur.

"Don't get out and ruin your clothes," Mrs. Duane said, "I'll go and get help."

Wanda sat back in the car and cried. A face peered in. It was Peter!

"My! My! Such gorgeous clothes!" he said.

"Peter," Wanda said, desperately, "I'm wrapped up to sell!"

"What?"

"To Mr. Perkins who owns this place—stepmother is doing it because we're broke and in debt."

"Do you know this Perkins?"

"No, but he's seen me——" Wanda hesitated and explained.

Peter got into the car and started to turn it around.

"We'll drive down to the town clerk, get a license and be married right now," Peter said.

"Yes, Peter dear," Wanda answered, too happy to care about her stepmother.

And, when they were being married, Wanda learned something.

Peter Wade was Peter Wade Perkins! He didn't use his full name, because, being a millionaire, he was pestered too much. His greatest hobby was speedboat motors—until he met Wanda.

Peter Wade Perkins was only a half hour late in receiving his guests—and he then had a bride to assist him in receiving!

Q. and A. Department

Dear Aunt Bella—

What shall we do with slightly used dishwater? Our mother always insists on throwing it down the sink drain but we cannot do this. Only slightly used, with sparkling soap suds glistening on its surface, it seems a shame to snuff out its personality. What do you advise, O Mother of Waters?

Daisy and Maimie.

Ans.—If I thought you was sincere, I would try to think up an appropriate answer. But Aunt Bella is very quick to smell a rat, or, as in this case, two Rats! Twenty-three Skidoo!

Aunt ("Mississippi") Bella.

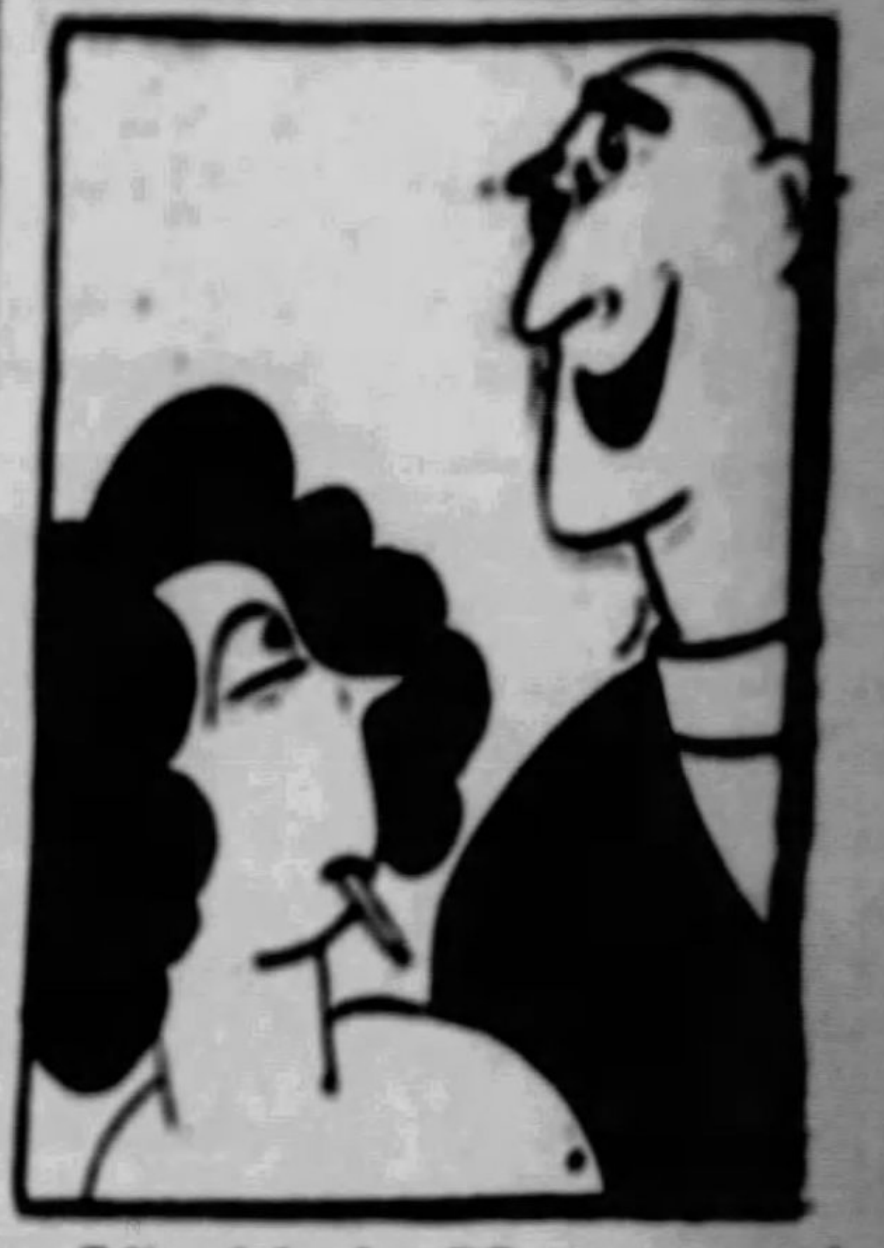
Lines Scribbled on a Cement Sidewalk



Editorial asks: "Can a woman who smokes properly care for children?"

Can lovely woman puff a pill
And well the role of mama fill?
Can such a mother give advice
About the things that are not nice
So that her children may grow to be
Sweet models of propriety?
Can she raise children fair of soul
Who won't be ads for birth control,
And will not frequently disgrace
The idea of a human race?
Oh, if she can we'll doff our lid
For smokeless mothers never did.

Auspicious Prologue

Col. Lindbergh's Triumph Over Fog and Snow in His Journey Here Augurs Well for New Service.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's airplane trip yesterday over the route between New York and Pittsburgh that will be plied by the craft in the new transcontinental service starting tomorrow was an auspicious prologue.

In coming to Pittsburgh the Colonel had to battle with almost the worst kind of weather that aviators are liable to encounter. He had to cope with mountains, mist and fog, snow and sleet, poor visibility and contrary winds. Yet he came through unscathed, and almost on schedule time.

We could have been given no more convincing demonstration of the reliability of air service.

At the same time assurance was given that risks will not be taken. It was given in Lindbergh's decision not to continue on to Columbus, and in his statement that while the mail will be transported regularly, passengers will not be carried when the weather is forbidding.

There is satisfaction for Pennsylvanians in Gov. Fisher's message, in which he reviews what we have done to improve our part of the transcontinental airway and pledges us to keep in the front ranks of aviation.

Hail to the new air line!

Fire Danger in Asylums

Blaze In Elwyn Training School Calls Attention to the Necessity of Eternal Vigilance.

After the Ohio penitentiary fire last spring, in which hundreds of convicts lost their lives, the Sun-Telegraph inquired about the fire hazard in Western Pennsylvania institutions in which mental patients are treated.

In the course of the inquiry the State school for the feeble-minded at Polk was visited. With standard bed capacity for 1,706 patients, based on an allowance of 50 square feet for each inmate, the school was found housing 2,528, an excess of 822 or 48 per cent. The beds were so close together in the dormitories that they touched, and some were double-decked. No fire drills, it was said, were ever given.

We are reminded of conditions at Polk by a fire which occurred Wednesday at an institution for the feeble-minded in the Eastern part of the State, the Elwyn Training School, near Media. A building housing 160 was destroyed, but the inmates were led out uninjured and without panic.

The experience of the Elwyn School may contain some valuable suggestions for the authorities at Polk and our other asylums.

Home Owners

Our Large Ratio Has a Good Deal to Do With the Failure of the Communists to Make Headway Here.

A group of Englishmen representing "building societies" (as they call them over there) have been in Pennsylvania during the last few days studying the methods of operation of our building and loan associations.

They could have come to no better state for the purpose. Pennsylvania is strong in building and loan associations. They are well managed and have been a blessing to multitudes who would have experienced difficulty in owning their homes if it had not been for the association's aid.

A spokesman for the visitors states that in America one out of every 10 homes is owned by the occupants, while in England the ratio is one to 20.

Our high ratio of home owners no doubt has a good deal to do with the failure of Communism to get anywhere in the United States.

In Great Britain in recent years Communists have occasionally been elected to Parliament. But Communists, for all the noise they make, never display much strength in our elections.

Communism and other such doctrines are not listened to kindly by people who own their homes.

Gasoline From Gas

Mellon Institute Can Tell Producers of Other Valuable By-Products That They Might Recover.

The Bureau of Mines has just issued a report which will be welcomed by those who are interested in the movement for the prevention of waste in industry. It reports that more than two billion gallons of gasoline, valued at $158,410,000, were extracted from the two trillion cubic feet of natural gas produced in the United States last year. That was an increase of 23 per cent over the "natural gasoline" output of the year before.

Practically all of our natural gas, the bureau tells us, is now treated for the extraction of gasoline before it is turned into the pipe lines. The heating power of the gas is not impaired by the removal of the gasoline.

A by-product which brings in more than $150,000,000 a year commands respect. Moreover, there are possibilities of a still higher return.

Mellon Institute, of the University of Pittsburgh, can tell the natural gas producers of many other by-products that might be used to commercial advantage. Mellon Institute researchers produced from natural gas ethane and propane, which propelled the Graf Zeppelin on its flight around the world. They have also produced from natural gas vinylite, a glass-like substance. In all 20 substances have been produced from natural gas.

Harvest Time

It's harvest time for buyers now

"Bugs" Baer Says:

Football

Colleges are so mad at each other that they are playing football night and day.

It started in a large stadium near a filling station. Eleven letter carriers were playing a scrimmage of mail order students.

Somebody carried politics into a huddle. Centrifugal force got working and the players forgot to hang on going around a curve.

The professor asked: "If Patrick Henry was such a great man, why didn't he have a megaphone?"

The dean of the university retorted: "Do you think Napoleon would have been more important if he had sat on three telephone books?"

The fields are flooded with powerful arc lights. The boys line up in two rows, a whistle blows and the grapefruit is served very suddenly.

Twenty-two enraged maniacs of All-American caliber jump on each other because they would die for dear old White River Junction.

They don't have to be fighting for their college. We have watched students for centuries and they would do the same thing for a railroad station, a lunch wagon or a stone jug.

Purdue and Michigan kick the stuffing out of their berets over a very fine malacca walking stick once used by Daniel Boone for poking Indians out of telephone booths.

Day football games are fiercer because of traditions. An old battered hat or a rubber bath sponge are beloved trophies and that's why ambulances have gongs on them.

We don't know what the night footballers will fight over, but they could get up a peach of an argument over a beer truck or the next dance with a club hostess.

There must be traditions. Even at night. And when those nocturnal scrimmagers get leaping all over the dial we suggest there would be a fine tinge to their slugging and booting if they fought for something like a lemon meringue or a beetle on a pin.

CYRUS WEST FIELD

By Archibald Henderson

It defies the mental powers of man to compute the blessings and advantages to mankind which have acrued from the laying of cables on the ocean floors for the transmission of messages from country to country, from continent to continent. The most mighty of all such cable-laying achievements was the laying of the Atlantic cable. Field has been called "the Columbus of modern times who by his cable moored the New World alongside the Old."

Cyrus West Field, the eighth child and seventh son of David Dudley Field, was born in Stockbridge, Mass., on November 30, 1819. His father was pastor of the village church, and he lived in a narrow atmosphere which afforded little or no opportunity for the development of his talents. Young Cyrus removed to New York, where he was not too proud to work as an errand-boy in a store. Later he removed to Lee, Mass., where he went into business with his brother, Matthew D. Field, a paper manufacturer. The partnership came to an end with a dismal financial failure.

Young Field set up in business for himself, and by his energy and business gifts, he succeeded in amassing a fortune of $250,000 in 13 years. At the age of 34, he was enabled to retire from business with his fortune made.

However, Field was an extremely energetic person, and quickly entered upon a great task which taxed all his efforts for many years. After meeting F. N. Gisborne, the Canadian scientist, who had already laid a cable between Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick, Field conceived the grand idea of laying a cable between Ireland and Newfoundland. Putting his business talents to work Field soon succeeded in enlisting a large amount of capital in the huge project. Peter Cooper was made president of the company, named the New York, Newfoundland and London Telegraph Company. The company was supported chiefly by English capital. The promoters were sufficiently fortunate to acquire an exclusive monopoly for 50 years to lay submarine cables across the Atlantic from the shores of Newfoundland.

Field threw himself into the enterprise, and during the course of his efforts to lay the cable made 30 trips to England. The first attempt, after three years of preparation, was made on August 5, 1857, when the American ship Niagara sailed from Valentia to meet in mid-ocean, if possible, the British ship Agamemnon. The breaking of the cable on the Niagara 335 miles from Valentia was a heart-breaking finish to the attempt.

Field, a man of unbreakable resolution, was not to be discouraged by a first failure. The same two ships, the next year, set out to meet each other, which feat they accomplished on June 25. After three unsuccessful attempts, the two ends of the cable were spliced, and the ships started off, paying out the cable, one for Ireland, the other for Newfoundland. More than 200 miles of cable had been successfully laid when a break came, just 20 feet from the stern of the Agamemnon. The project was again abandoned, only to be resumed a few weeks later. Success was achieved, and for several weeks messages between the two continents were exchanged. But finally on September 1st the cable ceased to work. Gloom succeeded elation. "Great was our discouragement," says Field, "and severe also were our struggles to raise money for what seemed to many people to be an insane venture."

So severe were the financial hardships imposed upon Field by these failures that he had to deny his family many luxuries. One of the family exclaimed: "Oh, if that old cable were only at the bottom of the ocean!"—to which Field replied: "That is just where I wish it to be." And then on the fifth attempt, in midsummer, 1866, it was finally successfully placed. From the United States Congress, Field received a gold medal and a note of thanks for his monumental achievement, of incalculable benefit to mankind.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Someone wrote a corking editorial the other day in the San Francisco Examiner about "Bugs" Baer and his lively brethern of "the knock-out humor and drop kick wit."

"There is," said the writer, "something lean and athletic about the minds of these men. They do not insist on 'cutting the bunk' or ham-stringing the hooey. They just DO it, with scarcely a twitch of the eyelash or a flick of the cigaret.

"They like good losers, but they don't get throaty about them. For example, after most Americans had worked themselves up into a warm tea bath of perspiring praise for Sir Thomas Lipton's sportsmanship, the incorrigible 'Bugs' informed the readers of the Examiner: 'Sure, he's a good loser, but look how much practice he has had.'

"And then that marvelous parody of the French marshall's words at the Marne: 'My right wing is shattered, my left wing is gone. I'll have to eat the neck.'

"THAT'S THE WAY IT IS WITH 'BUGS.' HE JUST HAS TO EAT THE NECK, TO BITE DOWN, WITH THAT SABER-TOOTH WIT OF HIS, TO THE BITTER BONE OF THINGS, UNDER ALL THE FLUBDUB."

"They don't get throaty"—isn't that a great line? So easy to get throaty about life . . . so easy to sob and slobber and simper and sigh instead of Facing Facts As Is.

Why do we do it? Because it takes more courage and intelligence and self-control to Face Facts than most of us possess.

Family affairs, for example. How we gush and gurgle over our Dear Relations. Yet the simple truth is that they're frequently a pain in the neck. Couldn't we remedy this condition if we tried? Couldn't we make our domestic arrangements harmonious and dignified? We could. But it would mean a lot of calm thought and direct action and would probably result in considerable unpopularity. So we get Throaty instead. Pretend that all is sweetness and delight. And, of course, get a big hand from our mawkish friends, who are equally afraid to tackle the Status Quo.

Friends. There's more Flubdub. Darling Maybelle. Dear Old Bill. Listen to us get throaty when the sacred bonds of friendship are mentioned. Yet Darling Maybelle and Dear Old Bill are apt to be a couple of human hang-nails and if we had an ounce of gumption we'd cut them out. But will we do it? Not a chance!

And ourselves. There's our pet provocation for throatiness. The sweet kisses, the admiring glances, the alibis and excuses we spill over ourselves, in public and private! Look at ourselves as we really are? Horrors, no! That's the last thing we want to do.

Why do our fine dreams end in a fog of futility? Why do our lives go haywire? That's why. Because we refuse to "bite to the bitter bone" of reality . . . because we refuse to see life as it really is. Life really is a very large adventure. It isn't pretty nor easy nor simple—but it's a great game. And there's a chance for each one of us in that game, provided we'll wipe our chins and get busy. But how many of us have the courage to do it? It's so much easier to stand on the side lines, roll our eyes and make pretty noises!

Text for Today

John, xiii:34.

A Loving Mother

But, Oh, How Foolish!

THIS IS THE GANNET, A SEA HAWK. SHE BREAKS HER NECK.

This bird, that looks fairly intelligent, is captured by being easily tricked into breaking its own neck.

The sea hawk is one of the most powerful divers of all the birds that get their living from the waters of the ocean. Unlike the osprey and other sea birds, this gannet, diving for fish, seizes them with its beak, not with its talons.

With eyesight marvelously keen, the bird, from a great height, can see a fish swimming below the water's surface. It descends to a height about 100 feet above the water, then dives straight down with terrific speed and force, seizes the fish in its beak, eats it or takes it away to the young ones.

Man, crafty and ingenious, noticing this, has found an easy way to make the gannet his prey.

He fastens a fish to a board, sets the board afloat on the water. The gannet flying overhead, and knowing nothing about boards, sees the fish apparently on the water's surface, dives straight down from 75 to 100 feet, hits the board, beak first, and breaks its neck. The man collects it and uses the same fish to deceive another gannet.

Let us humans, however, NOT smile superciliously or say to ourselves, "Poor ignorant bird."

It is not so long since many millions of us made perpendicular Wall street dives, and broke our necks, financially speaking.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Have you ever thought how you might react to the greatest trial of your life?

Would you become hysterical and lose your balance in loud lamentations?

Would you become frenzied and do yourself or others personal injury?

Would you behave in a manner that would alienate your friends rather than excite pity for you in your trouble?

It might be a good thing to meditate in advance on what you ought to do if tried to the utmost.

A great deal depends upon whether you have always had your own say or your own way through life.

It is too bad not to have had discipline of such a character that you must stop and think and not give up to wild despair.

Children, it is said, would never cry if they did not find that by crying they get what they want.

In older people it becomes a tantrum or a rage directed against events displeasing and over which they have no control, when they don't get what they want.

Sometimes they go so far as to think that they might have controlled things if—

But so long as we are human, a higher power will control and it is the part of men and women to accept what they cannot regulate.
